FOSS POINTS OUT LESSON OF HIS ELECTION TO CONGRESS

"Republican Leaders in Washington Have Made Up Their Minds Tariff Bill Won't Do; Further Revision is Needed"

Winner Recalls How Lodge Ordered Him Out of Party, "I Told Him, 'You Will Live to Regret You Made Statement'"

CONGRESSMAN-ELECT EUGENE N. FOSS, Democrat, whose overturn of the Fourteenth Congressional District last Tuesday has since been an international topic of discussion, expects a certificate of election from Secretary of the Commonwealth William M. Olin within a few days. Mr. Foss will then go at once to Washington.

At the office of the B. F. Sturtevant Company in Oliver street yesterday the Congressman-elect, whose fame as a fighter for tariff reform and Canadian reciprocity has suddenly become world-wide, said to interviewers that he has no "program."

"I am going down to Washington, gentlemen," Mr. Foss said, "keep my mouth shut, stay quiet and look on, until I have got my bearings.

Reports that came to him yesterday of a plan to give him the greatest demonstration Congress has seen in years when he goes down to be sworn in moved Mr. Foss almost blue. He can stand about anything but a fuss over him. He has been able to block the plan for a great celebration in Brockton. He fears he may not have the same influence in Washington.

"Not Rubbing It In."

"I stopped the Brockton show for two reasons," Mr. Foss said yesterday, "In the first place, I want the personal side of this fight to be forgotten. In the next place, Brockton is the home city of my recent opponent. I don't believe in rubbing it in."

"To my way of thinking, the election was an incident in the battle. There was a whole lot of fighting before that incident; there will necessarily be a lot to follow it.

"I will say this. I believe the election has made the situation clearer. I believe it will tend to make the future fight not nearly so fierce as it must have been otherwise. I am told by the Republican leaders in Washington have about made up their minds that the Payne-Aldrich bill will not do, and that there may be further revision of some of important schedules by the present Congress.

"I am now digging my way out from telegrams and letters three feet high.

Read Out of Party by Lodge.

"I recollect, for one thing, how I was ordered by Henry Cabot Lodge to get out of the Republican party. Mr. Lodge handed me my sailing orders a few years ago on the platform of Tremont Temple. It was at the close of a Republican State convention, where Senator Lodge ruled as absolutely as had politicians of the convention for a declaration in favor of putting lumber, iron, coal, and so on, on the free list, and for reciprocal trade relations with the Dominion of Canada.

"Card petitions had been signed by the thousand. None but registered voters were asked to sign them. Each gave his name and residence. I was proud of these great stacks of cards—I wasn't much of a politician.

"Mr. Lodge, when he got going, referred happily to these cards as 'these five-cent petitions,' and the convention roared. I tried to make a fight from the floor. What was done to me is history. When it was all over Senator Lodge said to me, right to my face:

"You're in the Wrong Party."

"'Foss, you are in the wrong party! There is no place in the Republican party in Massachusetts for a man who believes as you do and who makes the fight you have tried to make. You will make no headway with this cause of yours in the Republican party. I shall see to that.'

"I was stunned. As I say, I wasn't a politician. I was and am a manufacturer, a business man. I couldn't believe that one man had such a grip on my party in this great State that he could talk to one of its members like this.

"And so, I didn't step out right away, I remained. I continued the fight. It dawned on me after a time that while Henry Cabot Lodge is not the Republican party of Massachusetts, and does not speak for thousands and thousands of good Republicans,

Pope to Celebrate Easter Mass Today

Sixty Thousand Foreigners Crowd Into Rome for Devotions of Holy Week.

ROME, March 26.—Sixty thousand foreigners are here for holy week and the city is overcrowded. The Pope will celebrate Easter Mass in the Sistine Chapel and will give Communion to the congregation. Applications to attend the celebration were so numerous that the papal major dome closed the ticket list Wednesday.

The Pope is saddened by the destruction caused by the eruption of Mount Etna. He says he is gratified to know that so many foreign tourists have come to Rome for holiday week, but that his heart bleeds because of the reported calamities which afflict Italy. These misfortunes he ascribes to the wrath of God because of the prevailing religious indifference and he has ordered public prayers in all of the churches.

Constable, Not Emissary of System, Holds Up Financier.

He might have been an emissary of the System, but he wasn't.

He was just a constable, and he stepped up to Mr. Thomas W. Lawson yesterday on Tremont street, shoved some papers into the hands of that eminent banker, broker, racehorseman and author, and was gone.

The author of "Frenzied Finance" didn't lose his composure for even a moment "Hmp!" he said.

The papers had to do with the suit of John F. Donahue of Lynn against the theyon millionaire, the ad damnum being $250,000. Mr. Lawson's presence was officially requested for to-morrow before Samuel K. Hamilton, sitting as auditor. It was said that the process server had been trailing Lawson for a week. Donahue was at one time employed by Lawson in a confidential capacity. He says he has never been paid for his services in certain deals. Arrangements have already been made to postpone the examination at least a week.

KRITCHMAN GIRL GUILTY.

Connecticut Girl Convicted of Manslaughter.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 26.—Sophie Kritchman, the Naugatuck Lithuanian girl, who has been on trial for murder, was this afternoon found guilty of manslaughter for the killing of her suitor, Stanislas Kulvinkas, who was found stabbed and shot in fifteen places and bleeding to death in the woods near Union City, several months ago. Joe Mitchell, another suitor of her who was tried with her was found guilty of murder in the second degree. When Sophie heard the verdict she wept. Mitchell heard the announcement in the same impassive manner with which he has watched all proceedings of the trial. The jury was out six hours.

BALDWIN WINS.

Easily Defeats Lauder in Ten Rounds at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 26.—Matty Baldwin completely out-classed Leonard Lauder of Los Angeles in a ten-round bout at the New Orleans Athletic Club to-night.

Baldwin was the aggressor throughout the fight, but could not land a knockout punch. Lauder was on the defensive, and until the ninth round contented himself with keeping out of danger, with an occasional jab in return for the fierce right swings to the head and left uppercuts to the body.

Lauder fought only in flashes, and was unable to make an impression on the Boston lightweight, who took his hardest blows with smiles.

SHAW WARNS PARTY.

"People Want What They Want," Says ex-Senator.

Former Senator "Jim" Shaw of Manchester was at the Touraine last night. Asked about the victory of the Democrats in the Fourteenth district, Shaw said:

"There is a lesson in it for the Republican leaders. The lesson is that the people want first, direct nominations; second, an income tax; third, the right to pick their United States Senators direct.

"The people want what they want when they want it and if the Republican party doesn't give it to them some other will."

CODY AND WIFE MAKE UP.

Buffalo Bill Back Home after Ten Years Estrangement.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Mar. 26.—After being estranged for ten years, Colonel "Buffalo Bill" Cody and his wife have settled their differences, and to-night the couple are holding a reception.

Colonel Cody is back at his old home at Scouts Rest, where his wife has resided since the estrangement and will probably make his home there in the future.

Lipkowska Sails for Home.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Mme. Lydia Lipkowska, prima donna, sailed for home to-day on the Hamburg-American steamship America. "I have become very fond of America," she said to-day. "I am taking home especially the cheerfulness of the women of this country which would mean so much to the women of my own country."

SIX BIG CHANGES TO REVOLUTIONIZE FOOTBALL

SPLIT ON FORWARD PASS

CHANGES PLANNED IN FOOTBALL RULES

1—Removal of the five-yard restriction on the man who receives the ball from the snapper back.

2—Requiring seven men on the line of scrimmage. What seven it is has not yet been decided, but it is believed the seven line men are as at present.

3—Prohibition of the diving tackle. But how this is to be worked out has not yet been decided on.

4—Division of game into four periods of play. The time of intermissions has not yet been decided on.

5—No pushing or pulling or rumpling with the ball, and the same limits, due as to the use of hands in mass formation, as now apply to the use of his hands on his opponents.

6—Limitation of offside kick to twenty yards beyond the line of scrimmage.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The fourteen members of the intercollegiate football rules committee have gone away without doing anything in the matter of reforming the gridiron game. Many changes in the rules were discussed during the two days session at the Hotel Cumberland, and the committeemen know pretty well where they are at, for they drew up a tentative plan.

After a five-hour session to-day it was decided to adjourn to March 30, when the meeting will be held at the University Club in Philadelphia. This will give the men an opportunity to think out some of the knotty problems and also to conduct a few more experiments on the gridiron.

Fight On Forward Pass.

The forward pass continued to be the bone of contention at the session to-day. Six votes were taken on the matter of modifying or abolishing the pass altogether. The advocates of the gentler game wanted to kill it outright, but they were easily voted down. Nothing definite could be learned from the voting which was different every time. Alonzo Stagg and Walter Camp fought for the pass and their ideas of a modified form of it is likely to prevail.

The whole discussion really separated into one for a game that would give greater possibilities for end-running with rules that would do away with the old-time roughness, as against a game that would prohibit absolutely the mass play, especially on tackle.

The tentative plan that seemed to find most favor with the members of the committee dovetail the two policies so the pretty girl in the grand stand will hardly see a change in the great Fall sport if the proposed plan goes through. But the expert will detect it plainly enough, and he will be there with a knock or a boost.

General Plan for New Game.

The general plan for the new game as given out by Secretary E. K. Hall, embodies these ideas:

Removes five-yard restriction on the man who receives the ball from the snapper-back; requires seven men on the line scrimmage; prohibits the flying tackle; divides the game into four periods of fifteen minutes each, prohibits the pushing or pulling of the man with the ball, and limits the on-side kick to twenty yards behind the line of scrimmage.

Some of the members thought that the four period scheme would result in too much scoring. More of this will be known at the Philadelphia meeting, for experiments are to be made in the South on the proposition.

The "human battery," by which three men lock together and are pushed through the line cannot be done under the new plan. It is also proposed to make it arbitrary that ten yards is to be gained everywhere on the field.

Question of Protection.

The forward pass is to be allowed to cross the line of scrimmage as at present, with a five-yard limitation over the line, and is to be received by men at the ends and the backs. The ball will be brought back on an uncompleted pass, and the man receiving the pass is to be protected. How he is to be protected has not yet been figured out.

The style of game to be played contains two features. First, limiting the forward pass behind the line of scrimmage; second, limiting the width of the defense, either arbitrarily to five yards on each side of the ball, or to the scrimmage line of the offensive line.

HEIRESS ELOPES TO BOSTON WITH CHAUFFEUR

MAKE FAST TIME IN FLIGHT

Parents Kept in Dark, Young Couple Fearing Opposition to the Match.

WHEN, last Summer, James Dennison took the position of chauffeur for Richard Otis Cheney, the millionaire silk manufacturer of South Manchester, Conn., he little dreamed that within a year he would marry into one of the wealthiest families of Connecticut. But to-day Dennison, who is twenty-five years old and known as one of the most skillful automobile drivers who ever charted his course around Hartford, is in Boston with his bride, who was Miss Elsie Cheney. Mr. and Mrs. Dennison have been in Boston for some time.

Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Richard Otis Cheney made the announcement that their daughter had married Dennison, and this is taken by the happy couple as meaning forgiveness.

Run Large Silk Mills.

Mr. Cheney and his brother, Frank Cheney, Jr., are owners of the largest silk manufacturing plant in Connecticut, located at South Manchester, a few miles from Hartford.

While their father was many times a millionaire, however, the daughters have evidently not been affected by the thought that they were heiresses to a great sum of money. The elder daughter, Miss Margaret Cheney, was an ardent worker in the cause of bettering the social conditions of the working people. For some time she worked in the slums of Boston as one of the staff of the South End House.

The younger daughter, Miss Elsie, is twenty-one years old. She fell in love with the chauffeur of her father's big car.

Wed in Secret.

Knowing that her parents frowned upon her attachment for their employe, and fearing that they would prevent her if she asked permission to marry the man she loved, the young girl decided that it would be best if she were married secretly. When they eloped on March 6, the young people used the family automobile, and Dennison never ran it better nor faster than when he made that trip to the minister's. Fearing to return home, they came to Boston.

Mr. Dennison, it is said, will soon enter upon the duties of manager of a Boston automobile agency.

YOUTH SAVES TWO BABES.

John F. Hurley Carries Little Ones from Fire Danger.

When John F. Hurley, seventeen years old, was awakened at 12.35 o'clock this morning by the crackling of a blaze in the bathroom of his apartment on the second floor of the three-story wooden dwelling at No. 6 Washington square, Charlestown, his first thought was of the O'Brien children—William, four, and Catherine, three, asleep on the floor above. Hurley groped his way through smoke to a stairway, climbed to the top floor and carried the babies to the street in his arms. On his way down he aroused his uncle John, still asleep in his bed, and alarmed James Donovan and his wife, Annie, the other tenants of the second floor. The property loss was but $200.

Representative Coffin Dead.

WEST NEWBURY, March 26.—Death claimed the third Essex County member of the Massachusetts House to-night, when Representative Samuel P. Coffin of this district died at his home here of pneumonia. Mr. Coffin had been ill but a week. His wife is so ill from a similar malady that it was thought best not to inform her. Representative Coffin was 57 years old. A Democrat, he had been three times elected to the Legislature from a Republican district.

EMPLOYES REJECT MELLEN WAGE SCALE

New Haven Strike Threatened as the Peace Plan Is Turned Down.

NEW YORK, March 26. The committee of the trainmen, yardmen, and conductors of the New Haven road, who early this week voted to strike, if such a step should prove necessary, threw down the gauntlet again this afternoon when they absolutely refused to accept a compromise proposition made by President Mellen. This announcement was made early this evening, and the committee set out to find General Manager Samuel E. Higgins, who is negotiating for the road.

A final attempt before striking will be made by the committee Monday, and President Mellen will be given one more chance to offer better conditions.

Following the refusal of conductors and trainmen to accept a compromise offer from the officials of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad a few days ago in response to the request of the men for an advance in wages, representatives of the employes were hurriedly summoned to the Grand Central station to-day, and a more liberal proposition placed before them. The matters in dispute are to be further considered at another meeting Monday.

TAFT PLAYS GOLF

General Edwards His Partner in First Game for Months.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 26.—President Taft stopped work at half past two o'clock this afternoon, having decided to take advantage of the fine weather and play his first game of golf for several months. He, with General Clarence R. Edwards, U. S. A., as partner, and Senator Bourne of Oregon and Captain A. W. Butt, the President's military aide, went to Chevy Chase, proceeding immediately to the links. They enjoyed the sport immensely.

Lunacy Commission May Be Appointed to Test the Prisoner's Sanity.

AN important conference was held yesterday afternoon at the County Court House in this city on the trial of Mary Kelleher, accused of poisoning six members of her family, including three of her small children, which is set to start in East Cambridge a week from to-morrow.

At the meeting were Judges William H. Stevens and William F. Dana, who are to preside at the trial; Assistant District Attorney Charles J. Welt, representing District Attorney Higgins; and Hugh Bancroft and Harry N. Stearns, of counsel for the accused woman.

Lawyers who noted the conference believed that an attempt would be made on the part of the Government to have a lunacy commission appointed to examine Mrs. Kelleher. They admitted that this would be an almost unprecedented proceeding, the initiative coming from the representatives of the State.

Order of Chief Justice.

Chief Justice Aiken has ordered that all motions contemplated by either the Government or the lawyers for the defense should be made to the judges selected to preside at the trial. Such a motion, if made, would call forth argument from both sides.

Mrs. Kelleher has already been examined by doctors skilled in mental trouble, and they have pronounced her sane. She was examined by Dr. Edward Utley, the East Cambridge jail physician, and Dr. Lewis L. Bryant. The examination took place in the East Cambridge jail.

Should a lunacy commission be appointed it would necessitate another delay in the case. The accused woman has been in prison with the murder charges hanging over her over a year. The law requires a trial within a year of a person charged with murder. Should a lunacy commission be appointed it would result in the woman either being sent to an asylum for the insane, or a decision that she should stand trial for the alleged crime with which she is charged.

U.S. ORDERS COLEMAN TO QUICK TRIAL

Washington Officials Angry at Ease With Which Boy Looted Bank, and Federal Prosecutor Is Aroused by His Stories

Trial Expected to Start Wednesday—Examiner Reports Total Defalcation at Cambridge May Reach $250,000

GEORGE W. COLEMAN, the wrecker of the Cambridge National Bank, is to be placed on trial at once. So angry are the officials at Washington that a national bank should fall such an easy prey to a mere boy, and so displeased is United States District Attorney French because of the various stories that Coleman has told about his confederates in the bank looting that the young man may be afforded an opportunity by next Wednesday to tell his story under oath before a jury.

In the United States District Court there has been such alacrity handling of the docket that there are now half a dozen jail cases demanding instant attention when the court convenes on Tuesday with Judge Lowell on the bench. These six cases may be disposed of in a single day, and then Coleman's case will be called.

It is understood that District Attorney French heard from Washington yesterday, following the report made by National Bank Examiner S. N. Hunn on the closed bank, that the sooner Coleman got a taste of the law the better.

May Know Fate in a Week.

The Washington authorities regard the disclosures at the Cambridge bank as a severe indictment of the system of bank examinations, as well as of the men whose business it was to see that the money of the depositors was not stolen in such an audacious manner as it was carried off by Coleman.

Asa P. French, it is understood, will prosecute Coleman himself, and it may be that before another week the rather dapper young man, who declares that he is ready to take his medicine, will know just what is in store for him.

Coleman faces four indictments totalling sixty-three counts. Examiner Hunn reported at Washington that the defalcation would foot up between $200,000 and $250,000. The exact amount not yet being definitely known all of the pass books have not yet been examined.

The young man himself has figured that if he got the maximum penalty on all of the counts he would get a sentence that would aggregate 500 years and that if he were to get the minimum sentence on all of the counts he would be sent to Atlanta was indicted in forty-nine counts. It is for half that time.

40 or 50 Accounts.

It seems to be pretty well established now just how Coleman robbed the bank. His story of it coinciding with what was found out by National Examiner Hunn. He did it through a system of "kiting" checks with the assistance of a curb broker and his friend the chauffeur, Wilson W. Lockhart.

It is officially reported at Washington yesterday that Coleman, in order to get the money without being found out was compelled to manipulate from forty to fifty accounts. For this part in the transaction Lockhart was indicted in forty-nine counts. It is as to the manner Coleman spent the money, most of it within the last year, that his stories have varied so much.

Whether Coleman was responsible for it or not, it is known that the alleged facts that were given to United States District Attorney French and those put in the possession of District Attorney Pelletier were of an entirely different character. Another story has been ascribed to Coleman that differs from both the others.

It became known yesterday that Big Bill Kelliher, who ran away and then returned, saying that he was innocent, has disappeared again. In one of his latest stories Coleman declares that through Big Bill he lost something like $100,000 in playing faro in New York.

GOVERNMENT ORDERS IMMEDIATE TRIAL OF COLEMAN

to have a talk with the big fellow. Sughroe met Big Emmy when he reappeared in the Hub ten days ago, took him in a taxicab to the Coakley law office and then to his home in Winthrop.

In view of what Coleman said about Big Bill in his latest interview it is believed that he will not be seen in his Boston haunts for some time.

No. 1—He lost $60,000 in stock speculation, $30,000 in the last Mayoralty election, spent $15,000 in riotous living and dispensed $10,000 in a miscellaneous manner. This foots up only $145,000, but at the time this story was given it was believed that the bank had not lost more than that amount.

No. 2—$50,000 in a brokerage office, after which his partner jumped the city; dropped $40,000 on the Boston curb; invested $13,000 in the automobile business; spent $5,000 in publishing a secret society souvenir; spent $30,000 in wild living; bought $15,000 worth of jewelry for his friends; lent a few thousand to Big Bill Kelliher and to other friends.

Lost $180,000 in Faro.

No. 3—Lost $180,000 furnishing money for Big Bill Kelliher and others to play faro in New York. Most of it he furnished Big Bill since last July, between that May and the time he left Boston he visited New York between forty and fifty times with from $4,000 to $5,000 in his grip each time he went back for more which he got and returned with it.

Just what the truth is about how this vast sum was lost, as well as just about the faro gang that has plied its trade so successfully in Boston for years, will come out at the Coleman trial.

Coleman of late has been acting a great deal like a boy who did not appreciate the serious position that he is in. He says that there is no way that he can escape from the toils of the law and that he expects to spend the next 10 years in Atlanta. He has learned that there do not allow diseases among the prisoners that he recates that fact, saying that he usually smokes five or six cigars a day.

That he still has some faith in Big Bill Kelliher was shown by his remark that he believed that Kelliher had been victimized the faro game that they afterward played in New York they would occasionally have won. He said that he told Kelliher that he got the money wrong, but that he did not tell him he so many words that it came from the bank. When asked if he thought Kelliher ought to be punished for his part in his dissipation, he remarked:

Given Money by Big Bill.

"Well, he has a wife and family."

In the latest of Coleman's stories he says that Bill Kelliher gave him $200 with which to pay his debts and get out of Boston and that Kelliher telegraphed him $200 to Kansas City with which to either get away further or come back. When this statement came to the eyes of United States District Attorney Frank Jenney yesterday he made this statement:

"My attention has been called to an article which appears in some of the morning papers purporting to be a statement of George W. Coleman, made yesterday, in the presence of his counsel, a member of the Suffolk county bar, and a newspaper reporter. Such a publication at this stage of the proceedings in the United States Courts is likely to have an unfortunate effect upon the administration of justice. It would obviously be highly improper for me to make any further statement upon it, and I have declined to do so."

Father Stops Wedding.

One of the latest developments of the Coleman case was the report that he was to be married to Miss Mamie Hightower of Kansas City, who came on here for the purpose. A license was obtained for the couple to wed in Cambridge last Tuesday. One afternoon newspaper yesterday reported that Coleman had been married. Soon after that Coleman's mother gave an emphatic denial to the story that they had been married and he one in Cambridge who has the power to perform a marriage ceremony could be found who would admit that they had officiated.

Albert G. Coleman, the father of the young man, when asked about the forthcoming marriage yesterday, said:

"There will be no wedding. I have forbidden it."

"But just George of age, and can't he do as he pleases?"

"It is true that he is of age, but he is under great obligations to me and he appreciates that fact."

This means that the father of the boy had gone on his bond and that if he though George was going to wed against his wishes at this time the bond might be forfeited and in that case he would be thrust back into jail.

Watched by Authorities.

It might be said in this connection that there is no danger that should Coleman take a notion to run away, he would be able to accomplish it. The Federal authorities have seen to that. It is not safe to say that he would not get far, if even out of the city.

Coleman has declared that it would do him no good to run, because he could be extradited from Canada and other foreign countries, nods he could be arrested if he ever set foot in this city and the fear days that he was in the Charles Street Jail he took pains to let it be known he considered himself a prisoner.

In a chat yesterday with a reporter Coleman declared that if he had been left alone for two years he would have cleared $200,000.

"Everything I ever touched," he said, "and he never cracked a smile, "yielded large returns."

Promiser to Repay All.

He was not thinking of the bank then, apparently. Continuing he said:

"I made more than $30,000 before I was twenty-two years of age. The opportunities to make money are limitless. I was foolish to take the bank's money. If I should be left undisturbed I would not take a quarter of a million dollars for the properties that I have now.

"But I shall take what comes, and at the first opportunity I shall repay every cent that I owe. The depositors of my bank are as much as though it was worthless broke, as Andrew Carnegie owns it. For I made it just as easily as I spent it. It was easy come, easy go."

The report of Bank Examiner Hann to Comptroller of the Currency Lawrence O. Murray, at Washington, was in part as follows:

Bank Examiner's Report.

"The examiner states that the exact amount of the defalcation cannot be determined until all the pass books have been called in and balanced, but that it will reach somewhere between $200,000 and $250,000. The books of the bank indicate that the larger portion of the defalcation occurred during the past year.

"It appears that Coleman kept a small personal account in the bank, but never had a pass book, and in consequence his account was never balanced. He would draw his personal checks for sums amounting to three, four or five thousand dollars an another bank and turn them over for a corn broker's check for a like amount, payable to the order of Wilson & Bodwell.

"Lockhart, upon the identification of Van Blarcom, the broker, would have these checks cashed at the bank at which the broker kept his account and turn the money over to Coleman.

Coleman's checks would be deposited by the broker in the bank in which he carried his account and would be sent the next morning through the Clearing House and subsequently shortened his own checks from the incoming mail.

"It appears that Coleman stole $180,000 approximately through a system of "kiting" checks with the Boston Clearing House Coleman in bringing forward balances from day to day manipulated from forty to fifty accounts."

SPELL DOWN MEN, WOMEN'S SLOGAN

And There's a Rumor That the Gents of Rockland are Booking Out of Match.

ROCKLAND, March 26.—Report spread around the town tonight that some of the men selected for the Commercial Club spelling team were trying to back out of the spelling match arranged for April 5 in Rockland Opera House against the champion spellers of the Rockland Women's Club.

Ever since the women of the Women's Club challenged the men of the Commercial Club to a spelling bee for the benefit of the District Nursing Association—a challenge which was hastily accepted—the women have been studying their spellers like sixty.

Now the men are said to be a trifle scared. It wouldn't do, of course, to have the women spell down the men. They would never hear the last of it.

President Alfred W. Duncan of the Commercial Club, who arrived back from New York tonight, pooh-poohed the idea of the men being afraid.

"Of course the men are not afraid," said Mr. Donovan, "it is true that John J. Spence did withdraw and I heard some time ago that Fred Sprague was going to wed against his wishes at this time the bond might be forfeited and in that case he would be thrust back into jail.

Watched by Authorities.

It might be said in this connection that there is no danger that should Coleman take a notion to run away, he would be able to accomplish it. The Federal authorities have seen to that. It is not safe to say that he would not get far, if even out of the city.

He was not thinking of the bank then, apparently. Continuing he said:

"I made more than $30,000 before I was twenty-two years of age. The opportunities to make money are limitless. I was foolish to take the bank's money. If I should be left undisturbed I would not take a quarter of a million dollars for the properties that I have now.

"But I shall take what comes, and at the first opportunity I shall repay every cent that I owe. The depositors of my bank are as much as though it was worthless broke, as Andrew Carnegie owns it. For I made it just as easily as I spent it. It was easy come, easy go."

The report of Bank Examiner Hann to Comptroller of the Currency Lawrence O. Murray, at Washington, was in part as follows:

Bank Examiner's Report.

"The examiner states that the exact amount of the defalcation cannot be determined until all the pass books have been called in and balanced, but that it will reach somewhere between $200,000 and $250,000. The books of the bank indicate that the larger portion of the defalcation occurred during the past year.

"It appears that Coleman kept a small personal account in the bank, but never had a pass book, and in consequence his account was never balanced. He would draw his personal checks for sums amounting to three, four or five thousand dollars an another bank and turn them over for a corn broker's check for a like amount, payable to the order of Wilson & Bodwell.

"Lockhart, upon the identification of Van Blarcom, the broker, would have these checks cashed at the bank at which the broker kept his account and turn the money over to Coleman.

Coleman's checks would be deposited by the broker in the bank in which he carried his account and would be sent the next morning through the Clearing House and subsequently shortened his own checks from the incoming mail.

"It appears that Coleman stole $180,000 approximately through a system of "kiting" checks with the Boston Clearing House Coleman in bringing forward balances from day to day manipulated from forty to fifty accounts."

BOSTON ORCHESTRA ENDS 24TH SEASON

NEW YORK, March 26.—The twenty-fourth season of the Boston Symphony orchestra passed into history with this afternoon's concert in Carnegie Hall. The last spelling match arranged for April 5 in Rockland Opera House against the champion spellers of the Rockland Women's Club.

Ever since the women of the Women's Club challenged the men of the Commercial Club to a spelling bee for the benefit of the District Nursing Association—a challenge which was hastily accepted—the women have been studying their spellers like sixty.

Now the men are said to be a trifle scared. It wouldn't do, of course, to have the women spell down the men. They would never hear the last of it.

President Alfred W. Duncan of the Commercial Club, who arrived back from New York tonight, pooh-poohed the idea of the men being afraid.

"Of course the men are not afraid," said Mr. Donovan, "it is true that John J. Spence did withdraw and I heard some time ago that Fred Sprague was going to wed against his wishes at this time the bond might be forfeited and in that case he would be thrust back into jail.

Watched by Authorities.

It might be said in this connection that there is no danger that should Coleman take a notion to run away, he would be able to accomplish it. The Federal authorities have seen to that. It is not safe to say that he would not get far, if even out of the city.

Coleman has declared that it would do him no good to run, because he could be extradited from Canada and other foreign countries, nods he could be arrested if he ever set foot in this city and the fear days that he was in the Charles Street Jail he took pains to let it be known he considered himself a prisoner.

In a chat yesterday with a reporter Coleman declared that if he had been left alone for two years he would have cleared $200,000.

"Everything I ever touched," he said, and he never cracked a smile, "yielded large returns."

Promiser to Repay All.

He was not thinking of the bank then, apparently. Continuing he said:

"I made more than $30,000 before I was twenty-two years of age. The opportunities to make money are limitless. I was foolish to take the bank's money. If I should be left undisturbed I would not take a quarter of a million dollars for the properties that I have now.

MRS. KELLEHER MAY BE DECLARED INSANE

possible motive of collecting insurance money, there was a remarkable situation. Mrs. Kelleher was a hard working woman and apparently a capable housekeeper. Her husband, Stephen Kelleher, was a steady man. There were no elements of discord in the family. But still at once death became the subject of much gossip in the neighborhood.

Albert C. Hall, the general boiler is that Commissioner Parker is one of those certain to feel the municipal axe about May 1. He is a resident of Milton, appointed by Mayor Hibbard, and his only experience in fire matters has been gleaned as head of the Milton department.

There are already several candidates for Parker's job, and one who is prominently mentioned is Manuel Commissioner Benjamin W. Wells. His appointment has been urged upon the Mayor, and it is said that he is certain to get by the Civil Service examiners.

The retention of Chief Mullen is a foregone conclusion. The Mayor places in the opinion of the fire underwriters, for the chief has never been a political friend of the Mayor.

Died of Typhoid.

Mary Kelleher, a small daughter of the accused woman, died on November 13, following the death of her father. Bronchitis was alleged to have been the cause of death. Then for a period of about a year and a half there was no death in the family.

Willie Kelleher, a little son of Mrs. Kelleher, died on June 30, 1908, and his death was quickly followed by the sudden death of his young sister, Catherine, which took place on July 22 of the same year.

The death of Catherine, following a lawn party at which she had eaten some berry pie, looked suspicious, but it was first believed to have been caused by ptomaine poison. The police began to dig into the previous deaths. The attention of District Attorney Higgins was called to the situation, and on December 21 the body of Catherine Kelleher was exhumed and exhumed. Under the direction of Professor William T. Whitney of Harvard College an analysis was made, and it was found that the girl had been poisoned with arsenic.

$10,000 SCHOOL SURPLUS.

Haverhill Commissioners Have Money Left.

HAVERHILL, March 26.—The new high school commissioners to-day made public a statement in which they figure that they will have a surplus of $10,450 from the appropriation of $350,000 authorized for the erection of the building. The structure, it is now expected, will be ready for occupancy by June 1.

WELLS MENTIONED FOR HIS OLD PLACE

Mayor Will Not Commit Himself on Petition for Fire Commissioner Parker.

"I will give the matter consideration and may have something to say later," said Mayor Fitzgerald when the petition of the fire underwriters asking for the reelection of Fire Commissioner Parker was shown to him yesterday. "If my memory serves me right, a similar petition was presented for former Commissioner Wells," the Mayor added significantly.

TIME TO TRY POSLAM

New Healing Agent Promptly Disposes of Every Skin Affection.

The time to try poslam for eczema or any skin trouble is before experimenting with anything else. Then, too, it is the least expensive way, because poslam will do the work, making treatment by other means unnecessary. But no matter how many different things have failed, poslam should yet be used, for its healing properties are assured even in the most aggravated cases. All doubt as to its action is removed in the prompt ease with which it begins its work, stopping the itching with very first application. Eczema, acne, tetter, salt rheum, psoriasis, barber's and every form of itch yield to it readily and are permanently eradicated.

In less severe skin ailments, such as pimples, rash, herpes, ha bleeds, inflamed skin, etc., poslam does over night, and a small quantity helps acquired. For minor troubles a special 50-cent package is provided, and this as well as the regular $2 size may be obtained at all of Riker-Jayne-Dyer Stores and Drug Dept. Hospital Stores, also other good drug stores.

Those for trial purposes may be had free of charge by writing direct to the Emmerson Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

YOU CAN WEAR NEW 'CHANTECLER' TODAY

Chantecler hats, taffetas and broadcloths may be safely worn in the Easter parade to-day. "Sunday," they said up top of the Federal Building, where experts study the horizon and the form sheets, "will be fair. Monday will also be fair, and warmer. Monday night, however, there will probably be local showers." The maximum temperature yesterday was 54; the minimum 44.

Three cities in the United States reported temperatures of 84; Kansas City, Bismarck, N. D., and New Orleans. In Miles, Montana, and St. Paul, Minnesota, rain fell on the just and the Stand Patters. Montreal, just to be offish, decided on a temperature of 42 to wear its furs a spell longer.

The temperature to-day ought to be about like yesterday's. Last year Easter came on April 11. The maximum temperature that day was 48, the lowest 25.

RESCUED FROM RUINS.

Weakened by the high winds of Friday, a big, unused barn on the estate of Josiah Shurtleff, Jr., in Cushman avenue, Revere, collapsed at 8 o'clock last night with a crash that was heard at a great distance.

Inside was a Providence man, Sylvester McWilliams, who had spent the day looking for work, and was on his way to Lynn when darkness overtook him. McWilliams sought shelter there.

It was 9:30 before policemen, physicians and neighbors dug him out of the debris. His left foot was crushed, his side injured and his face bruised. He was hurried to Frost Hospital in Chelsea.

Superintendent of Schools Clarence H. Dempsey heard the crash and spanned Shurtleff. They were examining the ruins when they heard McWilliams calling faintly for help. Police Sergeant Chire of Chelsey and a squad of police and citizens worked with saws, hatchets and crowbars. McWilliams, despite his injuries, directed them from time to time.

CITIZENS TO AIR VIEWS.

Mayor for Public Meetings on Important Matters.

An opportunity for the public to come in closer touch with the city's business will be afforded through the adoption by Mayor Fitzgerald of a suggestion made by the Boston Society of Architects.

A committee suggested that meetings be held monthly at which the representatives of associations or bodies interested in municipal affairs be given an opportunity to express their opinion.

Mayor Fitzgerald will send to the Council to-morrow a revision of the ordinance that will permit the meetings to be held regularly at the Council table.

SHIRO TAKABO IS SUED.

Girl's Parents Bring Action Against Merchant for $10,000.

Shiro Takaba, a leading Back Bay Japanese merchant, is defendant in a suit for $10,000 brought by the parents of pretty nineteen-year-old Miss Hoshi Cockrane of Roxbury. Miss Cockrane was saleswoman and bookkeeper at Takaba's store on Boylston street. Takaba lived with the Cockrane family about two months. A keeper has been placed in Takaba's Japanese store.

SPECTACULAR FIRE IN SOUTH BOSTON

Explosion Drives Jeweler from West Broadway Store After Midnight—Loss $1,000.

A spectacular fire, with explosions and great masses of flame that shot into the street, was witnessed by a large crowd of men and women on West Broadway, South Boston, just after midnight.

The fire was in the two-story building at No. 437 West Broadway. It did only about $1,000 damage, but furnished plenty of excitement.

There was an explosion in the jewelry store of Max Danziger as Danziger was looking up the place. Flames shot out from him and he just managed to make his way out.

Danziger says he does not know what caused the fire and that he knows of no inflammable material in his place. He was the heaviest sufferer, about $2000 of the total loss falling on him.

The undertaking shop of W. J. Cassidy, next door, suffered about $200 damage and the whitewash place of Alfred Pickett, upstairs, was damaged about $200. The damage to the building is about $200.

The fire was under control in less than thirty minutes.

SLAYER BURNS BODY.

Young Girl Answering Advertisement Is Killed.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The charred body of Ruth Anna Wheeler, the fifteen-year-old stenographer, who disappeared last Thursday, was found to-day in a fire escape in the rear of No. 222 East Seventy-fifth street.

The house adjoins No. 224, in which Albert W. Wolters, now held on a charge of homicide, lived. Wolters had been arrested on a charge of abduction, but the charge was changed when the girl's body was found. The body was wrapped in an oilcloth gunny sack and was burned almost beyond recognition. Charred fragments of a rope tied to the neck showed that the girl had been strangled.

She had just been graduated from a business college and had been sent to No. 224 East Seventy-fifth street in reply to a letter asking for a stenographer. The inquiry was signed A. W. Walter.

BAN ON LATONIA TRACK.

Licenses Will Be Revoked if Kentucky Horsemen Race There.

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 26.—The Kentucky Racing Commission today adopted a resolution providing for the walk-up starting system for Kentucky tracks. The commission has also passed a rule that trainers, owners, jockeys, apprentices or others who race on a track in Kentucky, not licensed by the commission, shall have their licenses revoked, and any association which allows the same will lose its license.

This rule was passed to prevent horses which race at Latonia track, Covington, from starting at Latonia until the latter pays a $2,000 fine imposed by the commission because bookkeepers were allowed to operate at the Latonia track.

FIREBUG IS SUSPECTED.

Incendiary origin is claimed for the two-alarm fire which gutted and totally destroyed the old Kent hair factory in Saugus Centre last night. The fire authorities and the fire department will investigate to locate the "fire-bugs."

The factory, used of late years by Ernest Butler as a store-house for hay and grain, was seventy-five years old. The loss was $1,000. A shower of sparks caught on the tool house of the Lynn Gas & Electric Company, adjoining the factory, and the loss to this company was $300.

DOUBLE LEGAL STAMPS MORNINGS

PATROLMAN SUED BY 'MERRY WIDOW'

Mrs. Silver, Chelsea Fire Victim, Asks $10,000 for Breach of Promise.

MRS. KATHRYNE F. SILVER, who once described herself as "a merry widow" has brought suit for breach of promise against Patrolman John J. Shanahan, one of Revere's "finest" and asks the courts to award $10,000. Mrs. Silver is a rather attractive woman of perhaps thirty-five years and resides at No. 729 Ocean avenue, on Shanahan's beat. Charles F. Hitt is her counsel.

Speaking of her suit yesterday, Mrs. Silver said:

"Mr. Shanahan and I were to have been married last Thanksgiving. We had been keeping company for about one year when he ceased to call on me. This was last July.

"I lived in Chelsea and was burned out in the big fire. We then moved to Revere and shortly after coming here I met Mr. Shanahan. Shanahan smiled at me and afterwards I inquired from another policeman about him. He told me that Shanahan was a good fellow and that he was single. So I said: 'The next time he comes around introduce us. You can tell him that I am a merry widow.'

"Shanahan came over to the house often. We went to the theatre frequently together, and I have here all the presents with his name signed to them.

Mrs. Silver exhibited a pile of programs, one of them bearing the inscription: "With my darling, J. S."

"Mr. Shanahan finally came to the house every night. He proposed to me and we were to be married last Thanksgiving.

"One night as I was returning home on the car a man who sat near me began to talk about Mr. Shanahan and said he was glad he was not going to get married. The man also insulted me and I brought suit against him for $1,000 and recovered $200.

"Afterward I met Shanahan and he said, 'It is all off between you and me.' Since that time he hasn't come near me."

Mrs. Silver has been a widow about five years. She has a fourteen-year-old daughter.

STATE POLICE BAR GIRL, 14, IN PLAY

Charming little Miss Dorothy E. Wheaton of Newton has decided to cut up her sister's costume and make dresses for her dollies out of it. That's because Chief Johnanos H. Whitney, of the State police, has stopped the little girl from appearing next Wednesday night in an amateur show at Players' Hall, West Newton. Dorothy is fourteen and has talent for the stage.

The performance is to be given by the Junior Guild of St. John's Episcopal Church. The play is "His Model Wife," a comedy. Dorothy took one of the parts, rehearsed it, the company was satisfied, Dorothy was satisfied, her parents were satisfied and so was the Newton Board of Aldermen when they took the trouble to give her permission to appear.

Chief Whitney heard of it and put a ban on the girl's performance. Now Dorothy is a very much disappointed little girl. This is what she said last night:

"I think it was silly of the police to interfere with me. If they were not so strict in some things as they are with me it would be better for us all. Papa told me that in Rhode Island children are allowed to work late into the evening, and here they will not let me perform a little part which will not last later than 9 o'clock on only one night of the year. Of course I suppose that Whitney is only doing his duty and enforcing the law on me. Goodness me, but I feel wicked. Oh it is just as if I was a criminal—the State Police have me. I had my costume all ready and my part all learned. I was going to see the show. You don't think he police will arrest me, do you? But just the same I am going and see it all! Maybe I'll write and complain to someone, but I'm wicked."

Mr. Wheaton, father of the little girl, said: "I think the whole matter is ridiculous."

SOLDIER'S WIFE DESERTED.

Two Children, Also, Wonder Why Sergeant Hasn't Returned.

Six miles down the harbor, on Long Island, the men of Fort Strong are wondering about the disappearance of Commissary Sergeant James White, whose private furlough expired a week ago yesterday, and whose accounts are said to have developed a shortage amounting to $500. White left a wife and two little ones behind him at the Fort. A Boston girl, some say, disappeared at almost the same time.

White, a man of thirty-five, has been in the service eight or ten years. Any shortage in his accounts, it is said, will fall on Lieutenant Gnilup, the quartermaster. Sergeant Stokes has been placed in charge.

Boys Start Fire.

Fire which started in the basement of the two and one-half story wooden farm house at No. 600 Walkhill street, Dorchester, known as the Lawrence estate, destroyed that structure last night. The property is unoccupied, and has been condemned. District Chief Tabor said that the fire was undoubtedly set by boys.

BETTER TUNNEL DEAL WANTED BY CHAMBER

Directors Oppose Making the Boston Holding Bonds Legal Investments.

What benefit the proposed railroad tunnel between the North and South stations will be to the city of Boston and under what conditions the tunnel should be built and owned are problems which are to be discussed by the Boston Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting which is to be held next Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Board of Directors, which has been considering this and other vitally important problems, yesterday reported that in its opinion the tunnel would be of great value to the city. At the same time the Board believes that the city should not assume any financial obligation in connection with the construction of the tunnel unless it involves at the same time a new and desirable teaming thoroughfare upon decidedly favorable terms. Such terms have not yet been suggested, the report says.

The Board believes that the city should have the right to purchase the tunnel after a certain time and that the construction of the tunnel should comply with regulations prescribed by the Railroad Commission.

At the same time the directors think it unwise for the Legislature to make the bonds of the Boston Holding Company legal investments for Massachusetts savings banks. The directors, in their report, approve the principle of exempting from taxation the bonds and notes of the Boston Railroad Holding Company to the extent of non-taxable securities held by the company against which bonds and notes are issued.

CUPID PUBLISHES A LIST FOR EASTER

Mr. D. Cupid, who seems to have been making the best of the forty days, and who agrees with Senator Lodge that there is lots of twinkle-twinkle happening in the high cost of living, gave to the press yesterday a partial list of the more notable affairs arranged recently through his historic and popular old house. The list included the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Francis Galvin announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Alice Marguerite Galvin, to Joseph Samuel Willoughby of Baltimore, the wedding to take place in June.

The engagement has been announced of Dr. Arthur Sheldon Cooley, to Miss Ethel Beth L. Rear of Evansville, Ill. Dr. Cooley is well known here, especially from his course of lectures which he gave at the Public Library. The wedding is to take place on April 15, at the home of Mrs. Belinda S. Evansville. Dr. and Mrs. Cooley will spend some time in Boston before they sail in June for a trip abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. George Herbert Palmer, of the Ledges in Weymouth, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edith Humphrey Baker, to Bourn Wood of Milton, son of the late George Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. McManus of Dorchester announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Louise Agnes McManus, to John Francis Dever, Jr., Harvard '05.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Josephine M. Finley of Brookline, to Frederick J. Kasper of Evanston, Ill., Mr. Kasper is a graduate of the Harvard Law School, class of '07.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. F. W. Quinn announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Susan Clayton Quinn, to William Dewey Beach of this city.

Mrs. William Gardner Hayden of Bedford Springs announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Elsie Eliot Hayden, to Dr. Harold Watson Estey of Boston.

Mrs. John Warner Carter of West Newton announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Lucy Lazelle Carter, to John Parsons Beech of Boston.

MELROSE GIRL MISSING.

Mary Crayton Disappeared After Leaving Home for Church.

Mr. and Mrs. John Crayton of No. 158 Linwood avenue, Melrose, are searching for their sixteen-year-old daughter Mary, who disappeared from her home in that city on March 18. When she left home at 7:45 P. M. on the night mentioned, to attend services in St. Mary's Catholic church, she did not return home that night, and since then nothing has been learned concerning her. Mrs. Crayton says the girl is invalid for a year.

"Mary never had any love affair that I know of," said her mother last night, "and she was always a home girl."

The missing girl is blonde, has large blue eyes and is pretty. She is 5 feet 6 inches in height and of medium build. She wore a dark, tailor-made suit, a black braid, trimmed with black silk, and black pat buttons. She wore a necklace of green beads and gold beads, alternating with a larger green glass bead as the centre piece.

Charged with Jewel Theft.

Arthur H. Grover of No. 19 Dix street, Dorchester, was arrested yesterday charged with stealing $1,640 worth of diamonds from Sol Kanter, a jewelry dealer of the Jewelers' building. He was held in $2,000 for examination on March 31. Grover, it is charged, took five ancient diamonds to show to a customer and never returned the goods or the money for them.

PARALYSIS MENACE TO BOSTON INFANTS

Spread of Disease Is Alarming as Physicians Hunt for Cure.

Infantile paralysis is becoming alarmingly prevalent, especially in Massachusetts, and the disease—although fatal only in a small per cent. of cases—leaves a large majority of its victims incapacitated or paralyzed for life, said Dr. John Lovett Morse of the Harvard Medical School faculty in his lecture at the Medical School last evening.

"Infantile paralysis," Dr. Morse said, "is becoming altogether too common. From 1880 to 1884 there were 23 recorded cases, during between 1905 and 1909 there were 6196. It is increasing especially in Massachusetts. During the epidemic of 1909 there were about 300 cases in Boston, although this number is not abnormal in proportion to the number of infants in this city.

"So far, no vaccine, serum or specific treatment has been discovered for this disease, but I believe scientists are on the verge of such a discovery. That we are close to a new era in our understanding and treatment of the disease seems certain from the discoveries of physicians. That no such discoveries would have been possible if live animals had not been used in the experimentation is equally certain.

"There is still a marked difference of opinion as to whether the disease is contagious. The safer course is for parents to at once remove their children to some other locality if they happen to live in a district where an epidemic of the disease appears."

SHACKLETON VISITS PRESIDENT TAFT

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Sir Ernest Shackleton, who went to within 111 miles of the South Pole, and Lady Shackleton, were received by President Taft at the White House to-day. The visit to Mr. Taft followed a meeting with officials of the National Geographical Society at the British embassy.

Sir Ernest and Lady Shackleton met many members of the embassy during their Washington stay. The smart set of the capital is eagerly hastening to do honor to the intrepid explorer, and many entertainments have been planned. To-day the British ambassador and Mrs. Bryce entertained in their home at a luncheon. This afternoon was signalized by a reception to Lady Shackleton at the embassy, which 200 or 300 guests from official, diplomatic and resident circles attended.

Sir Ernest to-day attended a meeting between himself and Miss Wilkes, daughter of the famous Lieutenant Wilkes, the American explorer in the Antarctic continent.

SHACKLETON HERE THURSDAY FOR TALK ON HUNTING POLE

Sir Earnest H. Shackleton, who is to be entertained to-night and to-morrow night in Symphony Hall, is to arrive here from New York, next Thursday morning. He is to stop at the Touraine. While here he will be the guest of the Victorian club under whose auspices he is to deliver his lecture. The Harvard Crimson will also entertain him at luncheon and in the afternoon Sir Ernest and Lady Shackleton will make some personal calls. President Maxwell of Boston University will preside at the lecture. After the lecture the explorer is to be tendered a banquet at the Algonquin Club.

CANADIAN TARIFF PEACE.

Friendly Understanding Assured, Says Secretary Knox.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—There is to be no tariff war with Canada. An agreement has been reached. The following statement was given out by Secretary of State Knox to-day:

"The negotiations between the President and the Canadian representatives, which were begun at Albany some days ago, were resumed at Washington, and were concluded. They have taken a form which gives assurance that a friendly understanding will be arrived at immediately. It is expected that an announcement will be made simultaneously at Washington and at Ottawa on Wednesday the 30th instant."

COMET IS COMING AGAIN.

In April Starry Wonder May Be Seen During Night.

Halley's comet, watched by all astronomers as one of the wonders of this generation, has disappeared from view and will not be seen until early in April. Early this month it was visible through glass for a short time after sunset, north of the sun. When it appears again it will be a morning comet, visible only before sunrise. From the middle of April until June there will be chances to observe the comet in all its glory.

Negro Porter Buys Auto from His Tips

Gene, Who Runs on the Knickerbocker Limited, Also Owns His Home in New York.

Gene Dabney's Boston friends were laying for him last night to ask him about that house and automobile he has bought in New York from his tips on the Knickerbocker Limited.

Gene is one of the colored porters on President Charley Mellen's swell express between Boston and New York. Gene has been a porter on the New Haven for four years, and his run on the Knickerbocker is one of the classiest assignments a porter can get.

Eight dollars a week is the official pay of a Pullman porter from the railroad company, but tips on the Knickerbocker, as shown by the following:

Gene was speeding down Eighth avenue, in New York at a fast clip in an automobile. He was brought before Magistrate Corrigan for overspeeding.

"Whose chauffeur are you?" inquired the court.

"Nobody's," said Gene easily, "the machine is my own."

Then the court sat up and took notice, especially when Gene explained that he was a porter on the Knickerbocker. Of course that told the story. Dabney also assured the court that he owned the house at No. 322 Mott street in which he lives.

FOSS HAS REVENGE FOR LODGE ATTACK

get he has had such a grasp of the organization that when he spoke to me there was authority behind his words.

"I looked him in the eye, and I said to him:

"'Lodge, I believe you will live to regret that statement.'"

The Congressman-elect couldn't be got to express any opinion as to whether the senior Senator is already regretting it.

Many people have been down to Olivet street in the past few days to get Mr. Foss to say that he will run for Governor this Fall, or to ask that to suggest the name of the best possible candidate. Every one of them has found Mr. Foss on his guard. If anybody starts trouble within the Democratic party, Mr. Foss, when everything looks rosy, it will not be the Congressman from the Fourteenth district.

"I realize," he said yesterday, "that if we put our hands to it, I am taking absolutely no thought of the future. Let the future take care of itself. As I said last Tuesday night, I propose to take no part in any shape or manner one way or the way or to pick and choose among candidates.

"Perhaps, if I am to say my say my view of those things is this: When we have a fight in a party, let's put the man who hits the issue. I believe that in the election on Tuesday the people realized that I hit the issue."

Among those who have written or telegraphed Mr. Foss their congratulations on his victory are Richard Olney, Nathaniel Thayer, A. Shuman, R. J. Rothwell, John Graham Brooks, Arthur Lyman, John L. Phillips of the American Magazine, Olney Arnold, a leading tariff manufacturer of Providence, former Congressman Jeffers, Jr., of New York, United States Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma, Congressman James L. Lloyd of Missouri, W. M. Reynolds of Montreal, vice president of the Grand Trunk Railroad, Gridley Adams of Dayton, Ohio, Congressman Jacob Ruppert, Jr., of New York, Maxime Parland, the Paris banker, former Congressman John R. Thayer of Worcester, President George E. Hoar of Newton Theological Seminary and fully five hundred more in Maine, Vermont, New York, New Jersey, Illinois and Minnesota.

The City Club of New York wants Mr. Foss at its High Cost of Living Luncheon next Saturday. The National Congressional Lynch and State Chairman Day of Minnesota have asked him to the Jefferson banquet at 80 Federal, April 13.

The election of officers in the fourty-four towns and two cities of the Fourteenth have until next Saturday to file the election returns with the Secretary of the Commonwealth. All but eight of the forty-six had been heard from yesterday. When the tabulation has been completed the vote will be canvassed by the Governor and Council. They will formally declare Mr. Foss to have been elected.

Secretary Langtry then issue a certificate of election, in duplicate. One certificate will be given to Mr. Foss and the other will be sent to Speaker Cannon.

ROOT TURNED DOWN IN REVENGE PLAN

New York Congressmen Refuse to Ask Woodruff to Resign from Politics.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Revolution against the leadership of Senator Root in New York politics has broken out in the congressional delegation from the Empire State.

It is learned here to-night that an effort to have a petition signed by the New York Congressmen requesting State Chairman Woodruff to resign has met with the flat refusal of at least four members—Representatives Malby, Vreeland, Fassett and Simmons.

Not even the insistence of President Taft, who, it is understood, backed Senator Root in the plan, has availed to force the Congressmen into line.

Slayer of 37 Persons Caught.

ODESSA, March 26.—The notorious brigand and Lothlpanlico, accused of having murdered thirty-seven persons in 1907-08 was captured to-day after a hot fight in the Kiuis district. He is accused of having tortured his victims to compel them to disclose the hiding places of their valuables.

BATH OFFICIALS STAY UNTIL MAY 1

Trustee Stockton Will Not Be Renamed by Mayor, and Supt. O'Brien Will Go.

Mayor Fitzgerald will not remove Bath Trustees to force the resignation of Joseph P. O'Brien, superintendent of public baths. "I shall let the matter rest for a little while," the Mayor said last night. The "little while" will be until May 1, to permit the term of Lawrence M. Stockton as trustee to expire. In his place there will be a new trustee who will work in harmony with the Mayor.

The new appointment and the re-appointment of Dr. Agnes Bolger, whose term also expires on May 1, will make the board four to three against O'Brien, and a new superintendent will be appointed. It is understood that Dr. William F. Brown of Vine street, Roxbury, will be given the position.

Dance to Aid Church.

A dancing party for the benefit of the building fund of the new Star of the Sea Church, East Boston, will be held in Lyceum Hall next Wednesday evening. Mrs. William McClellan is president of the committee of arrangements. Mayor Fitzgerald will deliver an address to the company.

MT. ETNA HALTS, BUT WORSE ERUPTION IS FEARED

People in Terror Take Advantage of Opportunity to Escape.

CATANIA, Sicily, March 26.—With a titanic roar and growl to which the simultaneous discharge of every big gun on all the battleships of the world's fleets would seem like a pop-gun, Mt. Etna this afternoon became suddenly still. No such phenomenon in all history has before been recorded. Old Mt. Etna, the biggest of all the terrestrial volcanic fiends, after days of havoc and destruction, stopped.

"He is only waiting! Ruit Ruit! He will you have time!" screamed the frantic peasants, inhibited more appalled by this startling phenomenon than the days of horror they have just passed through.

Look for Greater Eruption.

Even the cold men of science, who have made notes of every phase of the eruption, seem dazed at this unprecedented cessation, and they agree with the peasants that it more likely than not portends some mighty convulsion.

The deafening detonations accompanied by earthquake shocks gave the impression of an angry monster struggling for breath in its bonds.

At times a storm of cinders obscured the volcano and then suddenly a shift of the wind forced back the curtain and the sun bursting through smiled down upon one of the most fertile countries in the world. The summit of Monte Etna appears to be still covered with snow.

Thirty American tourists narrowly escaped death to-day in the fiery stream of lava pouring from Mount Etna. The tourists had gone toward the danger zone in autos, only to be stopped by the police. The party, however, while the authorities were occupied in keeping the panic-stricken peasants in order, and warning back other crowds of tourists, evaded the police, and slipped through the lines and they advanced almost to the edge of the lava stream.

Lava Races Down Slope.

As they stood below a little declivity watching the spectacle, the lava spurted forward, hissing and steaming, and shot down the slope at whose foot the Americans were standing.

Women shrieking, turned and fled before the wave which rolled forward with the speed of a breaker on a level beach. Several of the party stumbled and were dragged forward bodily by their men companions. For a tense minute the party maintained the mad race with the deadly, molten stream, and then a little in front reached refuge. As they reached the top of the little rise three of the women fainted.

The fiery river from Mount Etna continues its downward course. The eruption is frightful. Villages are engulfed. Thousands are in peril. Many have died. The people are panic-stricken.

TREADWAY WITH FARMERS.

He Is Also a Candidate for Third Term as Senate President.

President Allen T. Treadway of the State Senate last night issued the double announcement that he is a candidate for a third term as Senate president and that he has declared to stand for the settlement of the milk question this year.

The first statement was made orally. The milk question part of it was made in a 250-word statement. The Stockbridge Senator still believes that the farmers' protests against the present milk standard and against the high railroad tariff on milk should go to a Commission before the Legislature acts, but wants the commission to report by May 15.

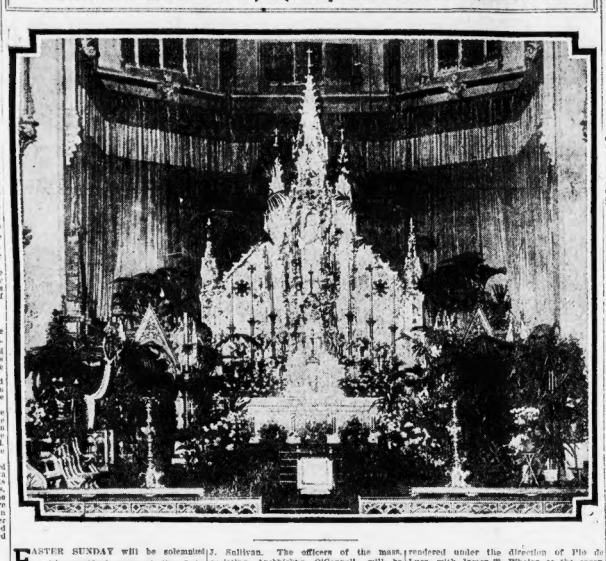
Altar at Cathedral, Ready for Easter Services



EASTER SUNDAY will be solemnized with pontifical mass at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross at 10:45 o'clock this morning.

Monsignor Splaine, rector of the Cathedral, will be in charge of the ceremonies, having as his assistant, Rev. Dr. Charles J. Sullivan. The officers of the mass, assisting Archbishop O'Connell, will be members of the Cathedral clergy. The sermon on the Resurrection will be preached by the Rev. M. J. Scanlan. In the evening at Vespers the Rev. J. J. Crane will be the preacher.

The music at the pontifical mass will be rendered under the direction of Pio de Luca, with James T. Whelan at the organ. There will be a chorus of 100 voices. The soloists are: Miss E. A. McLaughlin, soprano; Miss Christina Galbraith, alto; Signor de Luca, tenor; Dr. F. X. Mahoney, bass.

The sanctuary choir of 50 men and boys will be in charge of Alois Bartschnit, The soloists will be Joseph Cook and Joseph Coleman, tenors, Frank Donnelly and M. Bartschnit, basses.

BANQUET TO BOYS NEW BOSTON BOOST

The Boston Chamber of Commerce will give a boys' banquet at the Hotel Somerset Tuesday night.

The solid business men of the Chamber will be hosts to their own sons, to some of their friends, to boys recommended by some of the high school masters of the city and to lads from various boys' organizations.

The banquet will not be around a big table. Small tables, seating only four, will be in order. And by the rule set forth by the banquet committee, at least two out of every table quartet must be boys. Two boys and two men or three boys and a man at a table will be the general rule.

The Boys and Father.

The combination of father and son will be a frequent one, of course. The lads will have a chance to sit at the banquet table "with father," to hear "father's friends speak," and to take a carefully chaperoned step into the world of men, of which they will in a few years be full grown figures.

The real object of this gathering, however, is not so much to show the boys what a banquet is, as to teach them more about their own city of Boston, its splendid possibilities and the fact that Boston is going to be a better place for them to live in than any other city, even the bustling glaces of the booming West.

There will be no dull moments. After the banquet there will be brief speeches by President Bernard J. Rothwell of the Chamber, former Governor Long, Dean Le Baron R. Briggs of Harvard, former Congressman John A. Sullivan, and Joseph Lee.

Music Between Speeches.

Between speeches there will be songs and music. The lads—elders, too—will sing "Rings on My Fingers," "Yip-I-Addy," and other merry airs. Woe be to the speaker who happens to talk too long. A chorus may be started by the other men in the midst of one of his periods.

Some of the business men will bring several boys, either their own or from other families.

James J. Storrow will be host to six lads. Bernard J. Rothwell will bring two boys. John C. Cobb will bring two. Frederick P. Fish will have three. Former Governor Guild, four; Laurence Minot, two; G. R. Gallup, three; Arthur B. Harlow, one; Henry R. Humphrey and Frank H. Tulley, two each.

One member, who is ninety-one years old, will bring his fifty-five-year-old son and two grandsons.

These dinners will be repeated from time to time.

Billiken Girls' Dance.

The annual dance of the "Billiken Girls" will be held in Corinthian Hall, Wednesday evening, April 6. The club is composed of South Boston and South End girls. They are undecided just as to where they will have their cottage this Summer, but they think they will go to Rose Point. The officers of the club are: Kathryne O'Connor, president; Kathryne Berrigan, vice-president; Nora Haley, treasurer, and Mae Nea, secretary.

CHURCHES TODAY SING EASTER JOY

All over the world to-day the Christian Church, Protestant and Catholic, is celebrating Easter, that event upon which Christianity is based.

Everything is expressive of joy over the Risen Lord. The choicest of flowers and potted plants have been used by the decorator in the humblest edifice and in the cathedral in Holy Cross Cathedral or Trinity in the Back Bay. The choir of the smallest parish has been working assiduously in preparation for Easter as the members of the highest salaried quartet.

Easter will be observed everywhere with special music. Organists and the choir masters are offering the notable works of old and modern composers. These are some of the representative programs:

Cathedral of the Holy Cross

At 10:15 A. M.—Processional, "Morte Nonlit, cas," Lesemann; chorus, "Hoc Sacerdos Magnus, Terniali; introit, "Resurrexi Romeo; communion, Dubois; "Victimae Paschali Laudes," Pfeil; "Pascha Nostrum," Williams Sewell; recessional chorus "Haec Dies," Lemmens; "Alleluia," Mozart; "Alleluia, Dulce Carmen," Webbe; solos by members of cathedral and church choirs.

Church of Immaculate Conception

At 10:30 A. M.—Processional, "Hymn to an Archangel," Whiting; "Miss Schneider"; introit, Mixed, Whiting; Gradual, Gounod, offertory, "Pera Tremuit," Rotoli; recessional, "Alleluia," Rechberg. Recital at 7:30 P. M. Vespers at 7:30 P. M. The Easter music will be rendered by the following choir: Soprano, Miss Agnes Hurley; contralto, Miss Mary Whiting; tenor, Hugh Ferguson; bass, Ralph Osborne; organist, Miss Minnie Whiting. Violin obligato is furnished by a select choir of violinists. Miss Agnes Hurley will be soloist; Ralph Osborne, bass soloist; Ernest Mitchell, cornet soloist. The choir of 40 men will sing at a service at 8 P. M.

Arlington Street Church.

At 11 a. m.—Prelude, "Dies de Festo," Wiegand; "Then into the Holiest Place," from "The Resurrection," by Charles Villiers Stanford; "Prayer of Thanksgiving," by S. Jalowitch. Choir of Mrs. Grace Bonner Williams, soprano; Miss Gertrude Edmands, contralto; Member Howard, tenor; Sedman M. Wood, bass, will be in charge of twenty voices. Benjamin L. Whelpley, organist.

First Church in Boston.

At 10:30 a. m.—Anthem, "At the Sepulchre," Woring; "Awake, Thou That Sleepest," Pearsall; "Hallelujah Chorus," from "The Messiah," Holland, soprano; Miss Anna Miller Wood, contralto; William H. Brabaw, tenor; Clarence L. Hay, bass. Arthur Foote, organist.

Old South Church.

At 10:30 a. m.—Prelude, "Christus Resurrexit," Rawsthorne; anthem, "As It Began to Dawn," Vincent; "Easter Hymn," from "The Daughter of Jairus," Stainer; "In Wings of Living Light," Mathews; "Hallelujah Chorus," from "The Messiah," Handel; offertory, "Ave Maria," Mascagni; Miss Alice Frances Dunning, soprano; Lambert Murphy, tenor; Mrs. Grace Bonner Williams, contralto; Herbert Wilfred Sheehan, contralto; Member Howard, tenor; Sedman M. Wood, bass, will be in charge of twenty voices. Benjamin L. Whelpley, organist.

New York Judge Reverses Verdict for Pretty Complainant.

NEW YORK, March 26.—A jury in the City Court decided that a kiss when taken from the lips of pretty Lillian H. Rothchild against her will was worth $500. For this reason they assessed the damages she claimed against her employer, Emanuel Weingreen, for this amount.

Weingreen decided that this was altogether too high, and appealed to the Supreme Court. Justice Seabury decided to-day that the verdict must be reversed, and another jury, that will be less susceptible to the charms of Miss Rothschild, will pass upon the merits of the case.

SNUBBED? NO, SAYS DAY.

"Didn't Know Taft Was Invited," Chancellor Declares.

SYRACUSE, March 26.—Chancellor James Roscoe Day of Syracuse University does not seem to think he has been snubbed by President Taft because the latter has withdrawn his acceptance of an invitation to attend a banquet of the New York City Alumni Association of Syracuse University Wednesday, at which the Chancellor is to speak.

"I did not know President Taft had been invited," is the only comment the Chancellor will make.

Fortune for Bob Tucker's Family.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 26.—Turfman Bob Tucker left his family $100,000 life insurance and considerable real estate.

RESCUE BOY BURIED IN 'CAVE' COLLAPSE

Buried under several feet of rocks and earth by the collapse of make-believe "cave" in the Parker Hill section of Roxbury, late yesterday afternoon, twelve-year-old Albert C. McDonald of No. 3 Darling street, an altar boy in the Mission Church, was saved from death by the desperate work of several men who were attracted by the cries of the lad's chums. The rescuers dug into the debris with their bare hands until their arms were cut and bleeding, while frantic mothers, each believing her own boy buried, urged the men to greater haste.

It was the merest thing possible to a tragic ending of what had been a great day of fun for the boys.

Albert had long had his eye on a big pile of rocks in a vacant lot next to No. 3 Calumet street as the finest place to build a "cave." He quickly formed his "pirate band," as he called them, in fun and willing hands, working all day, dug an eight-foot excavation. Captain McDonald went up for a last fond look at their great achievement when the top roof fell in and a ton of dirt and rocks on top of it. He was more than one.

Joseph Duplain of No. 29 Centre street, Jamaica Plain; Patrick Connolly, of Boston street, Roxbury; Thomas Morgan and William Morehead, neighbors, in their shirt sleeves, ran to the place and dug the lad out.

As he was taken from the bottom of the pit, all cut and bleeding and unconscious the little altar boy's regular lung from his shirt front. His companions later declared that there was more than confidence in his rescue and his devotion to the acquittal. Their belief that he must have been saved by some special prayer.

The boy was taken into the home of Mrs. John Quinlan next door. At first it was thought he was dead. Dr. John Adams of Huntington avenue and Tremont street, worked on the boy for some time before the injured boy opened his eyes.

JOHN SHEPARD NOW 78.

Boston Merchant Celebrates Anniversary in Florida.

Following the custom of several years, John Shepard, head of the Shepard Norwell Company, celebrated the 78th anniversary of his birth at Ormond, Fla., yesterday with a dinner party at the Hotel Ormond.

Among the guests was his son John Shepard, Jr., and wife, who came from Palm Beach. There is quite a colony of Boston people at Ormond and Mr. Shepard's birthday anniversary was made an occasion of special importance. Mr. Shepard is in good health.

TELEPHONE STOCK UP AS RATES ARE 'CUT'

Explanation Is That "Reductions" Benefit Company More Than People.

Folks who wondered why the stock of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company failed to weaken because of the report of Highway Commission experts recommending alleged cuts in rates have investigated the report and discovered that if it is adopted it will be more of a help to the telephone company than to the subscriber.

When the market closed on Thursday, New England Telephone & Telegraph stock was high mark for the day was 140, and the low mark 140. Going back to February 4, eight weeks ago, it is found that the high mark for the day was only 139¾, and that the low mark was 125¾. A rise, rather than a fall, is therefore shown during the time when the contents of the report of the Highway Commissioners were becoming known.

Several "pickers" have been found in the seals of readjustments. The unlimited rate in Boston, for instance, are proposed to be reduced from $162 to $125 for business houses. This cut is stated in the report to be for the "Metropolitan district."

But the experts have mapped out a Metropolitan district of their own, to take in only the exchanges in Boston proper. Greater Boston does not come in under the proposed cut in rates. Calls outside of the Boston proper exchanges must be paid for at five cents each.

In that section of the experts' report which recommends a cut in suburban rates from $42 a year to $21 or $30, according to location, for twenty lines, another "joker" has been discovered. The subscriber in these exchanges can talk without extra charge, only with the subscribers in exchanges immediately adjoining.

DEMOCRATS SEEK DEFEAT OF M'CALL

State Chairman Macleod May Enter the Race to Beat Cannon Supporter.

And they said last night that there may be trouble in the Fall for even Samuel W. McCall of Winchester, who formed the habit of being elected to Congress from the Eighth District three or four generations ago and has been unable to break it off.

Two years ago, Mr. McCall received 16,-147 votes to the 9,638 cast for Frederick S. Deitrick of Cambridge, Democrat.

"Since the returns came in from the Foss-Buchanan fight last Tuesday night," they said in Cambridge yesterday, "a little lead of 6,509 hasn't the same old terror for us. Mr. Foss had 14,000 to overcome."

Frederick J. Macleod, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, is talked of as the most available to enter the lists against Joseph G. Cannon's stalwart champion and worst defender.

"Mr. McCall," said Chairman Macleod, "isn't the only Congressman who will have to answer to the people of Massachusetts in November."

E. F. McSweeney Improved.

Edward F. McSweeney of the Massachusetts Commission on the Cost of Living suffered a severe attack of indigestion Thursday night, and was unable to sit at the usual public hearing of his board. It was said last night at his home in South Framingham that his condition was improved, and that he hoped to be at the State House to-morrow.

STOMACH ILLS MAY SEEM TRIFLES

At the start, but that is when you want to take the matter in hand. Neglect can only result the one way—sickness. The stomach is largely responsible for one's health and strength and as such it needs to be kept in a normal condition. If it becomes weak, the food remains undigested, ferments, and causes untold suffering. Thus you lose the strength-giving properties of your food and you become weak and run down. This is very noticeable at the beginning of Spring, when the system is overloaded with Winter impurities, the bowels clogged and the blood thick. No wonder you have the "Spring Fever." Commence taking Hostetter's Stomach Bitters this very day and cleanse the entire system. Then your Stomach Ills will also vanish. It is for Sick Headache, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Spring Fever, General Debility and Malaria.

LOSES WIFE, BRINGS SUIT FOR $10,000

Belmont Farmer, in Complicated Case, Takes Action Against Neighbor.

Because his wife Sarah left him and married A. H. Long, his next door neighbor, Harry E. Heath, a farmer of No. 101 Washington street, Belmont, has sued Long for $10,000, for alienating her affections.

The case is complicated. Mrs. Long says that she was never legally married to Heath, as he already had a wife living, Mr. Heath denies this.

"No man ever loved his wife as I did," said Mr. Heath, yesterday. "I did everything in the world I could, and when my son was born, my happiness was complete. Mr. Long, my next door neighbor, was my friend. He came to my house nearly every night, and I trusted him as I would a brother.

"Last December, after five years of happiness, my wife seemed to change, and one day I came into the house and found a note lying on the table. It said:

"'Dear Harry—I have gone away and you will never see me face to face again. I am leaving our little son with you, and I guess you can find some stronger woman than I to take care of him.'

"For weeks I lay awake at night sighing for what I had done to cause her to leave me. Although I found her I cared more for our little boy than I could stand.

"Mrs. Heath and I were married five years ago," said Mrs. Long. "At that time I did not know that she already had a wife living, but a year after our marriage I discovered it to my sorrow. She had obtained a divorce from him. I left remained with him, but my conditions became unbearable and I decided to leave."

Mr. Long says a very good friend to me and I decided to marry him. We were married in Providence, R. I., on Feb. 5. Mr. Heath is employed by the Metropolitan Water Board and we were married.

Mr. Long is a worthy farmer, having seven acres of rich soil. Mr. Heath is the superintendent of a farm owned by Charles H. Cheney.

SAVES WELLESLEY GIRL

Carnegie Medal Hero Again Shows Bravery in Runaway.

The bravery of William Walker of Brookline, saved Miss Grace Coffin, a student of Wellesley College, from serious injury, yesterday, when the young woman's horse took fright at a pile of paper and bolted. The man leaped in front of the runaway, seized the bridle and clung to it till the animal stopped. Miss Twombly fell in a faint but was not seriously injured. Her home is in Passaic, N. J. Walker about a year ago figured in another heroic feame for which he received a Carnegie medal.

1,000 More to Greet T. R.

NEW HAVEN, March 26.—One thousand citizens will go to New Haven to take part in the celebration to welcome Theodore Roosevelt. A band of eighty pieces will accompany the delegation.

'REVOLUTION' IN RANKS OF D. A. R.

Secretary-General Leads the Mutiny Against Other Officials; Open Letter.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The Daughters of the American Revolution are lining up for the bitterest fight of their lives. The insurgent spirit has entered into the sacred precincts of the national headquarters of the society in Washington and Mrs. Mary B. Wilcox, the recording secretary general, is leading a bitter fight upon Mrs. Julia T. Scott, the President General, and Mrs. A. G. Draper, the Registrar General.

In an open letter to the heads of the various chapters throughout the country Mrs. Wilcox declares that Mrs. Draper is preparing to seize the organization and that though the president general she has clerks and officers not pleasing to her summarily discharged or forced to resign.

The insurgents have taken their stand upon the dismissal by Mrs. Scott of Miss Agnes Gerald, a clerk in the national headquarters. Mrs. Scott, in her letter of dismissal, alleged "continued and persistent acts of insubordination."

Mrs. Wilcox has taken the stand that Miss Gerald was dismissed because Mr. Draper had trouble with the girl's mother in the time of the last election.

Miss Gerald in the meantime has placed the matter in the hands of her attorney, Lucien Williamson, who, in a letter informed Mrs. Scott that as the young woman could only be dismissed by the board which had appointed her, he had advised the young woman to continue her duties.

"PLUMMER'S RIDGE."

Rural, "Horsey" Play to Be Given by Amateurs at Jordan Hall.

One of the most notable of the season's amateur dramatic efforts will be the presentation at Jordan Hall, on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, of "Plummer's Ridge," a rural play in four acts.

There are many unique features made possible by the fact that it is the best drama of the trotting horse and his surrounding interest which has ever been written.

The production under the auspices of the Metropolitan Driving Club of Boston, will have new scenery and costumes. A notable scene is the race day at old Mystic park, and the spectacular trotting race, which Si Plummer's filly wins, is full of exciting interest.

Musical and dancing numbers by Dan McKinnon, the Plummer's village quartet, the Mystic Park girls, Grace Coffin, Thomas Norris and Lewis Joel will help enliven the piece.

The committees include Mrs. G. Pray Smith, Mrs. C. H. Bolleden, Mrs. W. L. Huntley, Mrs. A. J. Furbush, Grace Coffin, Thomas Norris, Alonzo Norris, Lewis Joel, James Gilbert, G. Pray Smith, B. W. Carpenter, Dan McCriven, Edgar Power, C. H. Bolleden and several others.

BOSTON TO BE INVADED!

332 Teachers From King Edward's Domain Capture the City.

Three hundred and twenty-two Toronto school teachers are "doing" Boston. They took the town by storm some time Friday night in a special car, and every object and place of interest in and around Boston has been entertaining Toronto visitors ever since.

James I. Hughes, chief instructor of schools in Toronto, is in charge of the party, which will be in town until Thursday night. This is the fourth annual excursion that Mr. Hughes has conducted to different cities in the United States. The fair Canadian visitors are quartered at the Quincy House, the Hotel Thorndike and in private residences recommended by the Y. W. C. A.

BOY FALLS FROM ROOF.

Companions Rush Him to Hospital on Stretcher of Coats.

Twelve-year-old Patsie Bradley fell from a three-story roof at No. 14 Henley street, Charlestown, yesterday afternoon. He was in search of a ball, which had been accidentally thrown up there from a ball game in the street.

Fifteen-year-old Pat O'Connor and fourteen-year-old Tommy Rowlin, who saw him fall, improvised a stretcher out of their coats and took him to his home, at No. 48 Chelsea street, three blocks away. Later the lad was sent to the Relief Hospital, where it was said that, beyond lacerations and bruises, the lad was not hurt.

Courtmartial Navy Officers.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The Navy Department has ordered a court-martial to try Commander Frank K. Hill and Lieutenant Paul E. Dampman of the United States gunboat Marietta on charges that they have not taken proper care of the vessel. The court will sit at the Portsmouth Navy Yard April 12. Rear Admiral Winslow is designated as president of the court.

MRS. ELSIE RICHMOND LOVERING STIMSON EVANS.

BOSTON BEAUTY WHO HAS TAKEN THIRD HUSBAND

FINANCE BOARD IS ON DEFENSIVE NOW

The Finance Commission, which has severely criticised two city departments in its recent reports, will come in for a grilling itself to-morrow.

The board of principal assessors has prepared a lengthy report on the work of that department, which will be presented to the Mayor and City Council to-morrow. If the commission is taken to task for the sweeping recommendations made, and by statistics, and records the board shows a great detail where many of the investigating body's suggestions are entirely impractical and where the changes advocated are made only at a superficial knowledge of the facts.

The Council committees on Soldiers' Relief which has been investigating the recent report of the commission upon the Soldiers' Relief Department will also make known the result of its inquiry to-morrow, and the committee will take exceptions to many of the criticisms made by the commission, and urge the rejection of many of their recommendations made by the investigating body.

"We have found that the facts presented by the commission on specific cases mentioned in the report are entirely untrue," said Councillor Curley.

HUSBAND NO. 3 FOR ELSIE RICHMOND

ELSIE RICHMOND'S MARITAL CAREER

1901—Marries Joseph Lovering, electrical engineer.
1903—Leaves Lovering.
1904—Divorces Lovering.
1905—Marries Will Stinson, bicycle rider.
1906—Leaves Stinson.
1907—Divorces Stinson.
1910—Marries Alfred Evans, musician.

Columbus avenue, when the news got around yesterday that Elsie Richmond Lovering-Stinson had become Elsie Richmond Lovering-Stinson-Evans, gasped and wished she might be happy. "She certainly deserves happiness," her old friends said. "If ever it was deserved by mortal."

Having been married in Boston and married in Providence, Mrs. Lovering-Stinson-Evans tried it this time in Springfield. With Alfred Evans, said to be a musician at the Tremont Theatre, she called on Wayland N. Judge, a clerk of the courts. They gave their residence as New York.

Elsie Richmond, not twenty-seven years old, was the daughter of the Rev. William C. Richmond, one-time assistant pastor of the Warren Avenue Baptist Church. Her beauty was so rare that she was much in demand by artist photographers. It is said that few women in America have been photographed so much.

Then she took to playing small parts in the theatres. She was eighteen when the great Coquelin saw her. "My dear," said the French actor, "you are the most beautiful woman I have seen in all my experience on the stage. You are an example of the highest type of womanhood I have seen in America."

It was not long after that the girl, little more than a child, gave her hand and her heart to Joseph Lovering, an electrical engineer, living in a suite of the Boylston Hotel. She lived with Lovering two years. Subsequently she testified in court that Lovering maltreated another home besides the one they lived in. On May, she said, Lovering, having drank to excess, took her to this second home. Another young woman presided there. This young woman wanted to know if Lovering was "coming home" that night. She also wanted to know who "this" was, meaning Mrs. Lovering. The pastor's daughter got her divorce.

Marries Bicycle Rider.

Lovering, at that time, mentioned Will Stinson, the bicycle rider as one of the young men who had been paying his addresses to his wife. The following year Stinson and the divorces slipped away to Providence. They came back to live cyclist's home in Cambridge as Mr. and Mrs. Stinson.

When they separated, after ten months, Mrs. Stinson got the papers ready for a divorce suit. Stinson made up with her. They separated again. There was more talk of divorce. Again their differences were patched. After the third separation Elsie began her suit. The decree was granted on May 17, 1907, after a hearing that occupied two and one-half minutes. Judge Bishop asked seven questions of Mrs. Stinson and three of the physicians who was her witness.

RUSSELL WILL CASE TO BE FOUGHT AGAIN

FIGURES OF THE RUSSELL CASE

Value of estate	$700,000
Cost of trial	$225,000
Number of witnesses	212
Number of words in testimony	3,378,900
Number pages of testimony	11,400
Number of exhibits	342
Number trial days	118
Number of days since case started	188
Number of defendants	40
Number lawyers	6
Number experts	15

Fifty-three witnesses swore claimant was Daniel Blake Russell. Twenty-nine swore claimant was James D. Russell. Fifteen said that he was not Daniel Blake Russell.

With the exception of two days set for final arguments, April 4 and 5, the first stage of the famous Russell case has been completed. No matter what the decision by Judge Lawton may be, either Senator Stimson, attorney for Daniel Blake Russell, the claimant, or Robert Nason, counsel for William C. Russell will appeal to the Supreme Court. In this event practically the same case will be heard before a jury. This would take several months and perhaps longer.

If the claimant should win in the second contest, the Probate Court would again be in a struggle over the will of the late Daniel Russell. Under this will William C. Russell, son of Daniel Russell, was left $50,000 with the stipulation that if his lost brother Daniel Blake Russell, should be found within twenty years he should receive one half of the estate.

With the case in its present standing, ancient Philip Blake Russell looms up who says he is the rightful heir to one half of the estate. This new claimant is known as J. H. Johnson. He is a laborer and lives in Fresno, California. He left home just following the sensational trial which lasted 188 days he was found guilty and sentenced to fourteen years.

A coincidence of the Russell and Tichborne trials is noted in the number of days each. As in the Tichborne case the Russell case took 118 days until the testimony were completed. The number of days since the case started in September 20 last year is 188, exactly the number of the second Tichborne trial.

Girl Will Recover.

Miss Jane McKay, who was accidentally shot yesterday at the Woburn almshouse, where she was employed, is improving at the Choate Memorial Hospital. The young woman was cleaning a room when she swept a rifle off a table. The weapon was discharged and the bullet entered the body.

HAPPY WIVES RESTORED THANKS TO PE-RU-NA.

Gained 18 Pounds.

Mrs. Hattie Hamilton, R. F. D. No. 2, Sparta, Ky., writes:

"I have taken two bottles of Peruna and commenced on the third one. I did not really need the third one, but thought it best to take another bottle.

"I have always weighed 102 pounds, but since I began taking Peruna I weigh 120, for the first time in my life, and I am now thirty-three years old. Your medicine has surely done me a great deal of good, and I have recommended it to several others who have begun taking it.

"My mother, who is seventy-six years old, has grown so weak she could scarcely walk. She took two bottles of Peruna and is fleshier and looking well."

Peruna Their Family Medicine.

Mrs. Anna C. Hyde, 712 E. Yamhill street, Portland, Oregon, Vice President Literary and Educational Organization of New Hampshire, writes:

"I am pleased to endorse Peruna as an all-round good family medicine, and one that is safe to give children. I give it to mine at the least suggestion of a cold, and take it myself to build up my strength and nerves.

"My sister, who is living with me, uses Peruna, too, and she is loud in its praises."

Constipation, Torpid Liver.

Mrs. Anthony Rauch, 306 N. Walnut street, Bucyrus, O., writes:

"I was suffering from obstinate constipation and torpid liver, when I took your advice and purchased six bottles of Peruna and Manalin. When I had taken only one bottle I felt much better, and since I have taken two more bottles I feel entirely well, but I will continue taking the medicine for a short time to make sure of my cure.

"I think Manalin is one of the finest remedies for constipation that I ever tried. I will never be without it. It has made me so strong. I can do a day's work and never tire. I am so glad I do not get those dizzy spells any more. I haven't had one since I took your medicine.

"I cannot thank you enough for what your medicine has done for me. All sick people should give it a fair trial."

Had Catarrh of Kidneys.

Mrs. Gus H. Carlson, Box 291, Ortonville, Minn., writes:

"I had catarrh of the kidneys and bladder. I have taken Peruna until now, and I do not think I need to take it any longer.

"I feel well, and my tongue is clear and I have no bitter taste in my mouth. I am very thankful for Peruna."

NOT MAKING GOOD WAS SUICIDE'S FEAR

Patterson, Restaurant Manager, Was Afraid He Could Not Please His Employers.

Henry W. Patterson, the Back Bay restaurant manager, who committed suicide by shooting himself in a Hancock street lodging house yesterday, was driven to self destruction by worry that he was not making good in his new position, lodging house statements made later in the day by his sister-in-law, Mrs. C. B. Nevins.

Patterson lived at No. 111A Montfort street, Back Bay, with his wife and her sister. The first of March Patterson took the place of manager of the Oak Grove Creamery on Boylston street. Shortly after his suicide, Mrs. Nevins said:

Mr. Patterson was out of the house when that river lived, but he was always a highly nervous disposition. He was continually tapping with his fingers, for instance. He had been under treatment for nervous trouble.

"From the time he took his new place he told us he was afraid he could not make good. We assured him that he would and told him not to worry. He did worry, though. He would go to bed early, then a would get up and pace the floor. He either smoked, drank nor gambled."

The farewell note which Mr. Patterson left to his wife said:

"Dear Wife—Goodbye. Sorry I had to do this. There was no other way.

HARRY."

Mrs. Patterson, who had been looking for her husband since the early morning, would not make any statement. They had been married three years and had no children.

Patterson went to No. 42 Hancock street, opposite the Myrtle Hotel, Friday night, engaged a second-floor, front room and gave the name. Yesterday morning H. C. Eyder, the proprietor of the lodging house, found him dead on the floor with a bullet in his head and a revolver with one cartridge discharged near his right hand. He had covered his face with a quilt to deaden the shot. His identity was established by papers in his pocket.

Haverhill Men Re-elected.

HAVERHILL, March 26.—William Davis was re-elected agent and Warren F. Goldthwaite secretary and treasurer at the annual election of the ports of the B. and M. R. R., which was held to-day. Only a full vote was cast, as the two officials were unopposed.

PRIZES AWARDED FOR "LIVE ONES"

Here Are the Winners in the American's "Forty Immortals" Contest.

The best lists of "Boston's Forty Immortals—Live Ones," have been selected in the Boston American's prize contest.

The proposition of the contest was:

Who do you consider are the forty metropolitan Bostonians NOW LIVING, whose achievements entitle them to places in a Hall of Fame.

In this contest women were not eligible, though it is of course admitted that there are a number of Boston women who would be awarded honors in Boston's Hall of Fame if there were one.

All Had Weak Points.

"We find that there is not a single list in all the hundreds submitted, that could not have been improved. There are weak points in every list.

"But those which we have chosen come nearest to combining the living personalities men of Metropolitan Boston, and accordingly are entitled to the prizes.

"The judges, if preparing a list of their own, would exclude some of those included in the prize winning list, and would most certainly include some men of great achievement who are not mentioned in these lists."

Winners of next five prizes of $1 each: Josephine Patten Purdy, No. 25 West Green street, Lynn; Arthur B. Shield, No. 13 Stoughton Hall, Cambridge; William F. Howes, No. 53 Tremont street, Boston; George A. Nelson, No. 224 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown; Mrs. P. B. Crosby, No. 725 Lexington street, East Boston.

Checks will be sent at once to these prize winners, and any failure to receive them promptly should be reported to the Cashier's office, Boston American.

Ask United States to Seek Dillon's Freedom

Forresters Heed Appeal of Captain Condon in Behalf of Life Prisoner in Canada.

SPRINGFIELD, March 26.—Following an eloquent appeal by Captain Edward O'Meagher Condon, the Irish patriot, now in the city, that no effort be made to secure the release of Luke Dillon who is held a political prisoner in Canada, John J. Leonard Court, M. C. O. F., has named a committee to draw up resolutions with an end in view and send them to Secretary of State Knox in Washington.

The committee consists of George A. Toomey, James H. Benson, John J. Courtney, James F. Wells and C. J. Coffee. In the resolutions the United States Government will be asked to use its influence to secure the freedom of Dillon.

Dillon was given a life sentence in prison for taking part in an alleged conspiracy to blow up the Welland canal during the Boer war. Dillon was a Boer partisan. At that time the Canadian troops being sent to Africa were transported down the Welland canal, and it is alleged that Dillon and three other men attempted to destroy the canal. All were found guilty and received life terms.

JUSTICE MOODY THE SAME.

"No Special Change and More Comfortable," Is Bulletin.

"No special change and more comfortable" was the text of a bulletin given out last night at the Carey Hill Hospital, Brookline, regarding the illness of Justice Moody of the United States Supreme Court. Alarm was felt over the country, especially at Washington, over rumors that his condition was critical.

Take Off the Fat Where It Shows

Most women suffer much humiliation because of great quantities of fat, so located that, no matter how they dress, everybody sees that they are abnormal. This is the day of the slender figure, and fat women are simply not tolerated, either in business or social affairs. Women may not know it, but men when they see a fat woman pass them on the street or in public places make all manner of sympathetic remarks about her. They do not mean to be unkind or to seem unmanly, but it is natural for a man to dislike fat on a woman. Where fat shows the most there is where it must be removed, and as quickly as possible. This season's dresses seem to be made for the fat woman's misery and the slender woman's delight. They expose all the charms of woman and her ugliness as well. Exercise and diet will not remove fat. This has been proved. The famous Marmola prescription, which has met with such phenomenal success and has so many of our society women as its sponsors is now being sold in tablet form. It need only be taken in the time for this style of treatment. These little tablets go into your system just the same as the liquids, stop the stomach and digestive apparatus from assimilating fat and reduce the fat quickly. They are the rate of from 12 to 15 pounds a month. Get a package and carry it in your purse and you can take one or two tablets when in a hurry to take away from home. They are sold at all drug stores at 75 cents a case, or if you prefer you may write the Marmola Company, 150 Farmers Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

KEENE IN DEAL TO ADJUST POOL CLAIMS

NEW YORK, March 26.—Wall street heard to-day that negotiations had been opened in behalf of James R. Keene looking to a settlement of the claims of Gerald Roberts, Hall & Co., which went down in the collapse of the cotton pool. If this be true Mr. Keene probably would settle with the creditors of other firms.

Foresters' Whist Party.

Final arrangements have been made for the annual whist party and dance of St. Patrick's Court, M. C. O. F., to be held in Bernard Hall, South Boston, on Friday evening, April 8. The occasion will also be the thirtieth anniversary of the instituting of the court.

MOTHER TOO SLOW, IS SHOT BY SON

NEWARK, N. J., March 26.—Because his mother did not respond quickly enough to his demand for a cup of coffee, Joseph Dominick Viola, thirty-three years old, shot her in the neck this afternoon and she is now in St. James Hospital in a critical condition. Viola is locked up in the Third Precinct station.

Brooklyn Pastor to Speak Here.

Pastor Russell of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, New York, will speak at 3 p. m. to-day in Tremont Temple upon the topic, "Man's Past, Present and Future." He is well known to the Biblical students of this city and declares that the Bible does not teach eternal torment and that evolution is found in its pages.

ZOO WANTED AT MIDDLESEX FELLS

Massachusetts Zoological Society members have begun plans for a campaign in behalf of a zoological park or zoo at the Middlesex Fells. Their bill has just been referred to the next General Court. The society will provide animals if the State provides a site, appropriates $25,000 and $5,000 annually.

Festival of Irish Music.

A festival of Irish music is to be a feature of the annual ball of the Young Men's Catholic Association at the Mechanics Building on the evening of April 21. A chorus of 200 voices under the direction of Prof. John A. Shea is rehearsing with an orchestra of fifty musicians.

THREE ACCUSED OF DARING HOLD-UP

Early yesterday morning three men went into the restaurant at No. 13 Cornhill, struck the cashier, Albert Andrews, several times over the head, and, after grabbing all the cash in sight, about $40, tried to escape. No holdup robbery was ever attempted in Boston.

Several patrons in the place were so dumfounded that the robbers almost escaped before they made an outcry.

William H. Curley, former councilman, and with several Deer Island terms to his discredit; Philip Hayes, thirty years old, No. 54 Natick street, and Jake Davis, the same age, of No. 40 Stamford street, appeared after a chase and a fight in Brattle street, are being held under $2,000 bail for examination.

SOMERVILLE IS HAPPY; TAFT IS COMING FOR THE 4TH

Why, They Say the Price of Flats Is Going Up in Sympathy With Announcement.

PRESIDENT WILLIAM H. TAFT is to celebrate the Fourth in Somerville.

Mayor Woods has just come back home with the great news. A preliminary committee has been formed. The Board of Aldermen is to appoint another committee. An appropriation is to be made. It costs money to entertain a President. Mayor Woods hopes the aldermen will not be stingy.

If you see a citizen with his hat on one ear to-day, the chances are that he comes from Somerville, and is planning to beg, borrow, kidnap or forge a subscription preferred position for himself at the presidential exercises.

Somerville is said to be the second smallest city in point of acreage in the country. It is about four miles long by about two miles wide. Imagine putting the biggest President in the land and several thousand other people into that limited territory.

Rents Jumping Already.

The reviewing stand for the parade will probably be on Highland avenue, in front of the High School. Somerville rises to a sort of point up along Highland avenue. It is doubtful if there will be room plenty of room at the top" this once.

And the price of Somerville rents went up yesterday on the first announcement. Notice is to be sent, it is reported, to the men who make maps that in the next issue of maps the name of Somerville must be printed in bigger type, like this:

SOMERVILLE.

The President is to come to Boston on July 4 to deliver an address in the morning before the National Educational Association in the Harvard Stadium; but after that address, he is to be whirled by Somerville and used to make a holiday.

Going to Have Big Parade.

President, Leonard W. Cole; vice-president, Robert M. Lavender; treasurer, Benjamin F. Freeman; secretary, Charles H. Eaton.

Here is what Mayor Woods says:

"We have planned to have a great parade, and have asked Congressman McCall to secure for us the services of the sailors on the warships that will be in the harbor, the marines at the navy yard and the State Militia."

FIGURES ON HIGH LIVING.

Senator Smoot to Issue Important Tariff Table.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—When Appraiser of Customs George Wanamaker, of New York gave to the Senate committee investigating the high cost of living the invoice prices of commodities received from abroad through the port of New York his figures suggested to Senator Smoot a in future contrasts over the tariff.

series of tables that will be invaluable

From these figures Mr. Smoot will have table showing the foreign and domestic wholesale and retail prices; the cost of manufacturing at home and abroad; the wages paid in this country and in Europe; the amount of each article imported and value; the amount manufactured or otherwise produced in the United States and the duty assessed against and collected on each article of import.

It will make one of the most complete compilations, and perhaps, the most accurate ever undertaken by any congressional committee.

ACTRESS WHO IS IN BOSTON WITH A MESSAGE TO GIRLS

BILLIE BURKE.

THERE will arrive in Boston to-day a young woman with a mission. Her mission is to show Boston women how to get what they want.

The mission-bringer is Miss Billie Burke, and she will enlighten her sisters during the progress of "Mrs. Dot" at the Hollis Street Theatre. In the case of "Mrs. Dot" the thing wanted is a husband. Miss Burke, who plays Mrs. Dot, demonstrates that the way to get one is to go after the man you have picked out and grab him.

Billie Burke is always a welcome visitor to Boston. She is one of the youngest of our theatrical stars and one of the prettiest, but it is her social qualities which have endeared her to Boston's smart set.

She first made her mark in this country as leading woman for John Drew and it was not long before she was promoted to stardom. She visited Boston last fall in a dainty little French confection called "Love Watches" and returns in a Somerset Maugham play, "Mrs. Dot."

In the play Mrs. Dot is the widow of a brewer who has an income of $700,000 a year. She falls in love with a young architect, who is penniless and is too much of a man to marry a rich woman Mrs. Dot does not get discouraged, but pursues him until she lands him and this is the story of the play.

During the three acts the young actress will wear three ravishing Parisian gowns, which will be a magnet as powerful as the play to draw women to the theatre.

BRIGGS IS ACCOUNTANT.

Brookline Selectmen Name Official After Several Months.

Albert T. Briggs has been appointed town accountant by the Brookline selectmen. Leon Allen was backed for the position by many of the workingmen in the town. The question over who would be town accountant has created quite a stir in Brookline political circles since last November.

CONNOLLY STAYS IN RACE UNTIL HE'S KNOCKED OUT

Author Warns Curley That He's Never Beaten and Never Retires.

JAMES B. Connolly, story writer, sporting expert and champion Olympic athlete, rises to remark that James M. Curley, Councilman and politician, is not going to realize the dream of his life, is not going to be elected the next Congressman from the Eleventh district.

Mr. Connolly has the reputation of always telling the truth. As a boy he was known as "Truthful Jimmy." Since winning the championship in 1896 at Athens, he has travelled around the world several times; has fished off the Grand Banks with the crews of fishing schooners; has fought whales in the Northern seas; has gone trawling with the Vikings of Norway; has cruised up and down the Mississippi; has strolled immigrants from all countries, crossing the ocean with them many times in the steerage. He has camped with Indians in the smallest boat, the Fleur-de-lis, that ever made the trip.

"Not Until I'm Whipped."

He says that Mr. Curley is mistaken—he will not withdraw from the Tenth District contest. He would not give up a fight until he was whipped, and he emphatically calls attention to the fact that never has he been whipped.

Mr. Connolly is immensely pleased at the idea of a "kind words" campaign on the part of Mr. Curley, and he says it would be well, while we have a jolly debate between Mr. Curley and Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell, to indulge in the throwing of verbal bouquets. That he means business is evidenced by the fact that Jimmy has his ex-Territorial relations in every section of the district to boom his candidacy. Referring to the situation in the district, Mr. Connolly says:

"Yes, I see that our old friend Curley is gleaning in strange fields. Poetry, eh! Something new in the Hancock street forum, isn't it? How will they take this from Jim. Kind words are more than cornuate's!

"Hum—but Jim has been a good many cornuates in his time, hasn't he? And 'simple faith than Norman blood!' Well, we'll say nothing about the Norman blood, but surely there's not near so much simple faith as there used to be. The people are getting wise to the pols these days, aren't they?

"So James is thinking he'd like to go to Washington? Well, why not, but poets are not so easy as they used to be. But there's no doubt that he did have a bright thought when he said O'Connell should stand aside and let the district swing into the Democratic column again. His margin of four votes (even if O'Connell's friend, Joseph Canton, allows him to take his seat) is altogether too great a drop from the pre O'Connell days.

It's South Boston's Chance.

"The next Congress is going to be Democratic. What a fine thing if the good old Tenth Massachusetts should be represented by a Republican after waiting half a generation for a Democratic Congress. In South Boston there would certainly be mourning at the thought of it.

"I agree with our friend Curley, too, that O'Connell is not aggressive enough. Terribly agressive on the bill-boards, yes, but we want a man who does not cool off feet when he is with the big fellows. The big fellows do get a square deal, don't they? The Cannon bunch (and they're not all the Old Guard either). I guess they got O'Connell a goat all right. Good work. That's right, too.

"And as Curley has put in seven years in city affairs? Fine. But what his district wants is a man who will remember he has spent in thinking over national matters, and the Progressive legislation is the best interests of the country,' says James.

More Details Wanted.

"Again fine. But if he would be a little more specific, don't you think, and maybe you, and I, and the man on the street would have a clearer notion of what he is talking about?

"Well, it's O'Brien and O'Connor and Curley and O'Connell, and last but not least Mayor Mike of Quincy. Fine, all good, clean men, Shea, and I am hoping he won't run, for he is a man who can play some other game in life besides politics, and he'd get a lot of people who do a little thinking on their own account, and nowadays there are more of them than there used to be.

"And some of them say I lack experience? Experience in what? During the last twenty years I thought I had been gathering a little bit of experience, but a man is foolish at times, isn't he? I used to think that these things applied to the national affairs. But now I see how mistaken I was. What I should have done was to stay at home and build up a sandbline."

MRS. ANNA NICHOLS DEAD.

Was Long Noted as Artist, Writer and Philanthropist.

Mrs. Anne E. Nichols, widow of Henry P. Nichols, died yesterday at her home, Commonwealth avenue, in her eightieth year. For many years she had been active in philanthropic work. She was born in Newton, N. H. Her husband, who died some years ago was a Salem man and was of the firm of Crosby, Nichols & Company, who originated the North American Review. Mrs. Nichols was an artist and writer. She was one of the first women members of the Sweedenborgian Church, and was connected with the Boston Society of the New Jerusalem. She was one of those who conducted the first Chinese school in this city.

DR. STORRS SEEKS REST.

Explains Cause of Resignation From St. Paul's Church.

To put a stop to misleading reports the Rev. Dr. Leonard Kip Storrs, Brooklyn, yesterday said that he had resigned solely to seek quiet and rest. Dr. Storrs expects to spend a year visiting with his daughter, wife of Captain Bond, stationed well in Nowshera, India, and later with his son, Harry Storrs, at Vancouver, B. C. "I resigned when I did," said Dr. Storrs, "because I thought it might be legally in the parish meeting warrant, which takes place on Easter Monday, I have long needed the rest I am about to take."

TARIFF DOUBT IN INDIANA.

Republicans Discuss Payne Bill and Beveridge.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 26.—Whether the Republican State Convention, which will be held in this city on April 5 will indorse the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, as well as the course of United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge who voted against the bill, was a question that occupied the party leaders deep concern when they assembled today in the ninety-two county meetings to select delegates to the State Convention. Senator Beveridge will be a candidate for re-election before the next Legislature.

Billerics No License.

BILLERICA, March 26.—This town went no-license again this year, as usual.

Music for Railroaders.

North Union Lodge 74, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, will hold its first entertainment and social Thursday evening at Engineers Hall, No. 164 Canal street. The entertainment consists of Miss Alice Rice, soprano; Miss Ruth Wheelon, contralto; W. Trader, violinist; Mark Merrill, tenor, and the North Union Quartet. Dancing will follow the entertainment.

Church Lecture Series.

The members of the Holy Name Society of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Revere, are hearing a series of lectures on "Socialism" by the Rev. John C. Fenton. The lectures are being largely attended by the men of the parish. The third of the series will be delivered on one of the Sunday evenings in April.

Fights for City Position.

Pleading that he was a civil service employe, Charles J. Stowell yesterday filed a petition in the Superior Court for reinstatement as an assistant drawbridge tender in the bridge department. He was removed on December 5, 1908, by Superintendent Emerson and he says his removal was illegal because he was not given a proper hearing.

Baby in Long Fall Isn't Hurt.

They have stout babies in Cambridgeport. Yesterday Mrs. Mary McDonald of fifteen-months-old Johnny near the second story window at her home, No. 80 Bristol street. Johnny fell out to the hard ground below. Cambridge Relief Hospital surgeons found a few bruises on him and sent him back home in time for his supper, little the worse for the wear.

How Fortunes are Made

Not by individuals acting alone. Not by mere savings. Not by piling one dollar on top of another in a savings bank at 3½ or 4 per cent. a year.

No! a thousand times no! The interest from bank savings may keep you out of the poor house, but it will never lead you to Easy Street. Invest your spare money in the same way that Bankers invest it for you and soon you will be on Easy Street, with independence forever.

Everybody knows that banks make money; if they merely allowed their deposits to accumulate in their vaults they never could make a dollar. They make their money by investing yours in Bonds, mortgages and the very stocks which you might as well buy for yourself. They pay you 3½ or 4 per cent. but the big earnings they keep for themselves.

An instance of the enormous sums earned by these concerns is furnished by the Union Trust Company of Pittsburg, which during one year, on a capitalization of $1,500,000, earned $4,527,530. That is 302 per cent. net. The Board of Directors passed $4,000,000 to the surplus account, making a total surplus of $20,000,000. This was actually accomplished through the deposits of just such people as yourself.

Other instances include the Chemical National Bank of New York, which paid 150 per cent., the Fifth Avenue Bank of New York, which paid 100 per cent. Yet the depositors got no more than 3 or 4 per cent.

It is a positive fact that most of such great profits are earned through investments in Industrial stocks, and while banks are great money makers the REAL big dividend payers are the INDUSTRIAL CORPORATIONS.

Right here in Boston you rub shoulders every day with people who have grown enormously rich from a few hundred dollars invested in the beginning in Bell Telephone, in Linotype, in Singer Sewing Machine, and numberless other Industrial Corporations whose basis was sound and whose managements were honest.

It is clear, therefore, that your way to fortune lies through an investment in an Industrial Stock which has been proven sound—though not yet fully developed. For if you wait for its full development your opportunity will be gone.

So invest your nest-egg of savings in this way where it will work for you in sickness and in health—by day and by night—where it will eventually double and keep on doubling for all time.

Such an Investment Is Offered You in the Stock of the Autopress Company

Read the details of the Autopress printed below. You will see that it has proven itself the greatest money-making machine ever invented. The company's necessity for funds to develop its business makes your opportunity. In this method of coming directly to you with its stock it is following in the footsteps of many of the other great Industrial Corporations which have reached world-wide importance and tremendous wealth.

Read every word of what follows, for Autopress stock will make you and every other investor in it rich.

The time will soon come when these shares will have climbed to an incredibly high price. It will then be small comfort to look back and say, "Why, I could have bought Autopress at $11.00 only a little while back."

The Linotype, sister machine to the Autopress. It revolutionized typesetting, just as the Autopress is revolutionizing printing. Paid $4,000,000 dividends in the last two years.

The telephone that has annihilated distance and greatly increased business facilities. The Autopress will likewise increase business facilities by greatly reducing the time and money required to get good commercial printing and advertising literature.

The typewriter that has increased the capacity of correspondence five-fold, as the Autopress increases the printer's capacity five-fold.

FACTS COUNT.

If our presses are good enough for companies like the N. Y. Life Insurance Co., is our stock good enough for you?

MORE PROOF.

From a photograph, showing the delivery of two Autopresses sold to the Prudential Insurance Co., Newark, N. J., making 5 in all.

OUR START.

We started in a small way, with a capital of only $2,500, a factory about 50 feet long, with four machines and a force of only 6 men. Sales about $12,000.

Look at the Size of Our Factory To-Day.

Look at Our Capital Account.
Assets over $3,500,000.
Our Pay Roll To-Day.
Over $2,000 Weekly.

In the past 5 years the factory has built two, and are still building. We are erecting a factory 200 feet long, for we have over 1,000 AUTOPRESSES per year.

GREAT PROFITS.

Our machines sell for $1,750, of which $1,000 is clear profit. Think of it! Over 57% profit on the selling price. Over 100% on the cost. THIS MEANS 33⅓% ON YOUR INVESTMENT EVERY YEAR. We are making but two new Autopress men. There is a demand for 1,000 AUTOPRESSES PER YEAR. BY MAY 1ST WE WILL HAVE 100 AUTOPRESSES A MONTH.

GREAT OPPORTUNITY.

If you know our business as we know it, you know our opportunity as we know it, you would be amazed. If we told you all you would be forced to doubt us. Come to our office and let us show you. Get a clear idea of the foundation of this stock, and we will send you proof that THE STOCK IS WORTH $11.00.

Two years ago we had no Autopress, no capital, no factory, no sales. To-day we have all. We cannot make Autopresses fast enough. We have increased the capacity of our factory by dividends paid. Every dollar we earn we put into more machinery. We need more factory space. We need more money to build it. We need AUTOPRESSES. We need more working capital, and that is the only reason we are selling you our stock.

Our Necessity Is Your Opportunity.

We can get hundreds of thousands of dollars from capitalists, but we prefer to get it from giving to the control of our company. Under no condition will we sell the stock below the price we quote to you.

Our Business Is Phenomenal.

Look at our financial balance sheet. It gives a clear idea of strength, of success. Think of it! Less than two years ago we began with $2,500, a small machine shop, and a few men. To-day we have a business of over $3,000,000 a year. THIS IS HOW WE MADE MONEY. WITH THIS SAME PLAN WE SELL YOU STOCK YOU WILL NEVER REGRET IT. THE AUTOPRESS COMPANY IS ONE OF THE BEST STOCKS PURCHASED TO-DAY. IT IS SELLING FOR $11.00 PER SHARE AND WILL SOON SELL FOR FIVE TO TEN TIMES THAT.

The Autopress stock will soon be all sold. Only a few more of weeks and your opportunity will be gone.

ROOSEVELT HAS SPORT WITH AMERICANS AT CAIRO

Ex-President Hurls Back Tart Answers as Yankee Tourists Give Him Good Natured Advice at Handshaking Bee

Special Cable to the Sunday American.

CAIRO, March 26.—Straighten up old man Taft when you get home," was the advice a Rhode Island man gave Colonel Roosevelt when he shook hands with a line of American tourists in Cairo, in the tropical gardens of Shepheard's Hotel. The former president smiled and made no comment.

He then turned to the next man, who happened to be a Mr. Bryan of Texas, cousin of the "peerless one" says: "Texas is a great State. If it is possible I am going to visit that San Antonio show."

Nearly everyone in it had some political advice to offer but the situation never became awkward because Colonel Roosevelt ended an answer.

When the Colonel stepped across the terrace leading into the garden, the trees decorated with American flags, those Yankees and daughters sang "My Country 'Tis of Thee," followed by three thundering cheers and deafening hand clapping.

Roosevelt Makes a Joke.

Roosevelt, in a new sombrero purchased with a frock coat, said: "I'm not going to make a speech, but just say how pleased I am to meet you Americans out here in Egypt and tell you that not a single thing has been done by me."

The tourists were taken aback and then complimented to their heart's content, each departing satisfied and with a different manner. It was a wonderful performance.

"Why," exclaimed the Colonel as a man from Wyoming appeared "I remember you. I met you at a cow show years ago when I was a delegate to the county convention."

"How I love that Georgia accent," he said to a pair of Southerners, who voiced their pleasure at shaking his hands.

A Pittsburg man speaking German, said "When you get to Berlin just tell Kaiser Bill that you saw me," to which Colonel Roosevelt, responding in the same language, said "Ja, wohl."

Visit to the University.

The luncheon of a description printed in an Egyptian paper that Roosevelt is a combination of St. Paul and St. Vitus was seen in today's program. Pressing through a crush of thousands, Roosevelt drove to Abazar, the famous Mohammedan university, probably the oldest institution of learning in the world. Here is the hotbed of the nationalist movement, and here is located the danger zone that many fear soon may break into the flames of revolution or a holy war and drive the Christian English out of Egypt. Under the guidance of Wally Bey, Colonel Roosevelt explored every inch of this wonderful example of Saracenic architecture.

In the library he gave an example of his wonderful memory, saying: "Years ago I read a translation of an Arabic book of travel by Batuta, who was the Mohammedan Marco Polo. It was written in the thirteenth century. If I am not mistaken, the original is in this library."

There was a scurrying about and the librarian unearthed the book. Roosevelt's memory was not at fault. He saw a collection of wonderful antique Korans beautifully illuminated in gold and colors. Expressing a desire to obtain an antique Korun he found his wishes gratified by Wally Bey, who presented twelve volumes, handsomely illuminated, of a thirteenth century Koran.

Luncheon With Khedive.

Roosevelt had barely time after his visit to return to the hotel, get his top hat and arrive for luncheon at the palace with the Khedive. The party consisted of the Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Ethel and Kermit Roosevelt, Ambassador and Mrs. Straus, and Vice Consul Bell and Mrs. Bell. The conversation was carried on mostly in English, though Miss Ethel the Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt occasionally dropped into French.

Meanwhile apprehension among Europeans on account of Roosevelt's address on Monday is growing. The millionaires particularly are paranoid and endeavoring to get the Colonel to water his speech. Several native papers are trying to raise trouble. One asks: "Is Roosevelt a citizen or a traveling missionary trying to raise trouble?"

The Colonel remains tranquil.

SOME ADVICE FROM YOUR UNCLE SAM

Cheap cuts of meat are just as good as the more expensive cuts—if you know how to cook.

Make housework your business and expenses will go down.

You cannot reduce the cost of living if you start to cook forty minutes before meal time.

Skank is almost as good as tenderloin if the cook is qualified.

If you don't save what is left after a meal, you are wasting good money.

It is not miserly to serve small portions. It is economy to help the second time if more meat is wanted.

Hasty cooking and economy are not friends

DAN RILEY,
President Suwanee Valley Florida Land Company

READ THIS ANNOUNCEMENT CAREFULLY

A Straight Talk About Florida

I think I can say that I know Florida fairly well.

I may say that I have literally tramped from one end of Florida to the other.

I have dug into the soil of almost every county in the peninsular portion of the state. I have traveled over thousands of miles of its railroads and its magnificent waterways. I have gathered statistics and data regarding this state from the musty records of the past.

I have studied Florida from the standpoint of its past, present and future, and I say to you that this state offers to-day to the man or woman of limited means the most magnificent opportunities of any state of our great Union.

The soil of Florida is a stored-up mine of wealth, awaiting the plow of the agriculturist. Here in this state on ten and twenty acres of land men are getting rich—and getting rich fast.

The development of Florida has just begun. Many thousands have purchased farms and homes here—but Florida is waiting for a million—and will surely get them.

The work I have done in advertising Florida through the "New South" Magazine during the past year has now been reinforced by the voluntary testimony of these thousands who have gone down there and investigated Florida for themselves.

Any man from the North who once goes to Florida cannot go back home and be entirely satisfied. Florida is a state of fascinations—and the most fascinating part of it is that one can live in this state with more comfort and less work and worry than in any other section of the country.

In Florida you don't have to pioneer. The railroads have already done their share in Florida. The state is covered with a network of steel rails. The men behind these railroads built for the future and they are now coming into their own.

You have no hardships in Florida. The climate the year round is absolute perfection. The soil is fertile beyond the dreams of mortal man Nature has laid you in your work of cultivation.

During the year just passed I have aided and assisted in locating thousands of northern men and women in this great land of plenty—Florida.

These men and women are to-day cultivating their small farms and living happy, contented, industrious lives far away from the toil, the weat, the grind and the heart-breaking, soul-deadening life of the big cities. Here, out in God's good sunshine, they are laying the foundation of health, wealth and happiness for themselves and their loved ones.

After all is said and done, there is only one royal road to independence. Soil tillers can laugh at trusts. The farmer pays no tax on life's necessities. His soil yields him these with moderate labor.

The high price of meat has no terrors for the farmer who raises his own cattle, hogs and poultry. He produces his own grain and vegetables. He laughs at the milk trust if he possesses a cow. He is fortified against want. He is a producer not merely a consumer.

There is only one sure and safe way to escape the slavery of the city. That is to leave the city for the farm. It is the only avenue of escape from conditions that are to-day becoming almost unbearable.

I tell you, my friends, Florida to-day offer the one big chance for the man of limited means and it is only a question of a short time when this chance will be gone.

The simple life is the strong life. The artificial city life is losing its attraction for those capable of distinguishing substance from shadow, and here in Florida where five acres means independence and ten acres means affluence, you have every incentive—every assistance that nature and man can afford to achieve success.

I have told you in the above me honest opinion of Florida in general and I now want to tell you about the Suwanee Valley of Florida in particular.

I selected the Suwanee Valley as an ideal spot for an ideal state. I selected it because it has everything necessary for the building up of a prosperous community.

The Suwanee Valley is a country teeming with the blessings of soil and sun. It is almost a universe in itself, supplying everything necessary to the man who seeks the blessings of wealth, comfort and happiness.

It is at once a tropical country wherein the breath of frost never blights; a temperate country where seasons are equalized; a country where soils are diverse and marvelously productive; where railroad facilities are of the very best; where freights are cheapest and where the farmer and grower has immediate access to the great markets of the world. It is a country where water is plentiful, easy to procure and good; where a new agricultural generation will soon be rising and striving for that success bound to come through the aid of Mother Nature.

The Suwanee Valley farms are located between the Suwanee River and the great back-bone of Florida. The soil is a marvelously rich sandy loam where from $200.00 to $1,000.00 can be made in clear profit from one acre. In this section it is from 15 to 20 degrees warmer in the winter time than the central portion of Florida and the summers are remarkably cool and pleasant, receiving continuously gentle health-giving breezes from the Gulf of Mexico.

There are two through passenger trains every day through this land and four stations right on the land. There are fast freight trains running every day in the year to accommodate the enormous fish and oyster industry of Cedar Keys, but 75 miles south on the Gulf of Mexico. This transportation gives settlers cheap freight rates and remarkable facilities for shipping their produce.

I want every reader of the announcement to write to me to-day and I will immediately send them by return mail further information—maps—a handsome booklet—and detailed description of this land with prices and terms. No matter what your condition in life may be, you cannot afford to be state one moment. This literature I send you costs you nothing—places you under no obligation to purchase, but gives you concise history of this section of Florida, illustrated by actual photographs of the land itself, just as it appears to-day.

You can buy this land at the rock bottom price of $20.00 per acre and upon terms that will astonish you. Any man who can save just $1-2 cents per day can procure one of these farms at once.

You can take this statement at its face value: Florida land is the best possible investment that any one can make right now. Even if you are not prepared to go into the wonderful state and locate on your land at once, here is a place to put your surplus savings, where it is sure, tangible proposition. It is better than a bank account or better than government bonds.

The development of hundreds of these farms immediately increases the value of the land adjoining, whether cultivated or not. The actual increase in values of Florida land in large tracts during the year just passed was over 200%! With the tremendous movement to Florida of actual settlers—the bone and sinew of the north—values are going to increase this year in even a larger ratio. An investment in Florida land is one wherein there is no possible chance for loss.

The buyer of Florida land who takes advantage of his opportunities to-day is going to participate in the great prosperity and consequent rise in values. This value increase in the Suwanee Valley of Florida is going to be phenomenal, from the fact that it is the best fruit and truck growing section of this marvelous state.

I want you to read the following letter from one of our first settlers, Mr. Albert Booth of Chicago, Ill. I also want you to read the permanent guarantee of the officers of the Suwanee Valley Florida Land Company, of which I am President; and then I want you to sit right down and fill out the information blank below and mail it to me to-day for full description and details of this marvelous opportunity. This will cost you nothing but a 2 cent stamp and may be the means of turning you towards the road to independence and freedom.

(Signed,) Dan Riley

Wyley, Florida, March 20, 1910
Mr Dan Riley, President Suwanee Valley Florida Land Co.,
Atwood Building, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Mr Riley,

As you know, I landed here on my land in the Suwanee Valley about three weeks ago with my wife and children, and to say that I am delighted beyond measure is but to state it mildly.

This climate I know is going to be just the thing for my family, as it is simply ideal. Every day since we have been here has been a gentle breeze.

I am going to start right in building my shack and clearing my land ready for fencing and plowing. Mr. Moss has about one acre in fine potatoes which are already well up out on the ground and looking fine. We have enjoyed a mess of fine radishes from the acre.

We enjoyed the ride down very much as we came through a very beautiful section of Florida filled with vegetable and fruit farms. I believe it will produce anything and I am going to lose no time in getting something planted.

I have written to several of my friends in Chicago to be sure and secure some of this land. I have ridden over a large portion of it and every bit of it is first class farming land.

Your representative here provided me with a nice house rent free to live in until I can get my own shack built. I appreciate this and wish to thank you and the company for the generous and courteous treatment accorded to myself and family in all my dealings with you. I feel that I am going to make a success here and bid goodby forever to want and worry.

Yours sincerely,
ALBERT BOOTH, Formerly of 3402 Indiana Av., Chicago.

Mary Meyer Tells More Secrets of Politics

BY MARY T. MEYER.

Ninth of a Series of Articles Written Specially for the Sunday American. Another will be Published Next Sunday.

(Copyright, 1910, by Mary T. Meyer.)

THIS year that was a busy year politically; there was a strong coalition of Martin Lomasney and the Republican machine. Trouble began the first of the year. January 1st Arthur W. Dolan was nominated in the caucus of the Democratic members-elect for the presidency of the Common Council, receiving a clear majority of the members present, and in fact a clean majority of all the Democratic members-elect.

January 2 the Republicans held their caucus of the Republican members-elect at Mayor Hart, through his henchmen, Jesse Gove, William C. Campbell, Arthur P. Russell, vice-president of the Republican city committee, Patrick Kenney, Felix Forde, Joseph H. Holden and William Berwin tried hard to have Daniel J. Kiley nominated, but the nomination of Oliver F. Davenport of Ward 20. It looked very much as though Kiley would be defeated.

Now we come to the time that the organization became suspicious of the loyalty of John F. Fitzgerald. Lomasney, Peter Donovan and movements or Cuney rather, showed the experienced pulled Mr. Fitzgerald to the side of all the organization was doing to deliver the goods to the candidate, and Thomas Gargan, Jr., Who managed Lomasney out when Fitzgerald was appointed to the chance for re-election to the presidency gave a dinner to about fifteen councilmen at Young's Hotel, January 4.

Among the fifteen who attended were the three councilmen-elect, Daniel J. Kiley, Henry Fitzgerald, Tom Grady and Scigliano. Rear to hold this was done to face the music and vote for Dolan, which seemed evident when they left John J. Duggan, who unanimously controlled the Democratic caucus, to begin with Lomasney to defeat Dolan's election and Daniel J. Kiley's election. Kiley was apparently had no chance for re-election to the presidency, and if he could not get fifteen councilmen at Young's Hotel, what could.

Kiley was apparently had no chance for re-election to the presidency, and if he could not get fifteen councilmen at Young's Hotel, what could.

Kiley Was Re-elected.

The next day (Monday) which was Inauguration day Kiley was re-elected president, receiving 50 votes, 27 were Republican and 23 Democrats among which were the Ward 1 councilman, Henry Fitzgerald, Tom Grady and Scigliano. So the leaders can see that last Fall was the first time that Lomasney and Fitzgerald played together. Of course, Fitz was working for the good of the party Undoubtedly, Brother Henry was sent by the Senate.

Someone very wisely defined history as being a narrative of past events for the instruction of mankind." And this applies to political history as well as to the history of a ball or any other game.

Lomasney was a member of the Board of Aldermen and we find him again battling to defeat the regular Democratic candidate for the board but Lomasney failed to the up the situation by voting for Michael W. Norris. But he met his Waterloo in Jim Doyle. Doyle watched Lomasney as he has said, groaning in the agony of defeat, so Doyle decided to act, which he did. Doyle declined to act and convinced Joe Stewart of Dorchester, a Republican, to run for him and left Lomasney grinning at himself. Jim Doyle always said that Lomasney can't beat anybody unless they steal where he puts them, if they shift, then he does he can't find them. In other words, it means shift as often as Lomasney and he can't think a new one.

The convention for the election of officers for the City Committee was called January 22, and there was no doubt who Patrick A. Collins, who surely would be the man to run for Mayor, wanted Jim Donovan, in whom he recognized those qualities of leadership so necessary to solidify the party.

Party is Got Together.

Donovan was elected unanimously by the secretary casting one ballot. He started right in to put things in shape by getting the many factions, and for the first time at least for six or eight years, he had practically an unanimous party.

I remember very well how amusing it was to hear men calm how loyal they were to Collins two years before. The man who knew how loyalty was Ward Leader Lomasney used to say, "Didn't we give him a good vote in Ward 8 two years ago?" But Martin, what did you do to other wards where your political ideas were strong?

Donovan used to say to me "Isn't it amusing, Mary?" and then add, "Well, I suppose I have to listen to them," and he had to listen to them. Well, Donovan had to keep his eyes on the City Council, the Mayor, Lomasney was up to the second and Kiley was president, and Fitzgerald was a member of the City Council. The many local interests that can be promised must be looked after, and with a City Council composed of the first of 1910 there was a dangerous element that had to be reckoned with.

The famous Hart loan bill was reported by the Committee on Finance and was a good bill. If it should pass the City Council, what a tremendous amount of patronage could be distributed and what a lot of land would be purchased. Everything was wide-awake, however. The bill passed the Board and from appearances it looked as though Lomasney had the votes in the Common Council for even more than to keep it off his ear and did some talking work on the first ballot vote, but failed one vote or two at least to pass the loan irrespective. Reconsideration was moved, passed and assigned until next meeting, a week hence, and then the pulling and hauling started in earnest.

It was said that everything from a pool room stamp to a brick house was offered or promised to vote for the bill. Donovan worked hard, conference after conference was held with the Democratic members who had voted for the bill in an attempt to pull them off.

Lomasney Again Beaten.

Lomasney at the next meeting felt sure he had the votes, but Donovan had put in the work, and when the roll-call was over it only showed again that Donovan in the person was Lomasney's master in the game of politics. Lomasney still lacked two of the required number, and it was supposed of the loan bill. And that defeat thwarted the political ambitions of Lomasney but Donovan accomplished a great victory for the Democratic party in Boston. Fitzgerald was elected by a great majority in many years previous; the real work was done, the kind that spells success. Hon. Patrick A. Collins was nominated by the Democrats and Hon. John A. Hart by the Republicans, and the fight started.

Neither candidate took the stump. I must refer here again to my old friend Nathan Matthews, who was a strong factor in the election. He was on the stump and nightly he fed out his figures of the city's financial condition with such amazing accuracy that poor Hart was overwhelmed. I remember very well that Hart called to his rescue the city auditor (Dodge), poor fellow, and he no sooner appeared on the scene than he was put to sleep by Matthews. It looked like old times again to see Tom Gargan, Nate Matthews and Josiah Quincy campaigning as they did ten years before. I never had a good time in my experience recalling associations with Collins he had and the bitterness that existed between him and Fitzgerald, and it was a pleasure to see the old leaders of the Democratic party working together for the good of the party.

December 1st Paul was election day and I think it was the most exciting day I ever passed. A very disagreeable feature was with which almost up to the last hour it seemed as though Hart would win. However

On election day the headquarters was a scene of excitement and enthusiasm. Everyone was working for the party. Mrs. [illegible] was in charge of the committee rooms, and I had charge of the [illegible] and I will always remember it and feel as though I had a part in the victory.

Prediction Comes True.

Donovan could hardly believe it. He said, to that [illegible] I answered and said that I am sure, because [illegible] was the [illegible] reporters, for [illegible] in the ward of one of the [illegible] twenty [illegible] were from the second ward. The [illegible] Democratic [illegible] I had figured the [illegible] and I will always remember it and feel as though I had a part in the victory.

Mayor Hart received only 1,[illegible] votes, Patrick Collins 21,[illegible]. The Democratic organization was in a better condition at this time than it had been for six or eight years previous, in fact I can say that it was in better condition in my letter condition. The [illegible] part of the party was bright, because the men who were in control of affairs were the men [illegible] got the votes of the men [illegible] against whom not a word could be said and one who had never brought disgrace on his party and surely would not make difficult to [illegible] would never be resorted to.

Do You Realize?

That despondency in women is a mental condition often traceable to some distinctly female ill!

Women who are well do not have the blues, neither are they irritable and restless. Derangement of the female organism breeds all kinds of miserable feelings such as backache, headache, and bearing-down feelings. Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. There is no doubt that it has made many remarkable cures of female ills after all other means had failed. There is hardly a day that some woman does not write us that this simple old medicine, made only of roots and herbs, has cured her of a severe illness.

Plates, Pa.—"When I wrote to you first I was troubled with backache and was so nervous that I would cry at the least noise, it would startle me so. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies, and I don't have any more crying spells. I sleep sound and my catarrh is better, thanks to your advice. I will recommend your medicines to all sufferers."—Mrs. Mary Halstead, Plates, Pa., Box 98.

Walcott, N. Dakota—"I had inflammation which caused pains in my sides, and my back ached all the time. I was so blue that I felt like crying if any one even said 'How-poorly you look to-day.' I wrote to you for advice and got it at once. I started to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills, and I began to feel better and looked better before I finished the fourth bottle of medicine."—Mrs. Amelia Dahl, Walcott, N. Dakota.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

HOLY CROSS LOSES PITCHERS' DUEL IN SUNNY SOUTH

Washington and Lee's Boxman, Moran, Wins Close Argument With Maloney.

LEXINGTON, Va., March 26.—Washington and Lee defeated the Holy Cross team today, 6 to 5. The game was a pitchers' battle between Moran and Maloney and the former proved the stronger. No opposing hitting of Webster and Ward did won for the home lads. Holy Cross tallied first in the second inning when Moran hit two men and after Foley's error Craig drew a pass for big Burns over the plate.

The locals crossed up when Straub walked, stole second and scored on Brown's single. In the fourth Holy Cross added three runs but in the sixth Washington and Lee crossed the home string. The latter added one run in the seventh and third while Holy Cross scored one in the ninth. Foley's long fly featured for Holy Cross.

TINGLEY TAKES RACE.

Wins 15-Mile Run at Pawtucket in Fast Time.

PAWTUCKET, R. I.—March 26.—Jimmy Tingley, of the Pawtucket Athletic club captured the fifteen-mile race at Social Street Grounds this afternoon in fast time. It was a three-cornered race with only William Persons of Providence to push Tingley. Persons was leading at the end of the first mile, but Tingley passed him on the second lap and was never headed. Tingley's time was 1.27.27. Persons was second and Joseph Mahoney of Providence third. Mahoney was leading at the end of the fourth mile, but was forced to retire with a bad cramp. Tingley's performance ranks as one of the best of the season.

Giants Maul Dallas Boxmen.

DALLAS, Tex., March 26.—The Giants drew the Dallas Texas leaguers today and batted Cicotte for five runs in the first inning. Wiltse and Ames were the battery for the Giants, while Dallas used Cullop and Hall. The score:

Giants	5	7	0
Dallas	0	3	2

Erne Won All the Way.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 26.—Harry Erne, the Syracuse lightweight, was returned the winner in the fifteen-round bout between Young Erne, of Syracuse, and Young Fitzgerald, fighting Harry of Brooklyn, here tonight. Erne had the fight all the way. Referee Nat Hart gave Erne the decision. It was rather slow and went the six rounds, the Grays Ferry lightweight leading from start to finish.

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

Boston American's representative with Red Sox.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 26.—The Red Sox and the Cincinnatis was the result of this afternoon's battle at Majestic Park. When the nine innings were completed the score stood 3 to 3, the Reds having made a comp fully in the ninth inning.

Not scoring first on Mitchell's rubber, was followed by a wild pitch and an out at first. Then Meyers drove a long fly to Speaker and the flying run came across.

Manager Dooin, of the Reds, got his team in the field in the first inning, but Bescher got a single and Magee was safe on Lord's error. Mitchell sacrificed, Bescher going to second, and Magee to third. Dooin then hit to Wagner and Magee was forced at the plate, Wagner to Carrigan. Groh hit to Lord and was out, Lord to Gardner.

Suggs, the Reds' pitcher, was the first man up for the Red Sox and struck out. Lord was safe on Groh's error. Hooper struck out. Lewis was safe on Huggins' error, Lord going to third. Speaker struck out, retiring the side.

Gardner was out, Suggs to Dooin. Wagner was safe on Gibson's error. Stahl struck out. Carrigan was safe on Gibson's error. Wood struck out, retiring the side.

Wood pitched a splendid game. He was never in trouble except in the ninth inning, when

DOVES HAVE THREE MORE DAYS AT AUGUSTA

Cobb's Great Throw.

There were several fine bits of field work during the contest. In the second inning Beck tried to score from third on Getz's line drive to Cobb. But Ty's long throw to the plate was as swift as a bullet and just as accurate. Fred was out by a yard with plenty to spare on the stretch. Like a rabbit Sweeney ambushed to the festivities by making a double play all by himself. Slide-ay, one of the Austin catchers, tried the back door to second and Sweeney got to the bag ahead of him, then took a few long Edwards could climb it.

Hugh Bedient has been stronger behind the stick and made a better exhibition. Howard Ehmke, the New York recruit, was referred to as the sensation of the day. He has a good fast ball, a fair curve and a world of nerve. He pitched three innings and allowed but one hit, a scratch single by Bert Niehoff in the first inning.

Pierce Showed Something.

George Pierce, the boy left in Augusta last Spring after Boston opened the game in the Southern League, made good in the pinch to-day. He showed something of this season. It was a walk, a steal to the corner and a home run. The Doves collected a total of seven hits off Wagner and Ehmke. He hit Beck hard, getting a single and a double in three times at bat. Beck got a single and a drive by Gessler, Gessler and Schang struck out.

Pierce went to first on balls and scored on Speaker's single. Hooper struck out. Lewis singled to right, Pierce stopping at second. Lewis scored on Wagner's single to left. Gessler struck out. Schang singled to right, Wagner stopping at second. Pierce scored on Niehoff's single to left. Bedient struck out.

In the fifth inning Wagner got to first on Beck's error. He hit Beck hard, getting a single and a double in three times at bat. Beck got a single and a drive by Gessler, Gessler and Schang struck out. Pierce went to first on balls and scored on Speaker's single. Hooper struck out. Lewis singled to right, Pierce stopping at second. Lewis scored on Wagner's single to left. Gessler struck out. Schang singled to right, Wagner stopping at second. Pierce scored on Niehoff's single to left. Bedient struck out.

In the sixth inning Wagner got to first on Beck's error. He hit Beck hard, getting a single and a double in three times at bat. Beck got a single and a drive by Gessler, Gessler and Schang struck out. Pierce went to first on balls and scored on Speaker's single. Hooper struck out. Lewis singled to right, Pierce stopping at second. Lewis scored on Wagner's single to left. Gessler struck out. Schang singled to right, Wagner stopping at second. Pierce scored on Niehoff's single to left. Bedient struck out.

In the seventh inning Wagner got to first on Beck's error. He hit Beck hard, getting a single and a double in three times at bat. Beck got a single and a drive by Gessler, Gessler and Schang struck out. Pierce went to first on balls and scored on Speaker's single. Hooper struck out. Lewis singled to right, Pierce stopping at second. Lewis scored on Wagner's single to left. Gessler struck out. Schang singled to right, Wagner stopping at second. Pierce scored on Niehoff's single to left. Bedient struck out.

In the eighth inning Wagner got to first on Beck's error. He hit Beck hard, getting a single and a double in three times at bat. Beck got a single and a drive by Gessler, Gessler and Schang struck out. Pierce went to first on balls and scored on Speaker's single. Hooper struck out. Lewis singled to right, Pierce stopping at second. Lewis scored on Wagner's single to left. Gessler struck out. Schang singled to right, Wagner stopping at second. Pierce scored on Niehoff's single to left. Bedient struck out.

In the ninth inning Wagner got to first on Beck's error. He hit Beck hard, getting a single and a double in three times at bat. Beck got a single and a drive by Gessler, Gessler and Schang struck out. Pierce went to first on balls and scored on Speaker's single. Hooper struck out. Lewis singled to right, Pierce stopping at second. Lewis scored on Wagner's single to left. Gessler struck out. Schang singled to right, Wagner stopping at second. Pierce scored on Niehoff's single to left. Bedient struck out.

At the price $1650 fully equipped, the CUTTING 40 is decidedly the standard which other builders may have to attain, but which at this time as fines can produce a car under the same favorable conditions the CUTTING 40 will be the LEADER. We do not claim a special exclusive or special feature, as the CUTTING contains nothing but which has been fully proven a success and can be found on all really high grade cars. We simply offer you more real value, more AUTOMOBILE dollar for dollar, than you can get elsewhere.

Until the advent of the CUTTING 40 the buyer could expect just about so much for a given amount cars were divided into a few classes, and, while many selections were offered, he could only secure a certain power, [illegible], etc., for his investment. With the CUTTING 40 it is different, we ask you to study the car, its general design, finish and appearance. Clip out the specifications and put them beside cars costing from $2000 to $3000 for comparison, and you will instantly discover why the CUTTING 40 is duly substantiated on every count.

COMMITTEE ON ROADS BUSY WITH AUTO BILLS

Several Measures Will Fail of Passing, but One Relating to Lighted Lamps Should Be Enacted.

By J. C. Kerrison.

The State committee on roads and bridges is serious[ly] [con]sidering numerous measures that [in] [its] opinion should be enacted into [law] during the present session of the Legislature.

It is not believed that [all] of these measures will [be] [en]acted into law, but it is [the] [in]tention of the committee to [re]port favorably on as many [as] possible, and the House [and] Senate will be asked to [act] [fa]vorably on the measures [re]ported out by the committee.

The committee has been [ex]ceptionally busy during the [past] week, and has given [a] number of hearings. Many [of] the bills have aroused [a] great deal of interest, and [a] number of lively debates [have] been held.

Police Are Energetic.

The petition to prevent the [use] of motor cars that are not [pro]perly equipped with [lights] during the hours of darkness [is] one that has aroused [a] great deal of interest, and [it] will be one of the most [im]portant measures that [will] be considered by the committee. It is [be]lieved that the police [are] more energetic in [the] enforcement of the [law] since it has come into [ef]fect, and that the [com]mittee is going to [be] influenced by the [fact] that the whole list of [com]plaints against [the] law will be more [or] less affected [by] the fact that [the] law is being [en]forced more thoroughly [at] present than it [has] been.

The talking [ma]chine on the Newburyport [and] Plum Island turnpike as a [nu]isance will also be considered [by] the committee, which [is] visiting the [sec]tion of the State [in] which the [ma]chine is located. SZECHENYI WILL PUT $6,000,000 OF THE VANDERBILT COIN IN A CASTLE

This Is the Place Which as a Compensatory Compliment He Will Call Schloss Gladys.

NEW SKINS FOR OLD FACES

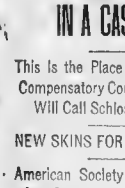
American Society Women Go Into Retirement In Order to Be Peeled Into Beauty.

By VANCE THOMPSON.

Special Correspondent of Boston American.

Special Cable to Boston American.

PARIS, March 26.—Count Ladislas Szechenyi stepped over some days in Paris to consult the leading French architects. He is going to build in Hungary a magnificent chateau which will carry down to future generations the name and fame of his young American wife, and of which project a brief preliminary dispatch has already been sent you.



Marie Thompson.

The property on which the castle is to be erected has already been bought by Count Szechenyi.

It embraces a ruined castle which is to be repaired by the new one which it will stand on a high site to which there is an ascent of 2,000 feet. On the grounds are an historic pilgrimage church as well as a venerable country inn, both of which will be preserved. Within easy reach are picturesque pine clad hills. The new castle will be called Schloss Gladys in accordance with the lady whose money pays for it.

Parisians recall last Count Boni de Castellane named his yacht Anna and that Prince Aldo of Monaco named his Princess Alice after their respective American wives, which fact did not prevent matrimonial shipwreck. And they hope the Schloss Gladys may bring better luck than the yachts.

The price paid for the estate was one million dollars, and the architects estimate that the Schloss will cost between four millions and five millions more if the magnificent plans which Count has selected are carried out. Szechenyi's chief adviser is M Redlin, formerly architect of the Louvre and now architect of the Chateau of Fontainbleu. Redlin built the Petit Palais, the most beautiful modern building in Paris. The Count also consulted M. De Selmer, the curator of the Palace of Versailles.

Castle to Have Baths.

The Schloss Gladys will be in the Hungarian style of architecture in all its essentials, but the decorations and comforts will be taken wherever found. For instance, the garden of Versailles will be copied and there will be a duplicate of the famous tepid bathing pools of Schloss Castle.

American society women have a new fad. Several well known leaders of the society set of New York are now supposed to be taking treatment and only while they are in strict retirement in certain French retreats. In reality they are confined to their rooms in various hotels through having had the skin removed from their faces, necks and arms. The process, which continues until a new skin has formed, is slow and painful, but the result is very satisfactory.

Women who have been thus skinned come out looking like wraiths with a tender, rosy complexion of a fresh wave of old beauty. Adair, the beauty doctor who has gone to New York to reskin Mrs. Katherine Clemmons Mackay, has had to charter a barge of her assistant. The names of the prominent society women are carefully concealed and their friends only surmise their identity from the fact that they are making a retreat.

Henry Addison Alexander of New York, formerly counsel to the American Embassy at Paris and now member of the law firm of Guthrand & Alexander, Whitehall, London, brought over a big party from London to Paris to witness a prize fight. He refused to discuss with his friends his imminent engagement to marriage with Miss Adelaide Dent of Boston.

The Much-Married Alexanders.

This engagement was mentioned at the time of the betrothal of Alexander's daughter to Theodore Douglas Robinson. It is announced that Miss Dent is well known in literary circles, has some reputation as a writer and is said to be a graduate of Wellesley. She and Alexander met on an Atlantic steamer while both were on their way to Paris. Both being of a literary turn, they found much in common and agreed to collaborate in getting out a new edition of Mr. Wilkie Collins' famous "Curiosity Among a Bible." They stopped at the same hotel in Paris and wrote together some articles for the magazines.

At that time Miss Dent was understood to be engaged to a young Chicagoan, Richard Irwin, who accompanied her on her European trip. He left suddenly for London, while Miss Dent went to Alexander's domiciled in Paris. When she finally left for Boston she was accompanied by the many costly presents, including jewelry and laces from the Rue de la Paix. This was about the time Alexander was definitely released from his marriage to Jessie Jordan-Paisley-Magoon-Alexander, now Mrs. Blackburn of London.

That was his third divorce, he having already been twice divorced by his wife, formerly Miss Grace Green, the mother of young Roosevelt's fiance. Friends of both Alexander and Miss Dent believe the engagement will soon be made public. Alexander Parlin, a Chicago architect, now studying at the Ecole des Beaux Arts, Paris, is of this opinion.

Paris Pirouettes in a Chantecler Dance

Special Cable to Boston American.

PARIS, March 26.—The Chantecler dance is all the rage in Paris. It is known as "The Chantecler-tte" and was first danced at the dance given by Mme. De Chanzelles.

It consists of five movements. In the first, Chantecler marches around his partner sedately with arms akimbo, to represent the wings. The march gradually quickens and in the second movement Chantecler dances a quickstep around his partner, dropping his wings alternately. In the third movement the partners face each other and dance forward and retreat. In the fourth movement the lady imitates a hen scratching. Then as Chantecler approaches she dances off, beating her wings. The dance ends with a peaceable promenade of Chantecler with his partner. The steps are merely heel to buttock whips, extended behind the back to imitate Chantecler's tail. Chantecletette produced a rival to popularity all the pollchka dances known to Parisians, including the famous cake walk sent over from America.

Coming to Fight the Wright Air Monopoly

Special Cable to Sunday American.

PARIS, March 26. Captain T. T. Lovelace, one time admiral of the smallest navy in the world, has invented a monoplane with which he will make a series of flights during the forthcoming aviation meets in England and the South of France.

Lovelace is an American with a remarkably sensational career. He was through had a dozen revolutions in South America and was twice sentenced to be shot under the Castro regime in Venezuela. While the New York newspapers were printing the details of his tragic end Lovelace escaped and pieced himself at the head of the Panama navy consisting of one cruiser. Later he accepted a commission and worked with Wright during the latter's flights in Europe.

Three months ago Lovelace built his first aeroplane backed by the Rumsey Company. Now he has a fast craft which was formerly Miss Mary, King of Oswego's, but with well known to the social world of Paris for as a fitting name for the machine. Her diplomatic reminiscences, though six feet, are more entertaining and her description of chateau life in France is a rapid.

At the luncheon given His Majesty, Mrs. Waddington had the good taste to say several agreeable things about the hospitality and attractive American women.

Among those ladies figured the Marquise de Polignac, Comtesse Rolgeway d'Ursel, Princesse de Caraman Chimay, Mme. Ridgeway Knight, Mme. Standish, wife of Sir William Standish, master of the fox hounds at Pau. It is also interesting to note that among the guests was the Marquise de Breteuil, for long Mme. Standish, wife of Sir William Gordon Cumming, who King Edward has forever ostracized.

Mrs. Waddington was audited at this entertainment by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Francis Waddington. The lively wit of these clever American ladies was somewhat refreshed the English monarch that his royal lad was heard to remark that his position as medical adviser has become a sinecure.

And now at Biarritz when Mrs. William Moore takes His Majesty in hand his aim will be complete. Mrs. Moore is celebrated for the wit and charm of her conversation. She has the advantage over most of her rivals in his respect, as she can tell them to the King's face.

Vanishing Church Property.

The Duke de Rohan and the Duke de Chartres are trying to collect the proceeds of a certain property recently sold under the order of the "Congregation Act." They are the heirs of Princess Louise Adelaide of Bourbon Conde, who founded the once famous convent.

This Princess was the fiancee of King Louis XVIII., and when her engagement was broken off she turned nun. Now the Duke de Chartres and the Duke de Rohan, being the direct heirs of the Princess, are certainly legally entitled to the property. They are willing to be generous in dispoor by the sales of church property become more mythical each day.

M. Cochery, our distinguished Minister of Finance, has had a happy inspiration for increasing our revenue. He proposes to sell advertising space upon match boxes now being Government property. Hitherto pretty girls adorned these boxes, but they will grace them no more. As tobacco is also State monopoly, I wonder he has not hit upon the plan of selling space upon cigar boxes.

GREEKS EXPLORED AFRICA.

ROME, March 26.—That South Africa was known to the ancient Greeks and Phoenicians is certain, says Dr. Carl Peters the famous German explorer.

In a communication to the Italian Geographical Society Dr. Peters declares that in the course of his journeys in the southern part of the Dark Continent he has gathered absolute and abundant proof that the country was visited and occupied by the Greeks and Phoenicians, who undoubtedly knew of the falls of the Zambesi.

Dr. Peters says he had found articles of Greek and Phoinician art dating from many centuries before Christ. It is believed that his discoveries will tend to explain certain passages in the Bible which have hitherto baffled inquirers.

MRS. CARROLL TALKS PURITY TO ACADEMY

HONOR MRS. WADDINGTON

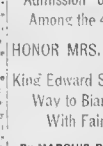
King Edward Stops in Paris on Way to Biarritz to Lunch With Fair Diplomat.

By MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE.

Special Correspondent of Boston American.

Special Cable to Boston American.

PARIS, March 26.—Two months hence the question to the Academie chair of the late Cardinal Mathieu will take place when Paris "Immortals" are finding some difficulty in choosing a successor to the accomplished Cardinal.



MARQUISE DE CASTELLANE.

There are, of course, many candidates, among whom are two bishops—Le Camus and Mgr. Duchesne. There are two literary candidates also, one of these is Vicomte de Saint Genies, whose motto is plume is Richard O. Monroy. He is well known to the readers of the Revue Bleu. The other literary nominee is "Immortality" is the But the chief of these boer Jean Moreau. Writers are known for the immortality of their works our ever delightful American friend, Mrs Charles Carroll, is out campaigning against them.

It is to the credit of our Academicians that they are giving Mrs. Carroll a proper fair and orderly hearing. They can under this due, not only to her social position and charming personality, but to the fact that she is the grand daughter of the historian Bancroft.

Mrs. Waddington Royal Guest.

While passing through Paris on the way to Biarritz using Edward emphasized his partiality for Anglo American women by making the luncheon hospitality of Mrs. W. H. Wad dington, widow of the French Ambassador of Saint James. Mrs. Waddington, who was formerly Miss Mary, King of Oswego, is not only well known to the social world of Paris for as a fitting name for the machine. ASQUITH WOBBLING AROUSES IRELAND

DEMANDING NEW LEADER

Conditions Quiet, Indicating the Breaking Out of a Furious Storm.

Special Correspondence of the Boston Sunday American.

DUBLIN, March 19.—Everything here and at Westminster is of that seraphic calm which wise mariners tell us is the forerunner of a storm. On the surface one cannot see a ripple. Beneath there are gathering angry eddies which before many weeks may come together and unite into one mighty Niagara.

Premier Asquith is neither pleasing his friends nor disappointing his enemies. Everyone is growing sick and tired of his pitiful wobbling though the cabinet meets with unusual frequency and sits for hours at a time, nothing can be learned even by the most resourceful political reporters as to what is in the air. On the part of the Unionists there is no desire to force the pace. But, when all goes well, and progress is being made with the administrative program, important hints and their way into the columns of the favored ministerial organs, and through these the waiting country outside gets some idea of the national policy.

All Are in the Dark.

These days, however, the walls at Downing street have no ears, apparently, and the cabinet leaders on both sides of the Irish sea are running be dead reckoning. In other words, the framers of public opinion are however unwillingly, going it blind. In such a situation no man's guess is as good as that of his neighbor.

This veiled mystery, however is confined to Downing street and to the minds of the cabinet officers. There is no mystery in the political councils of Ireland. Steadily but quietly, the work is going ahead of organizing the country to the highest point of readiness for the next battle, which now seems inevitable.

Asquith would like to have Ireland accept some measure of home rule in his session and take lowered words instead of a home rule bill during these uncertain days of the next Parliament. Ireland will do nothing of the sort.

Asquith stood before thousands of British voters in Albert Hall before election and made certain things concerning Ireland which gave to him and to the Liberal party the Irish vote in England and Scotland. This well-organized vote was decisive in the recent election. The constituencies and was also a powerful factor in twice as many more. But for it Asquith and his colleagues would not be in the "cold shades of opposition" and Arthur Balfour would be sitting on the front treasury bench as Prime Minister.

Talk and No Results.

Now there are rumors that Asquith does not want the country to believe that he furnished quick delivery of the promised Irish measure. Indeed he would like to be allowed to go on through the session, handing out pleasant promises every now and then so as to make it appear he intends to do for Ireland one of these days and still hold power with the aid of the Irish party. But here in Ireland this will not do.

The country expects, and has every right to expect, something definite and tangible at the hands of Asquith. And if such be not forthcoming right soon in the shape of an unequivocal ministerial policy for Ireland things will be doing" in Anglo Irish politics before the debates are fairly above ground.

Everybody now expects another general election before July. If the Liberals are to hold office they must choose another leader. He must have red, fighting blood in his veins. The Liberals have such a man in Augustine Birrell. Let him and Give either of these men the reins of power as Prime Minister and there will be no more halting or hesitancy such as now rattles the nerves of Ireland.

"Insolent" and "Arrogant."

Before election, in his last speech in the House as he announced his appeal to the country, Asquith talked loudly about the "insolent and arrogant usurpation" of the House of Lords. To-day we are hearing much softer words and such words of conciliation that the terms "insolent and arrogant" are no longer used. No matter how Mr. Asquith may delude himself the people of Ireland are quite hooked in these two words is the spirit of the country. The masses of Great Britain are determined on reform, peaceable, of course. Just now, but a revolution. And Asquith is old enough statesman to know that pink teas and cornerstone addresses do not win revolutions.

There is no pink tea about Lloyd George or about Birrell. Winston Churchill may be found on the sunny side of the people's temperament. Those three will be the fighting triumvirate in the next battle of the polls.

Even the Lords are wise enough to see signs of the gathering storm. Some of them talked at first as if they would unreservedly reject everything and his resolutions for self-reform out the window. But they are thinking better of this. Courage is certain, and they have gone far with the "Duke's Sons and Cook's Sons" of the upper chamber. But there are still a few among them who have not yet lost all regard for public sentiment and these are toning down their more haughty and stiff necked colleagues of the peerage.

Resolutions made by the Lords to reform themselves and he is credited with ability to carry his resolutions of privilege-surrender. His resolutions do not go far enough to justify the prediction that the Lords will not veto home rule and anything that falls short of this will not be satisfactory to Mr. Redmond and his associates of the Irish party.

The Lords' veto must be clipped a great deal more than the Rosebery resolutions are meant to do, before the road is clear for home rule.

Three American Women Prominent in the Foreign News of To-day

BATAILLE OBJECTS TO PURITAN CRITICS

Special Cable to Boston American.

PARIS, March 26. Henri Bataille, the successful French dramatist, has just sold two of his plays to Charles Frohman making the unusual condition that the English version must be submitted to him for approval before the plays are produced. These plays are "Les Scaliis" and "The Scarlet Virgin." M. Bataille said to-day to the American correspondent: "I am unwilling to sacrifice the artistic value of my work to Anglo Saxon hypocrisy. Over here we know that great loves and great hates produce certain results. The American mind seems to consider the natural flow of the emotions between sexes as vulgar. On the other hand we recognize that love may also be great heights and sink to the lowest depths. That is the motive that makes life and art shine."

Mr. Frohman has guaranteed production of these plays in New York next Winter. The Comedie Francaise has been one of the big successes of the Paris season.

This week both the Emperor of Austria and the Shah of Persia tried to purchase racing cars on an American manufacturer but were politely refused as customers. Rank patronage and American business methods do not agree, as the scores of court officials who demanded commissions left no profit but the glory of selling Roy a by pass full prices, but the courtiers in revenge the money

EMPEROR REWARDS LONG ISLAND BOY

Special Cable to Boston American.

VIENNA, March 26.—The courageous deed of Seymour Donahey, a fourteen year old American boy who is a student at the High School in Vienna, has caused a great sensation.

Donahey's father, a rich land owner of Long Island, is seeking sailboats from his wife and wanted the boy to be absent while the divorce was pending. The young man went to the Danube last week with some comrades to take a ride in a boat. While standing on the shore of the river two of his comrades jumped in the boat. The current immediately caught the boat and overturned it, precipitating both boys in the water.

Neither boy could swim, and Donahey threw off his coat, plunged in and brought one boy to the shore. He plunged in again and rescued the second, who was already unconscious. As a reward for his brave deed the boy has received a gold medal from the Emperor. The Vienna newspapers commenting on Donahey's bravery declare that no Viennese boy would dare to have risked his life twice as did this American youngster.

THE CENSUS FOR 1911.

Great Britain to Count Noses on Sunday, April 2.

LONDON, March 26.—Mr. Burns, president of the Local Government Board, has presented in the House of Commons a bill for taking the census for Great Britain in 1911.

The census will be taken on Sunday April 2, 1911 Many suggestions have been made for an improvement of the form of question put to householders. There will be some additions, but they will not be of a revolutionary character. The census will be substantially the same as it was ten years ago, and, as then, every effort will be made to speed up the analysis and publication of the returns.

FAKE PICTURES GALORE.

No Fewer Than 15,454 Sent Here in One Year.

Special Cable to Boston American.

PARIS, March 26.—La Patrie states that 15,454 fake pictures were sent to America during the last twelve months, including 2,849 signed Corot, 1,812 Rembrandts, 6,024 Fonieres, 983 Reuners and 2,786 Zicns.

KAISER ANGRY OVER ROOSEVELT FAILURE

By COUNT VON ELPHBERG.

Special correspondent of Boston American.

Special Cable to Boston American.

BERLIN, March 28. Extreme displeasure and anger is felt in the highest quarters of Berlin over the failure of the Kaiser's plan to have Prince Eitel Frederick and his wife meet Col. Theodore Roosevelt on the Nile. They are on the way to Jerusalem, where the Prince will open the German hospital and a German building institution on the Mount of Olives in April.

The Kaiser had telegraphed his son to make a diversion into Egypt to meet Mr. Roosevelt. The orders were obeyed, but Prince Eitel just missed Roosevelt by a few hours, owing to a mishap of the travelling arrangements and got nothing more than a brief telegram from Roosevelt regretting his inability to wait. The Kaiser's purpose in sending Eitel on this mission was apparently to convey to the latter the laws of court etiquette that a prince of the royal house should go out of his way on lark, such is less a thousand miles, to meet a mere citizen, even if he is cited as the ex President of the United States.

It was by thus paying Roosevelt an exceptional mark of honor that the Kaiser desired primarily to conciliate public opinion in America, and, secondly, to woo Mr. Roosevelt, whom he regards as the next President.

The Kaiser has not had any great success in his big scheme for improving relations between Germany and other countries. His efforts to woo Russia were unsuccessful, and it was the same with France. His unfamiliar to other quarters have been coolly received, and he has failed to win English good feeling. Now his scheme to win over the American statesman has failed.

The resumption of normal diplomatic relations between Austria and Russia is the chief event of the week. It has ended many grave inconveniences in the civilities of Emperor Life.

After the assassination of Rosnia by Austria in 1908 all personal intercourse between the Austrian and Russian courts ceased and their respective ambassadors at St. Petersburg and Vienna abstained from calling on their majesties or attending court official functions. Nicholas and Francis Joseph broke off their friendship, no longer congratulating each other on their birthdays or corresponding. The resumption of social relations is therefore welcomed with a sigh of relief.

VIENNA, March 28.—Archduke Francis Ferdinand, to whose initiative Col. Roosevelt's visit to Vienna on April 15 is due, has invited Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria, the King of Saxony, the King of Wurtemburg and the Grand Duke of Baden to Vienna to meet the famous guest.

They will all take part in a supper given by the Archduke in honor of the ex-President.

MISS M. RUTHERFORD TO BE PRESENTED TO THE BRITISH SOVEREIGNS

Two More Courts to Be Held This Season and There's Great To-Do Among Debutantes.

AMERICAN GIRLS PRESENT

By CHARLES R NORCROSS.

Special correspondent of Boston American.

Special Cable to Sunday American.

LONDON, March 26. It has been definitely decided that the first court after Whitsuntide shall be held on May 27 instead of the second Wednesday, June 8 as was first announced. This will be the last court of the season, as Americans will have to decide to secure the coveted invitation through Ambassador Reid or from the lord chamberlain's office.

The young American woman to be presented at one of the courts is Miss Margaret Rutherford who is in London with Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt. She has been one of the Ritz Hotel. After a few days in Paris Mr. Vanderbilt intends visiting his daughter, the Duchess of Marlborough, who, by the way is to be the distinguished hostess of the prince to 700 acrobats at the sixty sixth annual festival of the Ragged School Union and Shaftesbury Society on May 2. Miss Rutherford has been a great favorite for Paris and the Continent but will surely have a good time in London this Spring.

CHARLES R NORCROSS.

Miss Crocker's Recollections.

Miss Jennie Crocker, California heiress, and Miss Higbehn Dodge, the latter a handsome girl, will soon be made much of this season. Miss Crocker, who is a great favorite in society, caused amusement when she was a guest at the Whitelaw Reids in 1905, by retelling to her friends the details of the extremely sudden proposals she had received from eligibles whom she scarcely knew. However, she is quite unassuming and declares she will never marry a man she is not in love with.

Many American hostesses are absent from London just now. The Bradley Martins and the Cravens, instead of going to the Riviera, changed their minds at the last moment and followed the King to Biarritz. It is believed that Consuelo Duchess of Marlborough succeeds in inducing the King to close with her.

Private letters said the King is depressed and not nearly as well as his official bulletins declare. The only cures to see his intimates.

The Riviera has but few Americans this season, fewer, Englishmen and many Germans. These are not of the best type nor the proprietors of hotels are in despair.

The Duke and Duchess of Marlborough and Lord and Lady Alastair Innes Ker are at Monte Carlo for a fortnight. The latter has still a villa at Cannes and is entertaining numerous friends there.

Lady Ripon, who is now in South Africa, will not return in June. Her daughter, Miss Nellie Peel, still denies her reported engagement to the Hon. Montagu Eliott, nephew of the Earl of St. Germains.

Mrs. Mackey and Mrs. Mackay.

Margaret Lady Waterlow, who was Miss Hamilton of San Francisco, has had extensive repairs done to her house in Chesham place and intends entertaining on a large scale. She is at present in her beautiful villa at Monterey, all Cannes, where she is an acknowledged leader of society. She receives Russian Grand Dukes and German princelings by the dozen.

Mrs. Harold Baring who was Miss Marie Louise Duer of New York is certainly living up to her name.

Mrs. Frank Mackey, who is often confused with Mrs. John W. Mackay by society reporters, has just taken No. 47 Charles street, which has been vacated by the Grenards, and great things in the entertainment line are expected of her. She is a favorite with the hunting set in Leicestershire and is considered one of the most dressed women in the field. Her party, which are always different from those of other American hostesses, are unusually liked going for days after words. She is a cousin of Mrs. Mackay.

A unique variety entertainment of the most up-to-date kind shortly.

Mrs. John W. Mackay's entertainments at Carlton House Terrace are of quite a different nature and consist of stately dinners and two or three concerts which rival those given by the Queen in the matter of the prices paid the artistes. Her sister, the Countess Telfner, will visit her soon, Mrs. Mackay's son, Clarence Mackay, whose little daughter will be at Miss Marjorie Gould's wedding.

The Duchess of Sutherland, who is a lover of the theatre and who has written two dramas, is a member of the syndicate known as "The English Players," which was formed for the purpose of sending an English theatrical company to the Continental countries with Shakespeare and modern English plays. Viscount Esher, a friend of the Kaiser, is chairman of the company. A matter likely to trouble Lord Esher and the Duchess will be the secretion of good actors and actresses as the Continent lacks at second-rate companies, and Charles Frohman, who controls such rising young actresses as Marie Lohr and Ethel Irving formed for the purpose of sending an English theatrical company to the Continental countries with Shakespeare and modern English plays. COPPER "SICK" AT CLOSE OF THE WEEK

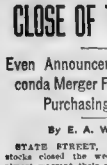
By E. A. WILKINS.

STATE STREET, March 26.—Copper stocks closed the week sick enough to almost warrant their purchase. Even the announcement of the Anaconda copper merger did not induce any purchasing power. The decline in some stocks was accentuated by the uncovering of stop loss orders and weak margined account were necessarily closed out. Support was entirely lacking in the so called Amalgamated group, while great big chunks were lopped off the price of Granby mining shares.



The latter stock had a $34 drop per share in four days which undermined the whole list. Diminishing ore reserves and the passing of the dividend, the next month, account for the slump in the market price of this stock. This another disappointment must be recorded in a company thought to possess all the requirements of a high grade investment and which was boomed for all it was worth. Apparently, the management hopes to work out its salvation by enlarging its territory in taking over new property.

One thing is lacking in the answers, announced by the Amalgamated Anaconda combination. No mention is made of the North Butte property, but the way the price of the company's shares held during the general weakness indicates that it will be taken over on about the basis of the present selling price of the stock or around $80 to $85 per share. The value of Butte Coalition under the merger terms figures 20¾, and for Parrot a trifle above 19, which accounted for the quick two point advance in the price of the latter stock.

Amalgamated figures out as being worth $100 per share under the terms of the merger. After all the subsidiary companies have been dissolved and the equivalent shares of Anaconda have been deposited in the Amalgamated treasury for its Boston & Montana, Butte & Boston, Parrot and Butte Coalition, a theoretical value of a trifle over $100 per share can be figured for Amalgamated, table at the present rating of $40 for Anaconda. This apparent disparity in the selling price of these two stocks, Amalgamated closing at $73 Friday, may give an opportunity for evening up and will be made good either in an advance in the price of Amalgamated shares or a decline in Anaconda. The latter estimated ownership of some 2,005,000 shares of Anaconda stock in proximity is only a matter of time and will call for an assessment of about $4 per share to the Amalgamated company.

The continued weakness of Arizona Commercial has been a very unsettling factor, for usually the Amster stocks receive good support. Its recent low of 26½ compares with a high of 54¾ last October, but through the conversion of bonds its outstanding capital now amounts to 120,000 shares. The recent increase in the bonded debt of over $400,000 caused the decline from around 40. The large flow of water has been very expensive and interfering with mining operations. President Ryan has the reputation of always "making good," although at present there is a good deal of skepticism.

Calumet & Hecla's decline to 600 is the low est price for a year and has created apprehension because of its effect this spring. The best in Copper Range has maintained a firm tone in this specialty stock, although very little of the stock is offering. The Daly stocks have also held fairly well.

Will Celebrate Anniversary.

The twenty-ninth anniversary of St. John's Court, Massachusetts Catholic Order of Foresters, will be observed by a social entertainment in Holy Trinity Parish hall, Cambridge, Monday evening, April 4. Among the speakers will be the Rev. Dr. James H. Ryan, high chief ranger; John H. Harrigan and Dr. Francis J. Hanley, high medical examiner of the order.

Knights in Black Face.

The members of Christ Council, Knights of Columbus, are preparing a minstrel show and dance to be held in the Revere Town Hall on the night of April 28. The council is composed of about 600 members and there is not a hall in Revere large enough to accommodate them.

THE COPPER MERGER PLANS.

Anaconda stock has been voted to increase the common stock from $ 1,200,000 to $ 2,000,000, and a second plan for the creation of the two new stocks offered in exchange for the Amalgamated Copper and Anaconda stocks now outstanding and dependent upon the amalgamation of the Boston & Montana, Butte & Boston, Parrot and Butte Coalition companies.

DULNESS IN STOCKS PRECEDES HOLIDAYS

By THOMAS C. SHOTWELL.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Stock markets of the world were closed on Friday and Saturday, and London will remain closed Monday. In preparation for these holidays professional traders everywhere closed out their speculative lines, and few new commitments of any kind were made. The result was four days of dulness without price fluctuations of importance.

Failure of the Supreme Court at Washington to render a decision in the Tobacco case disappointed many. It is now expected on April 4, only because the Court reconvenes on that day, and not because there has been any official intimation of a decision.

Some evidence has been found that the trusts are prepared for an adverse decision. The Amalgamated Copper Company, for instance, is going out of business because it is a New Jersey corporation controlling mines in Montana. The Anaconda Mining Company is a Montana corporation, and its stockholders voted last Wednesday to increase its capital so as to purchase all the properties of the Amalgamated. This will put the Amalgamated company out of the reach of the Sherman Anti-Trust law.

The terms of the purchase leave Amalgamated with 2,076,000 shares of Anaconda in its treasury. This, with the cash it carries, means that one share of Amalgamated is equal to a little more than two shares of Anaconda. And yet two shares of Anaconda are selling for $98, while one share of Amalgamated brings only $73. This illustrates the intensity of the foolish season that has settled over Wall Street.

Samuel Gompers made another attack on the Steel Trust, accusing it of violating the Anti-Trust law. The announcement was preceded by an attack on the stock market by a notorious Boston operator. The attack was a failure, and the market closed quiet, but strong. Its technical condition is much improved.

Atchison directors are considering the issue of more bonds, the volume being reported at something between $25,000,000 and $40,000,000. This announcement caused great dissatisfaction, as the Street has been led to believe that the Atchison was in good shape financially.

The week saw several labor disputes settled to the satisfaction of Wall street. The Locomotive Firemen and the Railroad Switchmen made concessions, and the Philadelphia strike looked as if it were about at an end. Soft coal miners failed to reach an agreement in the Cincinnati conference and the conference adjourned.

Daniel Guggenheim returned from Europe with hopeful words on the copper metal market. He says American stocks and bonds find a very narrow market abroad, as the foreigners are disturbed over the possible effect of the decisions to be handed down by the Supreme Court in the Tobacco and Oil cases.

Canadian Pacific reports for the third week of March an increase of $237,000 in gross. Atchison reports a loss of $270,000 in net for February in spite of an increase of $6,219,000 in gross for the eight months of the fiscal year, Atchison shows a net loss from operation for the period of $1,142,135.

Notes for Investors

Wrenn Bros. & Co. give the situation in this manner: The investor who is bearish on [illegible] however, is probably over-do it a present, at least, since the best of the coming trade seems to [illegible] the middle of March and the [illegible] Federal, April 4, should furnish a [illegible] of the present business improvement. Stocks having been [illegible] for the past eight weeks, a [illegible] has already begun to improve, and there are other indications of betterment. The stiffening of money rates and the increases in foreign bank rates [illegible] be interpreted as a warning, now long [illegible] especially the increasing demand for [illegible] and the [illegible] to be imported [illegible] temporarily, it is likely to act as a support to [illegible] markets. On the other hand, [illegible] that situation does not promise permanent improvement and we believe stocks sold on [illegible] can be repurchased lower.

Lee, Higginson & Co. say in their weekly letter: "With the Supreme Court decisions yet [illegible] over the markets, and the period of [illegible] prolonged, by reason of [illegible] there is [illegible] to be expected in the near future, [illegible] the opening keeps on opening as bright for [illegible] as it has been for a week or two past, and [illegible] large, we should not be surprised to see [illegible] stocks should on the whole [illegible] more than [illegible] for all the while the [illegible] is growing, and a good [illegible] interest [illegible] behind [illegible] in such circumstances [illegible] that which preceded the recent break."

Lake Superior says developments of importance will be the cutting of the lake locks in the crosscut from the shaft on the south level at a point about 600 feet from the surface. The shaft is now 4,400 feet below the north level and is going down to the Kearsarge or Red wall lode, in Sub-conglomerate. This lode was first opened at the north level, where it has been drifted on for a distance of 1,000 feet. It is [illegible] to be encountered next in this lode on the fifth level.

Extensive coal strikes are in both this country and abroad are not unlikely April 1. A cable from [illegible] and [illegible] says [illegible] are [illegible] that a new wage agreement between the Scotch coal masters and miners will be signed in Edinburgh next week. The present agreement will expire on March 31. This strike will affect about [illegible] tons monthly. The [illegible] of [illegible] Scotch employees and others dependent upon the [illegible].

The American Beet Sugar Company is in a strong position at this time, and recent reports show that about 18 per cent. is being earned on [illegible] stock. The common stock at current prices [illegible] of its being placed on a 6 per cent. [illegible] basis. The bonds are [illegible].

The annual report of the Old Dominion Company of New Jersey will be issued early in April. It is [illegible] that red ore was [illegible] great amount of [illegible] between it and the [illegible] the year after the [illegible] of three quarterly dividends aggregating $450,000.

Arthur Lowering elected at dinner has gone to the Majestic properties, which will soon [illegible] up to three weeks with Manager [illegible] to [illegible] given for the [illegible] [illegible] from the Harrington Hickey mine to the Majestic [illegible].

A [illegible] calling Chas. [illegible] at a point [illegible] of Mercury [illegible] has cars [illegible] on its common [illegible] this week. On account of the shortage of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] for a much larger crop in coming year.

Steady [illegible] in [illegible] National copper [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] as to how [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] as collateral which fall due April 15 and $425,000 [illegible] May 1. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible].

Thomas H. Whitney, Thomas H. Whitney, 2d, and Russell Whitney have formed a partnership to do a stock brokerage business. Mr. Whitney has had considerable experience in [illegible].

Franklin a diamond drilling was started too far east to encounter the Hancock lode. It has [illegible] started [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and another will be drilled.

[illegible] have brought an injunction [illegible] [illegible] Pierce Fitzgerald to prevent the consolidation of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] has been stopped.

It is said that the [illegible] stock to be called [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

More Facilities Needed.

There is still a crying need of more docking facilities at this port. Even when the last of the piers now contemplated have been completed in East Boston there will still be times when ships will have to anchor for days in the stream before they can be docked. The business of the port has grown to such a point that it will soon offer ... a chance to do, by the ... of night ... the ... harvest to keep ... abreast of the ships, and more than all by the increased ... facilities for ... ships from ... to work.

BROKERS DISCUSS INVESTMENT METHOD

Security and Certainty of Return Two Great Essentials in All Deals.

A great diversity of opinion exists as to the value of different methods of investment in real estate. One of the prominent real estate brokers of the city says that in investments in real estate two essentials are necessary —security and certainty of return. Of course, in many real estate investments there also enters the element of speculation.

He expressed the belief that one of the best investments is for an owner of vacant property to erect a building on it and then lease the improved property on a basis that will pay for the building and the land at the rate of 6 per cent, permitting the lessee to take, if the land to be set ... a profit on the transaction.

Where Lease Assumes Risk.

Many men who own property prefer to lease for ... a ... feature and are ... to ... 6 per cent of ... 6 ... 6 per cent ... 6 per cent ... others buy property which is under a long term lease, knowing that under no circumstances can their return be materially increased," said he. "In both these cases the lessee assumes all risks as to upper ... or depreciation of the land value.

Sign Posts to Success

THE BOASTER—BY HERBERT KAUFMAN

The man who crows too loudly must sooner or later learn to eat his crow. On the menu of life a "roast" is the logical course after a boast.

The applause of Vanity is the song of Circe—to listen too long and too well muffles the alarm which warns a man that he is making a fool of himself.

No deceit is half so dangerous or insidious as that of conceit. Self-congratulation is usually baseless because it is weighed upon biased and therefore unfair scales.

A big head and a big mentality are seldom found above the same collar. The truly great meet with so much flattery and adulation that its sweet flavor quickly cloys and nauseates them.

Men about whom the world is talking are not called upon to discuss themselves; their performances speak in a sufficiently clear voice.

To proclaim the fact that you have reached a hill-top, proves that the hill can't amount to very much. Mountain peaks are self-evident.

Determination and confidence are basic essentials in the struggle of success, but assurance is an unsafe weapon if it has not been tested. It is only justified when it is based upon past performances.

No man is so vulnerable as the coxcomb whose egotism has exaggerated his confidence.

Prominence does not canvass for an audience. If you have achieved something worthy of notice, it cannot escape attention; results declare for themselves.

To vaunt possessions or talents in the face of another is to flaunt consciousness of his own shortcomings. A reminder of mental or material poverty arouses bitterness in the humblest—none are too lowly to feel the ambition to be and to own the utmost.

Successful men are forced, at the very outset of their careers, to realize this; otherwise, they cannot secure the good will of the Many, with which all progress is measured. They quickly learn to subdue offensive display of superiority.

When a man exhibits pomposity and bombast, his demeanor is in such sharp contrast to those whom we know to be important that we instantly challenge his importance.

From the beginnings of society, the hardest problem that Civilization has encountered is to impose the rule of the leader. Mankind has consistently rebelled against the acceptance of its masters.

So that when a palpable ass—a shallow, superficial strutter, seeks to inflict his shoddy pretensions, he encounters an animosity so violent that it would even handicap the strongest and the ablest.

As Old Man Benson used to say, "MOST ROOSTERS WEAR THEIR CROWS TOO LOUD AND THEIR SPURS TOO SHORT!"

PARTIAL LIST OF CARS ON HAND

And Reasons Why It Is Better to Buy a Slightly Used Car Than a New One.

1st—You have the advantage of the experience of all former owners of that type of car as to how the car has stood up.

2d—You have a car that the breakmarks worn to a smooth surface and the car has been thoroughly tested out and any weak points made good, and the car is ready for hard work.

3d—The first owner has stood the depreciation, and should you want to sell again the loss is small, if any, to you.

The above applies only to cars sold under a guarantee

Start Again.

The pitcher has never yet been built
That will gather the milk that mischance has spilt;
That which is wasted is gone.
Why fume?
There's nothing between here and Heaven but room.
The time that is squandered in moping and fretting
Had better be spent in an active re-getting. 3-27
Each day brings a chance, so let up on your sorrow;
Be cheerful and start out to re-build tomorrow.
Regret has no place among mending-cements,
The best of all glue is good, plain common-sense;
You simply waste time when you try to repair
Your shattered ambitions with futile despair.

WHITLOCK TO SPEAK

Mayor of Toledo Will Talk at New Voters' Festival.

Brand Whitlock, Mayor of Toledo, O., and Judge Michael J. Murray of the Municipal Court, are to be the principal speakers at the eighth annual New Voters' Festival, which is to be held this evening, beginning at 8 in Faneuil Hall, at 7 o'clock a reception will be tendered the guests of honor.

This year the New Voters' festival is to be held under the auspices of the Local Equal Suffrage Association for the City Proper, the Women's Democratic Club of Dublin, Catholic Union Reform Club, Women's Democratic Club of Ward 17, Democratic club to be addressed by Attorney Louis D. Brandeis of the United States Circuit Court.

POLICEMAN STOPS HORSE.

Several hundred commuters on their way to work on the South side were treated to a thrill yesterday morning when Policeman John J. Manning of station 2 stopped a runaway horse and driving. Manning was waiting for a car in Dewey square when the runaway on Summer street suggested itself to him. He held the reins and with a big, long striding, but horse leading manfully toward him.

The horse, owned by the Adams Express Company, was going at full speed and the driver was powerless to stop it. Manning came into contact. Meanwhile people were running in all directions and the frightened beast by the time and shied off his bridle.

IRISH SONG-LECTURE.

Big House to Greet M. J. Dwyer at Symphony Hall.

Symphony Hall will be filled on Monday evening, April 11, when Michael J. Dwyer will lecture on Irish humor, giving as his lecture on Ireland. Mr. Dwyer's rare gift as a singer are already known in New England.

Added to Mr. Dwyer's singing there is a special feature of surpassing interest. It springs from his visit to Ireland last year, when he went to the Kin-reel Theatre and stored his mind with a wealth of observation and humor which he has compiled in the approaching entertainment. The committee of arrangements is in receipt of orders for tickets from every quarter of Greater Boston.

ELKS DANCE AT CLUB.

Miss Lillian Mahoney to Lead Winthrop Lady's March.

The Winthrop Lodge ball, one of the big events of Elkdom, is to be held tomorrow night in the Winthrop Yacht Club at Winthrop Beach.

Miss Lillian A. Mahoney of Winthrop has been selected to lead the grand march with Exalted Ruler Edmund L. Fitzpatrick. One of the features will be a special musical program, consisting of Irish orchestra and the new Lieb minuet, composed by Fred Strachan, will be introduced for the first time.

MISS CHARLOTTE LITTLE

Your Fields Shall Be Transformed Into the Trackless Jungles of Africa.

FUTURE FARMING.
By Morton Blake.

[illegible]

"SAY, you hurry up and bring in the hippopotamus and see that no rhinoceros has another toe on it."

That is not a dispatch from darkest Africa. It is a forecast of what the hired man will say on any New Hampshire farm when the new scheme to import and domesticate African wild animals is in full swing.

The idea has rounded up all our native fodder so that none but the undesirable can afford to eat it. Then the Washington relate that all animals are legal the House Committee on Agriculture to report the chimpanzee, the eland, the spring buck, the hippopotamus, the gnu and other creatures, to be raised on Uncle Sam's farms.

Captain Fritz Duquesne told the committee that the hippopotamus for instance, if properly trained, would be worth more than a dozen New Jersey mules in the long run. He said that a hippopotamus could be harnessed to a plow and would not only do the plowing but would be armed only with an appetite for weeds.

It will be some farming when this bill goes into effect. Why, even the kid will want to ride. Here is a prospective joyrider and he can't go wrong, paper.

WANTED—Small boy to ride on a 600-acre farm at Littleton, N. H. Applicant must be able to handle hippopotamus, zebras, kangaroos and springbucks, and will be expected to sleep with the elan-elan. Man who has had experience in Africa preferred.

How would you like to be hired man on a hippopotamus farm? Or would you prefer to be head chimpanzee on a big gnu farm?

Some of the pictures of old farm life will have to be retouched for the new order of things. The hippopotamus can be harnessed in any team of oxen or mules that the New Englander cares to use. But the chimpanzee will need some new legislation.

But that won't do for jungle stock. A hippopotamus will go through anything but a stone wall. A spring buck jumps pretty well, but not enough to make a stone wall. It will be the proper thing to have a number of the cities of the jungle farmer.

Some nursery verse will need to be rewritten. Thus:

Mary had a little lamb,
Its fleece was white as chalk;
For such a stocky creature it
Was very small and gawk.

It followed her to school one day
And drove the children mad and say
Made the children laugh and say
To see such a queer thing.

Yes, jungle farming will be some different.

Mrs. Tryon to Lecture.

Mrs. Kate Tryon of Waltham will give her lecture, "Dogs with the Birds," in the free public library course next Thursday evening.

Mrs. Tryon's pictures are based upon a close professional study of nature scenes with which as an artist and naturalist she has been familiar many years. Her inventions of the bird poses interpret their meaning into language, which suggests that the birds have a message to people as well as to their own kind.

URGE SIGNAL FIRES ON CITY HILLS FOR A 'SANE FOURTH'

New Boston Plan Is for Boys to Dress as Indians and Play Indian Games.

DAY AND NIGHT PROGRAM

Other Novel Suggestions Received by the "1915" Committee Members.

A NOVEL plan to interest the small boys and girls of Greater Boston in a less homicidal and suicidal Fourth of July has been submitted to the "Sane Fourth" committee of the Boston 1915 celebration.

The plan is to have the small boys hold signal fires on hills around about the heart of the city and, under the guidance of their elders, make each bonfire a unit of a sane day and night of fun. It is planned to have the lads wear Indian costumes and play Indian games.

Then, each night at a certain hour, the fires would be lighted at all parts of the city. A specific program for each night has been worked out by the parent of the novel plan who have asked that his name be kept secret until it is either adopted or proved to be a failure.

The committee has several other plans under consideration for keeping the boys off the streets. To provide amusement for the boys in Franklin park and keep the boys treated with a carefully prepared fireworks display conducted by men William Orr is chairman of the "Sane Fourth" committee.

The executive committee of the board of directors is almost complete. The board of directors will consist of either three or six members from each of thirteen city groups. It already is known who the executive committee of which I may P. Monroe, manager of the Franklin Union, is chairman.

The following have been chosen by their respective groups to represent the executive committee: Harold Murdock, Ward 1; Ward 2, Rudolph Robert A. Woods, Ward 3, Dr. Frank Gaskill, Professor Cleon H. Dick, Dr. John J. McGillicuddy, Mrs. Elizabeth Perry, Ward 4; Ward 5, Ward 6, Butler, Ward 7, Ward 8, Ward, George W. Mosher and Judge Frank R. Leverett of the Children's Court.

"Sudsey" Isn't the Only One.

"Sudsey" Sudbey has no monopoly of big family on the Somerville force however. There is Pennie Downey, who has an [illegible] and is nourishing. There is Sam Barnes, who is tied with Downey in the number of little olive branches. Tom McNamara has four children.

All families are growing steadily on the force. Tom Walsh and Frank Graves, the latest arrivals, have begun to add their homes to it in a fortnight ago.

Some kids are born in Somerville in acreage, about two miles one way and four the other. Jack Cox is the champion baby producer, but the smallest kid in a real state in the country, according to the force, is the property of Patrolman [illegible] Sullivan.

The [illegible] cops have to work 56 hours a day, seven days in the week, with one day off in thirty. That's a raise on that day off, as it used to be a thirty day out of the city, but the council got to the statistician's office and stopped it.

The patrol is got $1000 a year. A sergeant collects [illegible] Tim Sullivan is just $1 a day. The cops ask $1200 a year, which is the way it is in Boston nobles.

Go to Better Fields.

The cops say that those who have profited most from the police duty are those who have gone to better positions. Henry F. Gibson, for instance, had a [illegible] job. It didn't take him three days to resign from the force to go to farming in New Hampshire and more entente, to be [illegible] for the Boston Herald.

Bills Sutherland tried the force for five months, resigning about the time of [illegible] and went back to his old job as [illegible] Arthur Keenan and Charlie Burns were two who left the force to go farming and [illegible] are still their former comrades on the force.

But other men have stuck to the force through thick and thin. Sergeant George [illegible] of the [illegible], has been three [illegible] years. Patrolman Ed. Carter and Georgie Sullivan have 30 [illegible] the same length of time, also Extensions and extra materials, made necessary by the fact that the Elevated was to use the bridge, caused an added expense to the cost of the structure, and a board of apportionment estimated the principal's share due for the [illegible] at $526,000. The offer has been taken under consideration.

"MRS. DOT," A GREAT LOVE STORY, By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Billie Burke Says:

"I can prove and do prove in my new play at the Hollis Street Theatre that ANY WOMAN CAN GET WHAT SHE WANTS. She has only to want it hard enough and keep after it."

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

THINGS weren't going well with Mrs. Dot.

True, she was young, she was rich, she was a widow and she was beautiful. But what was the good of all that if she couldn't have the one thing she wanted most of all?

For Mrs. Dot was in love, and the man she loved had very thoughtlessly engaged himself to another girl. Also he had lost every penny he owned, a fact which, though it worried him considerably, troubled Mrs. Dot not one whit.

Gerald Baldane was a queer compound of honor and frivolity. He was the best bred of the nobility, he was always welcome in the homes of anxious mammas who hoped some day to see their daughters well married and perhaps wearing a countess's crown.

For be it known that, while he was now but plain Gerald Baldane, there was a possibility—a remote one, it is true, but nevertheless a possibility—that he might some day inherit the estate, and with it the title of Lord Hollington, his uncle's.

But this was so remote a chance that Gerald hadn't treated it as a fact and not at first glance could mamma count it as a matrimonial possibility.

Lord Hollington, the relative, was now in the height of his career at the head of a great family in India. He was young, love-loving and might any day take some fancy into his head and marry and then—with one of a young Hollington yet unborn!

There was no hope in that direction, and Gerald, who despises scheming, has an attitude toward love a surely depleted fortune could not tempt him to strike, and never was a fool so hypersensitive.

And this was what Mrs. Dot found. Also she found that Gerald, in spite of a certain reckless air, was a man of honor, a man of the world. Even though he did not love Nellie Bellinger, the pretty daughter of Lady Bellinger, he would marry her because he had given her his word—the word of an English gentleman—that he would.

Mrs. Dot hadn't seen Gerald for a week, he being an unconventional young person who generally did as she pleased or called it an apartment to see what was the matter.

And Charles, his servant and the one of whom he was "bully" at times when he wouldn't quite put up with voices coming from the apartment.

"What do you want?" said Mrs. Dot "I want to see him particularly. So is she very well, and don't tell her I called before I find out if she's engaged.

"I've got a good part of a mind not to tell Gerald I had been Miss Dot's answer was a cold announcement.

"I'm delighted to hear it."

"I am. I can't help it. The thing for you to do is to leave my name."

"I'll tell him," said Gerald with a deep sigh, "I quite envy him the privilege of seeing you."

"You've never yet heard that the course of true love ran smooth," said Mrs. Dot, "and I'm very much afraid it's the end of your love affair, Mrs. Dot demurely.

"What do you mean?"

"You know you were face up when I saw you last, and you were going to say something very fond when I got up, and I strongly suspected you were going to propose. I gave you to do me any trifling favor, and you know you never let the opportunity of putting my cloak over my shoulders after that go by until the end. But I've sung to the end when I've been with you. I dare say the fact has escaped your notice, but that's only because you are so dreadfully selfish.

"Do you think it's kind to laugh at me when I'm serious?

"But I'm not laughing, my dear. I'm so sorry I took you seriously. I'm very fond of you, and I'm sure you know it, but I'm not in love with you. I'm sorry you've been so silly as to imagine I was in love with me as I have been with you. I'm afraid I'm very fickle."

Then was a long pause. Then Gerald said gravely:

"I'm afraid you'll think me an utter brute if I ought to say that you long ago that I've been engaged to Nellie Bellinger for over a year."

"Gerald!" cried Mrs. Dot, reaching out two sparkling little hands toward him. "Why didn't you tell me?"

"No one sees anything about it and I was afraid of fooling you. Oh, Dot, I love you so, and I'm so glad to be forced to tell you so."

"Tell me all about it, Gerald."

"We were staying at the same place in the country, it was a moonlight night, and it just happened, came to pieces to my mind, so to speak. Her mother disapproved and put us on a year's probation. She took Nellie abroad and said that if we were of the same mind in a year it was quite another matter. They are up and they are coming here for tea this afternoon."

"And what are you going to say to her?"

"I'm penniless. I'm bound to ask for her release."

"Then why have you been trying to make me utterly miserable?"

"If Nellie wants me to keep my promise I shall draw back, and besides, there's something else I must tell you. You know that Lord Hollington is a relative of mine. Well, it's happened to him everything would come to me."

"And of course Lady Bellinger would withdraw her opposition. But it won't. It'll live till he's eighty, say again that you love me."

"I oughtn't to, yet," said Gerald tenderly.

"You're not to marry me," with a gay little laugh. "You've been trifling with my affections shamefully. Oh, we shall be so happy. I'll sit at home and darn your socks, and I shall hate it and I shall be so happy."

Was it any wonder that Mrs. Dot felt that things were not going well with her?

True, Gerald loved her, but of what good was that if he were engaged to another man?

And the Bellingers would be there directly and be awfully nice, and be awfully miserable, and generally upset.

"Here they are," said Gerald nervously as the bell rang.

It would have been a delightful tea party under different conditions.

Lady Bellinger was an interesting, clever woman. Nellie was a pretty girl and James Hendsoop and Freddie Perkins, the other guests, were amusing and clever and made a nice fourth. It was rather a jolly tea party.

Only Gerald had come to perform what he felt to be an unpleasant duty. So he was quiet and, half frightened, Mrs. Dot and Gerald were in suspense.

But Mrs. Dot was not to be down for very long, and presently she was playing her own very prettily, and asking Lady Bellinger if she could remain and sing.

"Yes, please," said Lady Bellinger "Gerald, come and turn over and let me. You can guess why I have come to day."

"Yes."

"My dear Gerald, why don't you help me?"

"What I have come to say is in very indifferent taste, and I'm afraid for the last year that a marriage was absurd, and now I want to tell you that I'm hopelessly in love in a cottage in a delusion of youth."

"I'm sure I'm very glad for you, Gerald, but I don't want my daughter to play the second fiddle."

"I'm as well off you," said Gerald "and that I had never told Nell, and I'm quite prepared to be cut dead forever."

"Dear me, dear, very sad, but it also gives a chance to me!"

Hendsoop was the answer. "How about Nellie? How will she take it?"

She was reported poor dear. She never was good for her feelings.

"I do say," said Lady Bellinger decidedly, "I quite object to Nellie's conduct. To go and speak to Nellie now, when I've left cards! Heavens, I don't make her cry were dining out. Mr. Hendsoop, come over here, I want to quarrel with you."

"I'm," said Gerald, going at the piano that was not all this moment hopelessly engaged in a promising flirtation with Freda.

"If anything happened to Lord Hollington," said Lady Bellinger, "he'd be very different circumstances, Gerald wouldn't you?"

"You, but I trust he'll live to be a hundred."

"You'll see with consternation," said Hendsoop, dressing a tune hazily for something into it.

"You do indeed I'm guessing."

"Well, I'm sorry I didn't see you but I went on to the War Office to see if there was any news of the Dunn Bolton case in India. It is with Gerald for Hollington to come out of it."

"Yes, why?"

"Why, I've got to be it, Mr. Blankinop?" ask Lady Bellinger, eagerly.

"Well, a small force was sent out to punish some local people up in the hills and it hasn't been heard of since. The she doesn't love you; I could tell that at a glance."

"How—"

"A woman who loved you wouldn't have a shirt on right."

Gerald looked at her, love and longing in his eyes. "I can't draw back now, but—but you must see that I can't."

"You know I'm nicer than Nellie," said Mrs. Dot cunningly. "It's true she's a little bit younger than I am, but I don't feel a day over seventeen, oh?" Then, cunningly, "And if you had any sense of decency you'd say I looked it."

"I don't see how we can help ourselves," said Gerald, despairingly.

Mrs. Dot was beginning to lose her temper. "I suppose you just want to finish up painful scene. Well I won't keep you. Why don't you go to the War Office?"

"Dot, darling, I can't leave you like this, said Gerald. "You must see it's not my fault. Let us part friends."

"We've got to think of Nellie's feelings now, haven't we? Jealousy. Who must be sacrificed to save her from a moment's unhappiness?"

"For heaven's sake, don't talk like that. You are tearing my heart to pieces."

"Exactly what I'd like to bring it on the floor and step on it. How fortunate your name is Dot and not Dora. Dora's poor, just saved herself from a mesalliance and you're going to do the same thing."

"Dot," said Gerald strong, "did you really think I was marrying you for your money?"

"Indignant—"

"No, of course not."

"I'm afraid I must leave you. I must go to the War Office. Won't you come with me?"

"No, I won't," Gerald, do you care for Nellie Bellinger?"

"If you must plead I won't answer that question," said Gerald, "and I certainly also asks for her freedom. I propose to marry her. Good by."

A moment after the street door slammed, and Mrs. Dot, in a pet, made up her mind. Who was busy reading the tea things when Mrs. Dot came in? "Have you ever been married?"

"No, madam" was the astute answer.

And has experience taught you that when a woman wants a thing she generally gets it?

"Then I'm going to go to India and Mrs. Dot, dainty demure in every move swept out of the room.

CHAPTER II.

MRS. DOT said she intended to marry Mr. Hollington and that settled it. Mrs. Dot generally did what she said she intended to do and found it best was the action that was easiest. Mrs. Dot was a philosophical young person.

One of the easiest things to do was to pack trunks and that is what she did.

From the street below came the first cry of "Special! Special! Terrible capture of Mrs. India! Terrible catastrophe in India!"

Why doesn't Charles hurry?" Lady Bellinger exclaimed anxiously. "But let us speak to Nellie and see what she has to say."

"What the dence have you been doing all day?" said Gerald, as Mrs. Dot and Charles came in heavily laden with trunks.

"Nothing that I could see me," said Mrs. Dot, calmly. "I'm rather annoyed to find you here. I'm going to India and I'm going to make up your mind and discover exactly what you're going to do and make up your mind to it."

"Dot, you're not serious?"

"Indeed I am. I've got to be serious, and I'm going to be very good looking."

"But Aunt Eliza, a delightful old maid, and she knows what she ever wanted to—"

"Well," said Mrs. Dot, "I want to marry Mr. Hollington, and I'm going to do it

SPLENDID GOWNS TO BEDECK SOCIETY AT WAR OF THE OPERAS

Fashionables Awaken from Lethargy of Lent and Begin to Carry Out the Hats Which Were Formulated During the Period of Sackcloth and Ashes and Which Forecast a Most Brilliant Social Summer.

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

WHEN [illegible] danced into the heavens this morning it [illegible] awakening their dreams and asking dramatically "What [illegible] for" never in all our social history had Hub's elect promised a more brilliant bursting forth from chrysalis of sackcloth and the Lenten calm of things than this season.

Opera seems to have developed in its feminine devotees here a gay rivalry in the artistry of exquisite gowning, and dress, that transcendent highway to human enchantment, has pre-eminence over all other interests with milady this Eastertide.

The carnival of gowns will figure throughout the swirl of things matrimonial the coming weeks, and the scenes in many of our churches will suggest a mammoth sartorial bouquets.

The social calendar fairly scintillates with other events of importance not the least of which will be grand opera and such grand opera and such a wealth of it! Imagine the problem which confronts milady as she studies the programs and prepares to take her dinner guests on to the best.

On the one hand, while the offerings at the Boston theatres will be exceptional, there is more opportunity for display of all her new bought Easter finery at the Boston Opera House, with its boxes and its general roominess.

VINCENT CLUB SHOW COMES SOON.

Many and mysterious are the surprises in the making of the Vincent Club theatricals, which always gives us the event par excellent for April – a perfect Eden of delight into which, alas! no Adam may venture, for this is a privilege exclusively feminine.

Rehearsals this year give promise of terpsichorian triumphs surpassing all previous performances—and when members of the famous club outdance themselves, then there is dancing indeed.

We are promised transport to realms of rhythm such as we have never dreamed, and great are our expectations thereof.

"Rouge et Noir," the musical play which they are to give, affords ample opportunity for the demonstration of the many and varied accomplishments of the club members.

Miss Dorothy Jordan, who is at present in the South, and who is acclaimed by all the best ballet dancer in her exclusive set, where they spend so much time perfecting themselves in this special art, will again be one of the attractions. Miss Jordan will as usual dance a solo dance.

Mrs. William Minot, Claire Means and Cryling Gill make an interesting trio, and in their gold dance will no doubt make a decide dilt.

The dice dance by Miss Lillie Jones and Miss Ruth Flint; the dance by Mollie Hall, Esther Pickering and Margaret Bradley, a solo dance by Mrs. Andrew Robeson Sargent and a Spanish dance by the two interesting young girls, Miss Marie Amee and Ruth Flint, will be some of the terpsichorean features sure to prove a delight to all.

DRILL IS TO BE A FEATURE.

The drill, which is always one of the star events, this year will be exceptionally [illegible] and [illegible] club—are the Misses Cornelia Wolcott, Mary Fay, Evelyn Thayer, Marie Lee, Charlotte Allen, Leslie H. Ashley, Alice Thorndike, Grace Stackpole, Dorothy Marshall, Alice DeBevoi, Alice Bradford and Madeline Appleton.

There is keen but good-natured rivalry between the Vincent Club girls and the Hasty Pudding Club men of Harvard, who are also rehearsing for their annual show. The Pudding Club will give "Diana's Debut," which is said to be one of the cleverest productions they have given for some time. The play was written by George Martin of New York, a son of Edward S. Martin. Walter Langshaw of New Bedford has written the music and Jack Reid of Portland, Ore., has written the verses for some of the lyrics.

The scene of the play is in Turkey, and the principal roles of the Sultan, the Sultana and the Princess are to be taken by Robert Middlemas of New Britain, Ct., Rosers MacVeagh of New York, son of the Charles MacVeaghs, and Robert Hare Hutchinson of Philadelphia, respectively. The part of Diana the Princess, which is taken by Mr. Hutchison, is that of the debutante daughter of the Sultan, and her coming out ball makes one of the lively scenes of the play.

HARVARD MEN TO PRESENT PLAY.

Other well-known Harvard men in the cast are George Peabody Gardner, Jr., '09, of Boston, and Herbert Jaques, Jr., all of Boston, and George K. Munroe of New York.

There are innumerable private affairs, too, on the calendar, among them the dinner which Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Bradlee of West Cedar street are to give at their home on Friday evening, April 1, for their son, the guests going on later to the dance which Mr. and Mrs. J. Grafton Minot are giving that evening for their son, Grafton Winthrop Minot, at the Twilleries.

Miss Ethel Amory has issued cards for the dance which she is to give on April 8 at her home on Marlboro street. Giving dances for the young men of the smart set seems to be the fad of the moment, and Miss Amory's dance is for Williams F. Prescott, son of the Rev. and Mrs. George J. Prescott.

Another dance in which the younger set is interested is that which Mrs. George Lee of Boylston street, Brookline, is giving for her daughter, Miss Margery Lee, on April 8. Miss Lee is one of our most interesting debutantes, and several smart affairs have already been given for her. Mrs. Stephen H. Bennett has sent out invitations for the Easter party which she is to give for her second daughter, Miss Margaret Bennett, on the evening of April 8.

Mrs. William H. Schofield (Mrs. Charles Cheney) is to give a dinner for her young daughter, Miss Ruth Cheney, at her home in Cambridge on Wednesday evening, April 13.

Another smart affair for a future debutante is the dance which Mrs. Isaac Rand Thomas is to give at her Commonwealth avenue home on Friday evening, April 1, for her pretty young daughter, Miss Elizabeth Thomas.

MANY HONORS FOR LEONORA COBB.

Any number of smart affairs will be given during the Easter holidays in honor of Miss Leonora Cobb of New York, whose engagement to Robert Amory, Jr., of Beacon street was announced a couple of weeks ago, and who is to be the guest for a week or more of the parents of her fiance, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Amory. This will be the first opportunity the Boston girls have had to meet Miss Cobb, and they are looking forward to it with much pleasure. While a man goes out of his home city to select his bride, naturally the girls he left behind him are curious to meet her.

Rather a sad blow to the younger members of society is the news that the dance which Mrs. Felix Rackemann of "The Haven," Readville, is to give for the three pretty Milton debutantes, Miss Constance Zerrahn, Miss Marion Weld and Miss Katherine Saltonstall, and which she at first planned to give on the evening of April 7th, has been postponed until some time in May. The dance was to have been given at the Hoosick Whisick Club, but as the date conflicted with the Hasty Pudding theatricals and so many other smart affairs Mrs. Rackemann graciously changed the date Boston society is interested in the two picturesque events to be given shortly in Washington, namely the large charity ball at the Navy Yard under the auspices of the Naval Relief Society for which a number of our people will go over and which takes place Wednesday, March 30, and the Hunt Ball of the Chevy Chase Club. For the latter Clarence Moore, M. F. H., is chairman of the committee.

UNCONVENTIONAL PHOTOGRAPH OF MRS. ARTHUR M. BEALE

Visits From Stork Causes Flutter of Excitement in Back Bay Homes.

[illegible] quite as difficult to keep track of him in his flights as it is to keep in touch with the wanderings of our fashionables. Just at present he is hovering closely over several of our Back Bay homes. The homes of the three Lovering brothers are on the list and there is consequently a delightful flutter of anticipatory excitement in the family. The men are the sons of the Charles T. Loverings. Mrs. Lovering before her marriage was a Sears, and is a sister of Frederic H. Sears and an aunt of Miss Eleonora Sears. Charles Lovering, Jr., the eldest son, married Nellie Lyman, daughter of George H. Lyman, ex-collector of the port, whose wife was an Amory, and they already have two darling youngsters in the nursery of their home on Boylston street. Joseph Lovering's wife was Elsie Bacon, the belle and beauty of the Lenox colony, and their marriage was the most brilliant affair ever witnessed in the Berkshire region. This will be the stork's second visit to their home. Richard Lovering married that fascinating little beauty, Mollie Eliot, at Manchester last October, and they have as a property entrusted from their lofty hostelment deposited abroad.

The Thomas Barbours, too, are anticipating a visit from the long bird. Mrs. Barbour was the pretty Rosamond Pierce, daughter of the late Thomas of Beacon line, and here its discretion in her select course of the only debutante to become engaged and to be married both during the year of her debut. The Barbours have just recently returned from a trip around the world, and are now living in Brookline. The Roger Wolcotts are also preparing for a visit from the stork at their home in Hyde Park. Mrs. Wolcott was Claire Prince, and is one of the most thoroughly delightful young matrons of her set.

The Louis Thatchers are also awaiting a visit.

Charity Club Will Present a Comedy

AN important event to which society is looking forward is the performance of a musical comedy, entitled "An Angel's Tribulations," which the Junior Charity Club will present in Jordan Hall on the evening of April 23. In the club are several clever dancers, including Are Treloar and Miss Ethel Kinz. Other of the club members who will take part are Sally Dunbar, Francis Gaffier, Mollie Gould, Katherine Cobb, Alice Blanchard, Amy Heilig, Eva Guptill, Lottie Beckley, Isabella Calla-

A MONG the most indefatigable of Boston society's workers in the cause of charity is that delightful young matron, Mrs. Arthur M. Beale of Acorn street, who devoted the greater part of each season in town to the various smart affairs in the cause of the innumerable charities in which she is interested. Mrs. Beale before her marriage was Miss Louise D. Miller, one of the most accomplished as one of the most popular girls of her exclusive set. The above photograph was made specially for the Sunday American.

Engagements Forecast Brilliant Weddings as Functions of Social Season.

[illegible] engagements are flourishing and the faithful hopes for the daily gossip are the keen and there are likely to be several surprises when the announcements come due.

One which all predict is that of Miss [illegible] daughter of [illegible] and Mrs. [illegible] of Beacon street. Mr. [illegible] is a member of the Tennis and Racquet and various other clubs. Miss Burnham has been such a devoted belle since her debut two years ago that up to this time it's been a rather a puzzle to her many friends to [illegible] her affections were to be bestowed, but there is little if any question now, and Mr. Walcott has evidently won the race. Tuesday evening Mr. Walcott was a guest at the Burnham box at the opera, and if there had been any doubt in the mind of those interested on that night it was certainly dispelled then.

An engagement said to bring numerous bowers and [illegible] parties in its train is that [illegible] Lyman Higginson, Harvard '07, and Harvard Law School '12. Mr. Cutting is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cutting, the former a prominent lawyer of Worcester.

Announcement is made inside of the engagement of Miss Mildred Louise Koopman of Indiana to Herbert Eugene Abbott of Lima, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Shepard of Lake Shore drive announced the engagement of their daughter, Helen Anton tte, to Edward Hickey, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible]

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Grace Brockway of Dorchester to Dr. Howard Arthur Lane, Harvard, '01.

Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Lewis are to open their country home at Cohasset early this [illegible] and will [illegible] residence for the Summer as early as the latter part of next month. Miss Mabel Pendleton, well known in Boston and at the various North Shore resorts, and a sister of Mrs. Winthrop Murray Crane of Dalton, is receiving every Monday afternoon this month at the residence of her parents, the William J. Bryant mans of Washington. Miss Pendleton is a great favorite in all social circles which she graces and her drawing room affairs are always well attended by hosts of the smart set. Miss Boardman is giving a series of lectures in the interests of her particular charity, the Red Cross Society. They are given on Friday afternoons at her home and a short musicale program is usually given with them.

WEDDINGS! WEDDINGS! THIS IS THE WEEK FOR EASTER BRIDES

Refreshed by the Lenten Rest of Forty Days, the Social Queens and Princesses Are Ready for the Gay Programme of Events That Dawning Summer Has Ushered to the Threshold of Society.

EMERGING from the [illegible] Lenten [illegible] refreshed and radiant after the period of quiet and [illegible] which it is [illegible] are as spiritually made now, are as yet dazed and blinded by the strong light of the ceaseless round of gayeties which faces them and [illegible]

They are poising themselves for a deep plunge into the swirl of things social which is destined to sweep the Hub for weeks to come and threaten to take even the smartest of the smart set completely off their feet.

There are, first of all, the weddings. And what was ever lovelier or more interesting than an Easter bride? She seems symbolic of the Easter-tide, with its promise of Spring, as she trips gayly into the new and broader [illegible]

To-morrow society will flock to Trinity Church for the wedding there at noon of winsome Dorothea Davenport and Mr. Aldrich, and a delightfully pretty and Spring like affair it promises to be with the interior of the church a veritable garden of blooms as a setting for the flower-like gowns of the guests and the white-robed bride with her trio of pretty attendants.

Miss Aldrich, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Elizabeth Gray and picturesque Eleanor Cotton are the attendants. Miss Gray and Miss Cotton were sister-debutantes of the bride when she made her initial bow two winters ago. They [illegible] to look upon [illegible] not likely to be lasting.

WEDDINGS TO CROWD THE CALENDAR.

Tuesday pretty Pauline Webster of Bay State road and Stephen Whitney of New York will solemnize their marriage in Emmanuel Church at high noon [illegible] decidedly interesting group of attendants which Miss Webster has chosen, for it includes besides two of our prettiest society girls, Ethel Ranney of Bay State road and Claire Means of Commonwealth avenue, Beatrice Barclay, daughter of the William Orr Barclays of New York; Julia Russell of Cambridge and Mary Alden, a Baltimore belle and beauty of note. Harry Whitney is to be his brother's best man.

Miss Alice Sohier, who is to wed Herbert Bramwell Shaw at Trinity Church April 30th, will be one of the most strikingly beautiful of our Easter brides. She is divinely tall and certainly most divinely fair, and besides she has chosen such a delightful trio of attendants. Miss Sohier is the second daughter of Colonel and Mrs. William D. Sohier of Beacon street, a member of the Vincent and New Riding Clubs and an especially talented musician. She will be given away by her father. Her elder sister, Eleanor Sohier, will be maid of honor, and she has selected Cornelia Wolcott, daughter of the late Governor, and Constance Bullard, daughter of John R. Bullard of Glen Haven-Dedham, for her bridesmaids. They, in their becoming frocks of primrose liberty and their wide-brimmed flower-laden hats, will make an ideal foil for the white-robed bride.

Harold Fabian of Harvard is to serve as best man at the wedding of George Robert Chapman and Miss Frances Dyer Clark, daughter of Clarence Clark of Wyoming, which is to take place April 12 in the Church of the Incarnation Washington D. C. Mr. Chapman graduated from the Institute of Technology very recently. Both young people are well known in Boston. The bride has chosen her cousin, Mrs. Clarence Clark Hamlin of Colorado Springs for her matron of honor and for her bridesmaids her sister, Miss Margaret Clark, the Misses Ruth and Elizabeth Chapman, sisters of the bridegroom and Miss Maud Merriam. Little Miss Elizabeth Hamlin will be the flower girl.

Harold Fabyan of Boston is to be the bridegroom's best man, and several of his classmates at Technology will be among the ushers.

HARVARD MAN TO SERVE AS USHER.

Charles H. Boepper of Harvard, who makes his home at the Westminster, has been chosen to serve in the group of ushers at the marriage Easter Monday in St. Stephen's Church, Philadelphia, of Miss Amy Ewing and Thornton Cobb, which will be one of the largest of all the large Easter weddings in the Quaker City.

Saturday, May 14th, has been selected as the wedding day of Miss Lorraine Roosevelt and Langdon Warner of the [illegible]. Miss Roosevelt is a niece of ex-President Roosevelt and is known in society here, where she has spent much time visiting among the younger girls of the smart set. Her mother was Miss Laura Derby, a member of the old French family of New York. Mr. Warner is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bangs Warner of Beacon street. His mother was Miss Margaret Storer, and his grandmother a sister of Senator Hoar. He graduated from Harvard in 1902 and is prominently identified with several of the smart set clubs, including the Tavern. Mr. Warner has traveled extensively in the East and is a leading authority on Japanese art. He is assistant curator of the Museum of Fine Arts. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's mother, "Waldeck," Oyster Bay, L. I.

Miss Anita Cabot, whom it was thought at one time would be an Easter bride, has deserted the ranks and now announces that her wedding to Mr. Boardman will take place in June, the ceremony to be at Trinity Church. The prospective bride is a prominent member of the Vincent Club, has written one or two of its plays and has also taken prominent parts in the annual performances. Mr. Boardman is a civil engineer and is at present identified with the New York Central Railroad.

Among the many weddings already scheduled for the Newport season is that of Miss Marian Dow, the daughter of Mr and Mrs. Richard Dow of this city, and James G. Blaine, 3d, son of Mrs. William T. Bull. The engagement was announced about a year ago.

SMART SET OF BOSTON WILL SEE SERIES OF CARNIVALS

WITH the closing of the open season on the ice surface by huge plate glass windows, will be the centre of many ten parties, who will enjoy the unique features of the ice carnivals of Montreal.

Boston society has been quick to grasp the opportunity afforded by the opening of the Boston Opera House for something different. Therefore, a thing unheard of before in the annals of America as society ice carnivals in April, will come into reality.

For April 11 a mammoth carnival for the benefit of the Sharon Sanitorium is announced. The success of this carnival is already assured by the list of 125 patronesses.

Again, on April 16, an All Fools' Carnival will be held for the benefit of the Morgan Memorial, and many surprises are promised at this carnival.

At those carnivals the afternoons will be devoted to the children, with races, games, skating, etc., for their amusement.

PASSING OF LENT HAILED WITH DELIGHT BY BOSTON MANAGERS AND ACTOR-FOLK

Billie Burke, Lew Fields and Widow of General Pickett Among the Topliners of the Week, While "Harvest Moon," Mabel Hite and "Midnight Sons" Still Remain With Us at Leading Theatres.

By FELIX ST. CLAIR

IF that beautiful Easter hymn, "Hail the Glorious Easter Morning," sounds a little more joyous than usual to-day it is because all the actor folk are singing it with more than fervor. Lent is over and the public will now return in full force to their wonted eager interest.

To be sure [illegible] grand opera companies opening tomorrow night [illegible] being induced by the color line in Augustus Thomas's play. However, everybody cannot afford to attend the opera and [illegible] to get the overflow in addition to those who would [illegible] under any circumstances.

Miss Billie Burke [illegible] to the Hollis Street Theatre to-morrow night in a new play called "Mr. Dot." It is the work of W Somerset Maugham, who is fitting out most [illegible] to pass comfortably.

Lew Fields will compete with himself by offering "Old Dutch" at the Majestic [illegible]. The Midnight Sons is playing at the Shubert. Fields owns both shows and considers [illegible] not good for box office receipts. Accordingly, "The Midnight Sons" will pull up stakes and depart next Saturday night leaving the field to Lew Quinn.

Mabel Hite and "A Certain Party" were obliged to vamoose from the Majestic in order to make room for "Old Dutch," but were lucky enough to land at the Globe, where there happened to be a cancelled booking.

"The Marriage of Kitty" will be continued by the Castle Square stock company.

Broadstick will be the offering at the Grand Opera House next week. Keith's will have the widow of General Pickett, the heroic Confederate that led the charge at Gettysburg, who will lecture upon that famous battle, and a big week is [illegible]

NEW FEATURES AT VAUDEVILLES.

The holdovers are Raymond Hitchcock in "The Man Who Owns Broadway," William Hodge in "The Man from Home," "The Harvest Moon" and "The Midnight Sons."

* * * * * * * * *

There was a long article in a New York paper recently, signed by one of the heavy thinking critics, upon the art of Billie Burke. The gentleman indited out nearly a column of advice, the burden of which was that the actress should give up playing charming young ladies in frothy comedies and go in for something of real value. He thought he discerned somewhere in Billie an ability to play Ibsen.

Miss Burke has not yet abandoned the field of light comedy, and returns to Boston to-morrow in a particularly frilly, frothy and frivolous little playlet called "Mrs. Dot."

The play is from the pen of W. Somerset Maughin (pronounced mum), the English playwright whose proud boast is that he has constructed half a dozen successful plays upon plots that, all combined, wouldn't serve Theodore Kremer for one act of a melodrama.

Mrs. Dot is a young widow, who falls in love with the usual impecunious young aristocrat who abounds in Great Britain. She owns a brewery and has an income of $100,000 a year.

Let us stop here and consider how much beer that sum represents, and it is only the net profit.

The young aristocrat refuses to marry the widow because she has money. This is extraordinary, because the average aristocrat will not marry unless the lady has money. Mrs. Dot is more in love with him than ever and chases him for three acts. Just before the final curtain he allows himself to be captured and Billie nestles her fluffy blonde head upon his shoulder and gets it all over powder. Isn't this nice?

* * * * * * * * *

"How can they make money with such an expensive production as this?" is a question frequently asked by spectators of the big musical comedies after the show is over. Lew Fields, whose productions are as big as any in the musical line and who is in town with "Old Dutch," which opens at the Majestic, tells how

HOW THE MONEY COMES BACK TO FIELDS.

"We don't get the money back all at once," he says, "but it comes in time. A musical play like 'The Jolly Bachelors,' 'The Midnight Sons,' both of which you have seen, will run to a capacity business in New York for nearly an entire season, and then it will be good for two seasons on the road, making long stays in all the big cities.

"A big production which lasts for three seasons will bring back all the money I have spent to make it successful, with good interest on the money. The productions cost from ten to sixty thousand dollars, and the receipts must be heavy to make money.

"'The Jolly Bachelors' and 'The Midnight Sons' can play only the big cities, but they stay twice as long as ordinary attractions and thus balance the money end. 'Old Dutch' is now an elaborate production, but it was designed for a starring play and, as there is a demand for my appearances in the smaller cities where we have independent bookings, it was made on a smaller scale so that those cities could be visited.

"I shall soon begin work on my Summer show, which will be called 'The Merry Widowers,' and I hope it will be a companion worthy of 'The Midnight Sons.'"

"Old Dutch" is the joint work of Victor Herbert and Edgar Smith. Lew Fields plays the hero, an inventor, who loses his pocketbook and papers. They are found by an impostor, who poses as Old Dutch. The real inventor is obliged to get a job working about the hotel. The currying of an old horse, so thin his ribs stick out like knuckles, is one of the highly humorous incidents.

* * * * * * * * *

Mabel Hite, her Mike and her play, "A Certain Party," will stay with us a little longer. She has been transferred from the Majestic to the Globe Theatre and will be at this theatre for a couple of weeks. Miss Hite is a recent star, and she is shining very brightly indeed.

"A Certain Party" is a farce of the type that Barry and Fay and other comedians of that period made familiar. There are funny people in it and funny situations, but it is too absurd to be a real play.

Pauses is made in the action to enable Mabel to sing several songs, which she does very fetchingly. One song in particular makes a hit. It is called "On to Reno," deals with the divorce colony, and the chorus has the line "Shouting the battlecry of freedom."

MIKE'S ACTOR AVERAGE IS HIGH.

Let us now devote a little attention to Mike Donlin. Here is a man who was the idol of the New York baseball public. He was captain of the Giants, batted for more than .300, and could earn $6,000 for six months' work every year.

He has deserted the ball field, where he was king, to play a fairly unimportant part in a piece in which his wife is starring. He does not figure on the electric sign outside the theatre and his name is printed in small letters on the program. Why does he submit to such a state of affairs? Answer—Because he loves his wife.

And he is actually a good actor. As the detective sergeant (fly cop they call them in Boston) he would readily be mistaken for a plain clothes man from Pemberton square. He is natural and self-possessed, as might be expected of a man who was accustomed to walk to the plate in the face of twenty-five thousand yelling lunatics and crack out a home run.

* * * * * * * * *

There is an up-lift movement in the drama as well as in politics, and Augustus Thomas is the head and front of the make-the-drama-an-ennobling-influence [illegible]. If a donut can [illegible] it see "The Harvest Moon," the latest proposition [illegible] is certainly terrifying.

He says that the Society of Arts, Dramatists [illegible] that they are discussing a plan whereby plays written by these men may be presented in other cities by amateur companies during the original productions in New York.

In other words, amateur dramatic societies are to be invited to turn their awful attentions to the big, serious drama and are to be allowed to make one performance without any payment of royalty—for educational purposes. Fortunately for the public, the Society of American Dramatists will have to make some arrangements with the Society of American Managers before they can turn the amateurs loose. Can you imagine the producer of a New York high brow success permitting the future of his property to be tested by the amateurs of the country? Let 'em stick to Shakespeare and Sheridan," would be the remark of J. J. Shubert. "Those fellers are dead and you can't hurt 'em."

* * *

A short time ago the drama committee of the Twentieth Century Club paid its respect to Boston's theatres and the dramatic affairs there in no uncertain manner. Just to show that the Twentieth Century Club is not destructive but constructive, the drama committee has arranged to give two plays in Tufts Hall on March 31, at 8 by the village clock.

They are two new dramas by American writers. One is Hermann Hagedorn's one act play, "The House Thieves," and the other Will Hutchins' "Zenobia, A Love Drama Described." The players will be talented amateurs who summer at Dowsfield, while "The House Thieves" will be presented by the Neighborhood Club of Medford, where they know of [illegible] before.

It is hoped that the [illegible] managers will be so [illegible] to see that they can attend. A profit by will be [illegible] Twentieth Century Club's presentation of plays [illegible].

* * *

These actresses watch the newspapers like a hawk. A few days ago an aged actress was [illegible] in which the European correspondence sprung a very old story. He told how King Edward refused to [illegible] watches on their wrists. And Mrs. Kendal, a lady friend of his, replied right off the bat, "Perhaps you would rather put clocks on their stockings." And it went on to say that nobody but Mrs. Kendall would dare to say such a naughty thing.

Little Gertrude Coleman was skipping her morning coffee when she struck this item. Gertrude is the vaudeville new girl, bound it's terrible hard to get into the newspapers every day when you have to be your own press agent. But he, she has an idea. She sent out and bought a large wrist watch and strapped it on her ankle. Then when she wanted to see the time all she had to do was raise her petticoat a trifle, take her dog feet in her hand, stoop over, and say, "Why, it's ten-thirty; didn't dream it was so late."

If anybody should happen to notice a dainty ankle and a display of lingerie, why, they had no business to look, that's all.

The returns are beginning to come in from the Actors' Fund fair benefits, which are being held in every large city in the country. A. L. Erlanger, the national impresario, received $10,741 last week, the total amount $15,000 come from the benefit in Washington, and more than $7,000 from the Chicago benefit. The Boston benefit should easily net over $5,000.

Sothern's Share in "As You Like It" Meets With Less Commendation.

By ALAN DALE.

NEW YORK, March 26. What is the effect of As You Like It" would be upon modern audiences were people to go to see it for the first time, I would not venture to say. Whether it would be too obscure, too far removed from present-day interests, too foreign in thought and manner, I would not venture to say. I only know that I have seen it many times, and that I love it, and that I delight in it, and that I would rather see it than any other play in the world. Then we must remember that it is a play of Shakespeare's, and that is enough.

When we come to consider the manner in which it was presented at the Lyric last night, we must remember that it is a play of Shakespeare's, and that is enough.

Mr. Sothern's Orlando is a performance that is full of charm and distinction. It is a performance that is full of charm and distinction. It is a performance that is full of charm and distinction.

Opera War Hits Boston

HAMMERSTEIN WILL SHOW BOSTON LATE AND NOVEL OPERAS

"Elektra" Will Be a Feature, While Mary Garden and Tetrazzini Will Warble Repeatedly.

OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN has very pleasant recollections of his visit to Boston last season. He stayed here two weeks, had capacity houses every performance and made a lot of money. He gave in return a very high grade of opera and ended us to see such remarkable novelties as "Pelleas and Melisande," "Thais," "Louise," "Le Jongleur" and, best of all, "Tales of Hoffmann."

When the season was over he promised to return this year. He kept his word, but in the meantime the Boston Opera Company had happened and the Metropolitan company had discovered that Boston was on the musical map.

When Hammerstein found that his Boston Theatre engagement conflicted with the Metropolitan's he said like Ean Tangum, "I don't care." He went right along making his arrangements and confidently declared that he would get the public just as though the Metropolitan were not present. He [illegible] and for an encore, and for an encore, and for an encore,

The Wisest May Be Taught by a Child.

Justice, Honesty, Directness and Freedom from Affectation--These Are Characteristics of Childhood That Grown Men and Women May Well Imitate.

Copyright, 1910, by the Sunday American-Journal Examiner

THE importance of teaching children is great. The importance of learning from them is greater. The schoolmaster who teaches a little boy to read and write can learn a great deal from that same little boy, if he is the right kind of a schoolmaster. And if he isn't, he ought not to be teaching at all, for there is no duty so sacred and of so much use to humanity as the proper instruction of children.

It has been truthfully said that all children have genius, for genius is only the ability to see and think with perfect clearness—to use what may be called a glorified common sense.

And before a child has come into injurious contact with his elders he does see and think clearly, and his mind, though not subtle or crafty, works with a directness that a grown man might well envy.

In this cartoon a little child is pictured confronting a grave company of dignitaries and teaching them all. Supposing such a scene were really enacted. Supposing that the king, on his imposing throne, realizing that that child knew more than he of the science of government, asked her to tell him how to rule his people.

Out of her childish wisdom she would reply:

"Deal honestly with them and they will deal honestly with you."

Suppose he asked her how to punish the bad and reward the good.

She would reply:

"Deal always with absolute justice."

For, to a child, there is nothing more natural than to be honest and just.

Children learn to lie through the fear of punishment, often brutal, and nearly always without reason.

Beating children is responsible for more liars and thieves than all the Fagins that ever lived.

Any parent will tell you that when a child has done wrong and knows he has done wrong he submits to correction with no injury to his feelings, provided it is the right sort of correction.

But punish a child for something he has not done; scold him for an offense another child has committed; blame him for some fault of your own, and you arouse a sense of injustice that no words or apologies can satisfy.

Incidentally, you open his eyes as to your own character and begin to lay the foundation for a knowledge of human nature that will rob him before long of all the beauty and simplicity of his character.

The parent who lets his child discover that he is not all that he has been pictured in the childish mind makes a pretty serious mistake.

As soon as a little boy or girl learns that the father can be cruel or dishonest or unjust the illusion of childhood is spoiled, and never again will the parent receive the same trusting worship.

A successful business man, whose rule is to deal kindly and tolerantly with all the men under his control, and whose devotion to his wife and one daughter almost amounts to a religion, tells of a mistake he made when the daughter was five or six years old—a mistake which he has repented of for many years.

She had planted a garden in the Spring, and was much troubled by the crows that came and rooted up the sweetpea seeds almost as fast as she planted them.

After a day or so she stated her case to her father.

The crows, she said, had no right to her seeds. They knew that they were her seeds because they sat on the trees and saw her plant them. They knew that she did not intend them for bird-food because she came and drove them away every time she saw them devouring them. What was to be done about such thievery?

"Leave that to me," said the father; "I'll fix them."

The next morning he lay in wait in the garden with a .22 calibre rifle.

When a crow, after having assured himself that all was clear, came flapping out of a tree and alighted in the sweetpea bed, the avenger clucked to attract the bird's attention and promptly knocked him over.

The crow's thievish pals in the trees saw what had happened and transferred their field of plunder to another garden. After that they gave the little girl no more trouble.

Being a man who understood children the father sought to remove all traces of his crime by burying his victim. Then he went into the house to tell his daughter that he had fixed the crows.

"I saw you," she said, her eyes filling with tears; "I saw you kill that beautiful bird. Supposing he was a thief, that didn't give you any right to kill him. God made the crow and made him beautiful. He had pretty black feathers and black eyes like beads, and he knew how to fly, which you don't. And because you killed him I shall never speak to you again."

It was a week after that before the child would kiss her father. And though she is now a young lady, she still regards him as a man who has no exact sense of justice and who is just a little to be distrusted.

It has taken a campaign of years, the expenditure of a large sum of money and the patient efforts of thousands of people to give to adults a partial understanding of a truth that that child knew instinctively.

Civilized beings are just beginning to realize that it is wrong to kill birds—a crime to slay them to adorn millinery, and that even the thievish crow does five times as much good as a scavenger as he does harm in a cornfield or vegetable garden.

Until the Audubon Society began to make war upon bird-killers, taking their cue from the children, the song-birds of this country were threatened with extinction.

Even the song-birds were knocked over by idiots who wanted to try their marksmanship, while pigeons, the most innocent and gentle of all the bird family, were slaughtered by thousands in "live pigeon shoots" held by criminally cruel "sportsmen."

There is no judge on the bench who could not to advantage study justice in a school conducted by children. Among boys the one who cheats is marked and ostracized. Other boys will not play with him if they can get any one else to play with; then, only under protest. His reputation as a cheat goes abroad. It is the first thing any other boy will tell you if you ask about him.

In a large family the children will behave themselves provided they are all dealt with alike. But let one be favored beyond his deserts and the sense of injustice is awakened. Then there is trouble which the wisest father or mother cannot quell.

The same thing is true in school. The teacher who has favorites, or "pets," instantly loses the respect of her other scholars; while she may still be able to instruct in geography or arithmetic, her real value, that of an example to her pupils, is gone.

If you have children of your own, or if you have the opportunity of studying children, it will repay you to watch and study them.

The child has no reverence save for what he knows is good. Once convince him that the man he has picked out for a hero is not a good man and he will straightway transfer his admiration to another hero.

Of snobbery or affectation there is none in children, save what is absorbed from grown people who practise one or the other.

The child of the millionaire and society leader will lean over the back fence and talk for hours to the child of the washerwoman. And nothing is more pathetic than to see a poor urchin who has caught the trick of snobbery from a foolish and affected mother lording it over other children and behaving in a silly and disgusting fashion because he has learned that money makes a difference in some circles

Ask a child a direct question and he will answer you directly. Often he is the despair of his pretentious parents by blurting out some fact that they hoped to conceal. To him there is no reason for concealment. He is ashamed neither of poverty nor dirt. His life is an open book, and so is that of his parents, as far as he is concerned. And when a child is put on the witness stand, although the law does not concede that he is competent to take an oath, he is far more likely to tell the truth, openly and fearlessly, than any of his more "competent" elders.

For every grown man and woman there are lessons in childhood. Trusting and unworldly as they are, children are still the light that leads humanity upward toward its higher destiny. Men fight for their children because the children are worth it. Their purity and innocence are an inspiration; they have made better poets, better soldiers, better leaders of men. They were held up as examples to all the race by the One Perfect Man who has walked the earth. Upon them depends the future, and because of them the future will be better than the present.

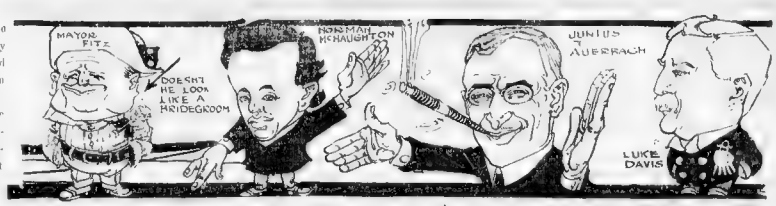
Best Stories Told in Boston Last Week

BOSTON is full of good stories. All one has to do is to keep one's ears open and the world—which is really bright and cheerful, after all—will lose its grouch and you'll always be glad you're living in it. And, when the time comes for you to die, your friends and acquaintances will remember how much you helped lighten the load of life because you always looked on the brighter side of things. The following stories, told by men well known in Boston and vicinity, were specially gathered for the readers of the Sunday American in the hope that they might help to rout the blues.



Had Never Seen Subway.

By Norman C. McNaughton, Pemberton Building Lawyer.

A VERY dear friend of mine, a young Irishman, who had been in this country but a short time, wrote to me from his home in Lynn a year ago that he wanted to come to Boston and attend some of the church celebrations on Easter Sunday. When he came here from the old sod he was whisked at once to the home of relatives in Lynn, where he procured employment in one of the shoe shops. He had never been in Boston since that time.

I concluded that I'd give him as good a holiday as I could, so I wrote him to come to Boston on a train after he finished work the night before Easter. I promised to meet him at the North Station when the train pulled in.

He came all right, dressed up in his finest. I took him to supper at one of the hotels near the depot, walked him around to some of the churches, and then whisked him in a taxi to the Touraine, where we procured a room. I thought I'd let him see life at its best.

He was up with the sun on Easter morning. I awakened to find him staring out of the window at the almost deserted streets and the Common.

"Is that a burying place?" he asked, pointing to the Common.

I explained that it wasn't.

"Well, what are all these tombstones doing there?" he demanded, with his eyes directed towards the cluster of graves on the Boylston street mall.

I went back to bed for another nap, leaving him looking out of the window.

At about 8 o'clock he shook me out of a sound sleep, and fairly shouted:

"Norman, my good man, for Heaven's sake get up. 'Tis the Resurrection morn in dead earnest, and the dead are coming out of their graves."

He pulled me out of bed and to the window.

"Look there!" he shouted. "They're coming up out of their graves!"

What was the cause of his excitement? Nothing but the early morning crowd coming out of the subway through the exits at Boylston and Tremont streets, adjacent to the old burying ground.

I didn't fully convince him of his error until I took him into the subway for a ride through it.

Mrs. Fitzgerald Won.

By Mayor John F. Fitzgerald.

WE were coming up from Cuba Mrs. Fitzgerald and I a few weeks ago. The boat was one day distant from Cuba. Mrs. Fitzgerald met some ladies on the boat whom she knew, so I left them to chat and wandered down to the smoking room.

I sat for a half-hour talking with other men passengers. Suddenly the one who was sitting next to me leaned across the chair arm and said:

"Say, Mr. Mayor, don't you think you've been away from Mrs. Fitzgerald long enough No newly married man should stay away from his bride so long. She's apt to feel that she can do without him."

It struck me as such a good joke that I hastened to tell "my bride" about it.

"I guess that's pretty good," I said, "for a fellow whose hair is just beginning to get gray behind the ears."

But Mrs. Fitzgerald didn't let me get away with it—not for a minute.

"That compliment," she said, very decidedly, "was not for you, but for me."

Perhaps that didn't cut some. I asked her how she arrived at the conclusion.

"Well," she said, with a smile that satisfied me she was only joking, "do you remember when you and Rose and Agnes and I were sailing for Europe a couple of years ago?"

"Yes."

"Remember that crowd that stood near us on the dock?"

"Yes."

"Well, I heard one lady in the crowd say to another: 'There is Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston with his three daughters.'"

What the Chaplain Is For.

By Luke K. Davis, Doorkeeper of the Massachusetts Senate.

A LITTLE girl—a very little girl—was brought up to the State House one day by her father, who was a former member of the Senate. She was shown all over the Capitol from the engineer's room in the sub-basement to the look-out at the top of the dome, from which all Boston can be seen.

The tour of inspection wound up with a visit to the Senate chamber when the body was about to go into action. The child wanted anxiously for the session to begin.

Finally the president rapped the Senators to order, mumbled the words declaring the Senate convened and called for the daily prayer from the chaplain.

The little girl leaned over the gallery rail and watched the chaplain intently. After the session had adjourned she was taken down to the floor of the Senate, where she was introduced to the president, the chaplain and several members of the upper branch.

The chaplain propped her up on his knee, and said:

"Now, little girl, I want you to tell me just what happened here this afternoon. See if you can remember what you saw."

"Well," lisped the youngster, "first the big man pounded a little and th' said something and then you got up and you looked at the Thenatorth and then you prayed for the Thtate of Mathachuthetth."

"What's that last part?" asked the astounded chaplain.

"I thaid," repeated the child, "that you looked at the Thenatorth and then you prayed for the Thtate of Mathachuthetth."

They didn't ask her to tell any more about what she had seen.

Tough On Southboro.

By Junius T. Auerbach, Boston Lawyer.

WHEN former Senator Jim Shaw was building his Boston & Worcester street railway a few years ago he [illegible] with a great [illegible] demanded [illegible] was due [illegible].

"Bring in your field books," said Jim. "Not on your life," said the engineer. "I'll [illegible] Shaw. "You don't get money till you do bring them in."

[illegible] Charles P. Choate Jr., who was a member of the Republican State Committee and attorney for the New Haven railroad, and who incidentally wasn't in love with Shaw.

Choate brought suit. The case came to trial. I was counsel in a case that was to be heard immediately after this one, so I sat in the courtroom and listened to the testimony.

"Sure," said Shaw.

"I live in Southboro," said Choate, "and from what I've seen of your road up there I'd say you had pretty good engineers. This man was a good engineer, wasn't he?"

"Yes," said Jim, "he was."

"Why didn't you pay him?"

"Well, I told him to bring in his field books, and he refused."

"Have any other conversation with him?"

"I don't remember."

"Did you tell him, Mr. Shaw, that he could go to h—ll?"

"I don't [illegible] I might have."

"Why did you tell him to [illegible] there? Were you building a road there?"

"No," said Shaw, with a smile, "but we were mighty near it at that time. We were just beginning to cut through Southboro."

Mr. Dinkelspiel's Cheerful News About the Family

MRS. HOBART

OME DIS WEEK MEIN LIEBER LOOEY — V hat receifed yo ot from Kansas C and vo vas glad to hear it dot ou ve making progress commencad ing, aldough I vish to such a leedle Inter

Your Mudder says it dot I should gif you in dis letter all her home news vich I vill dit it.

Ve vas all vell und eferyding vas peaceful here at home mit der eggsception dot a book agent called at our home. She I was away last Tvesday und he vas a polite dot before your Mudder could skow him how to open der front door und fall off der porch he sold her 944 books, most of vich is in der nature of bicyclopedias, und der Lalane contains der life of Chone of Arc und udder heroes in der orichinal French. In order to get our money back we vill from dis day forvard become a literarious family, und much knowledge will be inflicted upon all dose dot visit us. Do you know vot is "E Pluribus [illegible]." Lo[illegible] I'd [illegible] Latin it [illegible] "Plate Onions" but it vas a [illegible] impression dot der Emperor Au[illegible] Romun vegetarian [illegible] skowed der Latin vas in der books, und vhen you come home Looey, you must [illegible] Mudder says you can [illegible] bar.

Ve vas also [illegible] here at home [illegible] dot burglars broke into our house last Tvesday und stole two vases from der parlor piano and four octaves from der piano. I tolt der police should it unt der police smiled furiously.

Ve vas all vell und peaceful here at home [illegible] dot I paid der gas bill [illegible] day und for since dot terrible hour I [illegible] such a vet feeling in my monetary [illegible] und my financial system is shivering [illegible] In our house we haf der most [illegible] gas dot money can purchase. Our gas bills can make a twenty-dollar note [illegible] in der face, und ven der postman rings in der bill der bank book gets up und leaves our room. Our gas meter has a vunderful imagination. It has also a great head for figures. It knows nearly efery figure in der alphabet, und it has a speaking ackvaintance mit all der foreign figures in der dead lankviches, also. Der fairst day our gas meter efer vent to vork it vas for a man und his vife py der name of Ananias und Saphira. Dis meter of ours is nefer at a loss for someding to say, und efery time it speaks it cost us money. Our meter believes in der oit proverb vich says dot figures nefer lie. so, like Tennyson's crooks, it goes on forefer mitoudt getting pinched. Our gas [illegible] dot it should be sent to a sanitarium, und der chandelier is ashamed to look me in der face. Der only pleasure I haf in life dese days is to creep silently down in der cellar und den sneak up unsuspectfully on der gas meter und vatch how its face vill blush because I haf caught it vorking clandestinely.

Ve vas all vell und much pleasantness exciates here at home mit der eggsception dot burglars broke into our house Tirstay nicht und stole der alarm clock. Dis comes as a great blow to me because now I vill not be able to know ven to vake up ven der next burglars come around. I tolt der police should it but dey act dot time was flying, und how could dey catch a tempus fugit burglar mitoudt a skratch?

Ve vas vell und peaceful here at home, Looey, mit der eggsception dot your Mudder is vorrid about you, Looey, because in your letter from Glens Falls, N. Y., you tell us dot you haf taken up der study of painting; in your letter from Scranton, Pa., you tell us dot you haf chosned a school of correspondence for der study of boxing; in your letter from South Bend, Ind., you say dot you vas taking a flying course in medicine, und in your letter from Gossport, Iowa, you mention it dot you vas studying between towns to be a actor. Your Mudder is vorried for fear you might become accustomed to two or three of dose professions und stay dare, und I vould like to inkvire vot time you haf left to eat your meals mit, und who does your regular vork for you?

Ve vas all vell und all vas cheerful here at home mit der eggsception dot your Uncle Hermin spleyin is waiting us from Tankville, Maine, und he has brought mit him an attack of nervous procrastnation, vich forces him to took a glass of viskey efery half hour py der doctor's orders, vich includes in der prescription dot I must pay for der viskey. Der only satisfaction aboudt it is dot Herman vas on his vay to der Zoo ven he arrived mit us, und now it is only a question of a few more half hours before his collection of vite mice und pink cesterpedes vill be complete.

Ve vas all vell at home mit der eggsception dot your leedle brudder, Max, has an attack of Indian fever, vich caused him to took der carving knife und ster der parlor stealthfully, vare he climbed up in a chair und scalped a painting of George Vashington Crossing der Delevan. He removed Chorge's sig from der riel. car to a point aboudt sigs inches from der Charlestown shore, und ven your Mudder found him he hat moved der chair ofer unter a painting of Frederick der Grosse, und hat separated Frederick from all of his buttons und part of der Imperial chin. After several doses of your Mudder's skipper, der Indian fever has supsided, und leedle Max is so busy trying to figure ould ven he vill be able to sit down again dot he has no time for udder eggsploits.

Ve vas all vell at home und eferyding vas peaceful mit der eggsception of your Mudder, vich concluded vunce more dot she vas getting too fat, so she secured annuder passion for physical torture to tease herself thinner. Last night aboudt twelve o'clock she hat an attack of Indian clubs, vun of vich vas contagious, because it settled on my chest und spoiled my singing voice. Den she became attached to a pair of dumbbells und struggled mit dem for five minutes, until vun of dem left her und vent ould through der bedroom vindow, vich caused a rush of policeman to der scene. For my part I dink fat ness is no crime, but an angry dumbbell in der hands of a veak woman is der gateway vich leads ound on der road to ruin.

Ve vas all getting along nicely und all vas quiet here at home mit der eggsception dot der t'ermometer got tired de udder night und vent down to t'ree degrees below keno, vich bursted der vater pipes, und for two days ve hat an attack of plumbers in our midst vich is vun of der most eggsensive diseases in all der history of nix vonties.

Ve vas all vell und eferyding vas peaceful here at home mit der eggsception dot burglers broke in our house Vednesday night und stole half a dozen knives, but dey showed vot bad table manners dey hat by forgetting to took der forks also. I tolt der police aboudt it, but dey act der choke vas on der burglars, because to took anyding sharp like a knife mitoudt leaving a penny for it cuts friendships.

Ven some udder news happens itself I vill make it for you in a letter.

SOME OF THE FUNNY THINGS THAT THE CHILDREN SAY

"WILL you say me a grace, grandma?"

"No, dear, you would disturb me with the noise."

"No, I wouldn't, Granny. I'd only play it when you're asleep."

ONE day a teacher in school told her class to draw something so she could tell from their drawing what they were going to do when they grow up.

All but one little girl drew something. At this the teacher was surprised, and said, "Mary, don't you want to be something when you grow up?

LITTLE Johnnie was not allowed in the sick room of his brother, who had scarlet fever. A few weeks afterward his mamma was blessed by the arrival of a little baby girl, and Johnnie was allowed to come into the darkened room to see the baby. But mamma seeing the frightened look on his face, asked him what was the matter.

A BOSTON hostess was entertaining an English lord at dinner recently. When called on at the dinner table, she asked him to help himself to different things, always addressing him as "My Lord." Her little son, Willie, aged five, saw him reaching out for some pickles and quickly said: "Mamma, God wants a pickle."

FANNIE tried very hard to be polite and speak correctly. At school one day she met a little friend who had been sick for some time. In answer to the question of affection Fannie said: "Did you suffer much pain when you were very ill?"

"Harry Smith licked me."

MRS. JONES has a son, Tommy, five years old. Hearing a loud and unusual scratching noise in the parlor, she goes in and finds Tommy on the floor with the cat.

Mother—Stop pulling that cat's tail, Tommy!

LITTLE BOY (to girl)—We have a billy goat down our place; he has no nose.

Little Boy—Awful!

A SOUTH Salisbury lawyer was cross-examining a little boy recently. "Where did you get your head cold?" he asked.

"I got it from my father," was the reply.

"I won't," said Johnny sullenly.

"Hush, Johnny, hush!"

Won't answered Johnny again, and he was about to add more to the same effect when his sister, who had a natural fear of the consequences, hastily interposed:

"Can't it be, Johnny, dear?"

LITTLE Clarence, upon his return to school with his plate of ginger cake, was asked who she didn't like, replied:

"Can't tell—my teacher said it's bad manners to tell."

TWO little girls were discussing what he was.

Jenny—No it ain't.

Mary—It is. My father is a professor in a college and he says it is.

Jenny—My father is a real estate man and he knows more about lying than your father does.

SALLIE—If I was dividing the cake, I'd give you the biggest piece.

Tommy—Papa.

HAROLD'S mother was a member of the Flower of Christian Science. He two were crossing a field while in the country and when the lad saw a goat in the distance, he hid behind his parent's skirt to shield himself.

"Harold, I am ashamed of you," he was told him. "Don't you know there is no such thing as pain and that the goat can't hurt you?"

"I know it," he admitted, timidly. "I know man it is, but the goat don't know it, and you know it, but the goat don't know it."

A PATIENT Catholic priest was having much difficulty in teaching the Catechism to a class of young negroes. One small boy could not remember that God "Son, and Holy Ghost," so the priest drilled him with three old buttons, naming each button for one of the Trinity.

The next time the boy came for a lesson he produced but two of the buttons, explaining that mamma done sewed the Holy Ghost on my pants."

ON Sunday Freddie's father gave him two nickels, one to put in the Sunday school collection, and the other to buy candy. On his way to the store he was merrily jingling the coins in his hand when one of them slipped through a grating in the pavement. He looked after the coin a moment and then said:

LITTLE MARY asked her mother to let her hair crackled. Her mother explained that it had electricity in it. Then she said: "Oh, mamma, isn't it funny! I have electricity in my hair and grandma has gas in her stomach."

A [illegible] Daniel [illegible] Sunday [illegible] Whose is that [illegible] Why, dearest, [illegible] Mother [illegible] Daniel [illegible] Why, dearest," said her nurse, "aren't you going to say your prayers, especially a small one who lay on the floor until when you have had a baby brother brought to the house today?"

"No, I ain't," said Mollie, "and that baby brother is just the trouble."

"But, why," asked the nurse, "don't you love your baby brother?"

"What's the use?" queried the little girl. "I have been praying for a little sister every night for six months and Bobbie he only began asking for a little brother yesterday and he got his right off."

A TEACHER was explaining to the class the circulation of the blood and said:

"Now, scholars, when I stand on my head the blood rushes to it and makes my face red. Why is it, when I stand on my feet, the blood don't rush down and make them red?"

MY friend's three-year-old son was particularly vexatious recently. Hoping to create a favorable and lasting impression upon him, she called him to her and, in a most aggrieved tone, told him that it hurt her very much to think how naughty he could be. After a moment's silence, suggestive of repentance (my friend experiencing pride in her convincing power), the little boy raised his curly head and, facing a pair of radiant eyes upon him, said: "Deed, muvver, I wouldn't think about it."

THE CITY LULLABY---By James J. Montague,

The Funniest Poet of Modern Times.

With our mothers' alterations for our little city ears—
Just a change or two in wording, so that we might understand
And enjoy the poets' meaning, though we got it second hand.
Take the song about the bucket; when our mother's good night kiss,
Was imprinted on our forehead, she would warble it like this:

How dear to our hearts is our flat in South Boston
The automobubbles with drumming exhaust on,
That scared us to death as they sped past the door
The money that father brought home upon pay day,
Which mother annexed without mercy or shame,
But most we remember the annual May-day,
For that was the day that the moving man came

The queer moving van-man,
We hiked once a year when the moving man came

When the sombre shades of evening filtered through our little flat,
And the housetop was abandoned to one dissipated cat,
We would curl up in our cradles in the purple velvet gloom,
That pervaded every corner of our four-by-seven room,
And the baby tree-top story changed a very little bit
Would be softly caroled to us, city-edited, to wit

What though the walls are not dynamite proof?
When the blast blows, the flat house will fall
And down will come flat house and baby and all
Rockaby, rockaby, crackety crack!
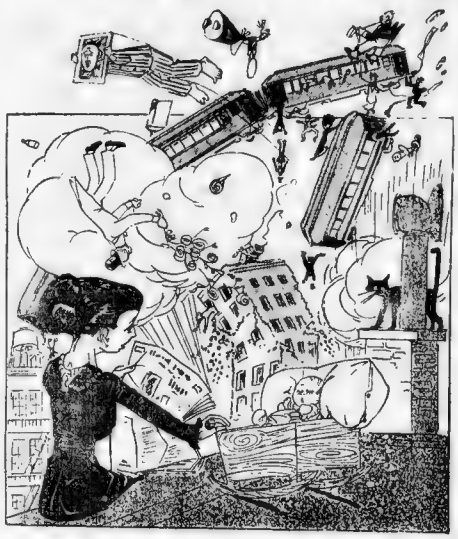
Poor country babies, ah, well may they weep,
They don't have such noises to lull them to sleep'



LETTERS OF A SUFFRAGETTE---By Wex Jones

DEAR POLLY—We have joined the cutest organization to force men to give us the franchise—or is it the ballot? Whatever it is we've got a new society to make them hand it over. Mrs. Clarence Mackay thought of it first and now all of us are keen for it.

To keep you wondering no longer the plan is this: None of us can marry until we have made 500 men promise to support the cause. In other words, if they won't support the cause we won't allow them to [illegible]. United States Senator counts 2m a Congressman 100, and a State Senator 50. I don't see why a State Senator shouldn't count as much as the frumpy ones in Washington, but I suppose there is some political reason for it. Anyway, there's the plan, and all us should be "we"! college girls have taken it up. I don't want to marry for a long time in any event, but it makes you feel fine to think you are sacrificing something for right and progress.

It's better than going to jail anyhow.

MADGE.

Dear Polly—What do you think—hooray! I've got my first convert (convert sounds quite grand and business-like), and it's Jack. I asked him if he would come over to our side and he said he'd go anywhere to be by my side. He's so silly. "Do you favor giving us a vote?" I asked him. "I never voted myself," he said, "so you might as well have mine." "Bully" said I "now I need only 499." Then of course he asked me what "499" meant and I told him all about the sacrifice we were making for the Cause. He said, "That's all right, girlie, the way things are going now I shan't have money enough to marry for about two years, and in that time you can complete the set."

You bet I just snubbed him good.

MADGE.

Dear Polly—It isn't so easy as I thought. Of course I can't ask a stranger, and when I ask papa or any of his friends they just laugh and say, "So it's votes you're collecting now instead of china?"

But I had one adventure. A Senator counts 200, and when Jim, my brother you remember him, the one that fell in the lake when he tried to show you how to paddle a canoe like a gondola—pointed out one at the Park Street subway. I didn't stop to draw a breath, but rushed up to him and said: "I've got 499 and you will be"—— I didn't get any further, for he broke in with, "Bless my soul, my dear young lady, got a most important engagement and can't lose a moment. But, here, porter, see that this young lady catches car four-ninety nine."

And there I was, as mad as a hornet and he might know there wouldn't be such a car as a 4.99 if he had any sense at all.

MADGE.

Dear Polly—Got one more convert. It is ("He is" would sound more polite, but then converts sound like specimens somehow.) Bill Eggles. He promised right away and said it was noble of me to labor for my sisters throughout the land. I felt quite like an early martyr. Jack was almost rude when I told him. He called Bill Eggles a mutt, and said that he (Jack) would marry me whether I had no votes or a million. I told him never.

MADGE.

Dear Polly—This is a great secret only six or seven of my best friends know it. Be sure and keep it. Jack and I are engaged and we expect to be married in June. He was left a pile of money by an uncle who made it in land and died in California.

I thought it was wrong to abandon the mission, but Jack persuaded me that I could serve the Cause better by making a model home, and I think he is right.

Anyway, I needed only 498 more.

MADGE.

THESE HAPPENED AT HARVARD

PROFESSOR HUGO MUNSTERberg, who believes in the power of suggestion to explain all the mysteries of psychology, and who is a recognized authority on the subject at Harvard, can write English better than many natives and produces a large number of scientific volumes each year, but he is not quite up to chemistry as he handles it.

"Gentlemen," he began his lecture to the class in chemistry, "I hold in my hands two test tubes which contain deadly explosives. If by an accident, or carelessness on the part of the students, I should break one of these test tubes the result would be disastrous. Gentlemen, you will please keep perfectly quiet while I pour these two chemicals into this glass and I draw the line at anyone who moves from his seat."

Miss Mathilde Townsend and Her $30,000,000 May Go to Poor Count d'Adhemar because the Noble Duke of Alba Insisted on $250,000 Yearly Pocket Money as The Price of His Title.

MISS MATHILDE TOWNSEND.

THE pursuit of the beautiful multi-millionairess, Miss Mathilde Townsend, of Washington, by the nobility of Europe and the most eligible youths of America still goes on. Once it was considered certain that she would be won by the Spanish Duke of Alba, who bears more titles than any nobleman who ever wooed an American heiress, but the engagement has been deferred because the Duke required an income of $250,000 a year.

Now society learns that Miss Townsend personally prefers Count Raoul d'Adhemar, a handsome young Belgian nobleman, who is half American by descent and practically penniless.

Then there is young Jerome Bonaparte, one of the Baltimore Bonapartes, great-grandson of the brother of Napoleon I. He is a son of the late Colonel Jerome Bonaparte and a nephew of Charles J. Bonaparte, who was recently Attorney-General. He is a great admirer of Miss Townsend, and society has looked for a match in that direction.

But now it seems certain that Count d'Adhemar is the favorite. He is six feet tall, with an athletic figure, a ruddy complexion and a mustache like that of Kaiser Wilhelm. He has a beautiful old country place in Virginia, which came to him through his mother, who is a Virginian. It is expected that he will settle in this country, give up his title and become an American citizen.

Like Miss Townsend, he is devoted to horses, and raises fine stock on his place. They are frequently together at the opera, the hunt and social entertainments.

The Duke of Alba, however, has

PHILANDER C. KNOX JR.

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT JR.

Why It's Lucky for a Millionaire's Son to be Disinherited.

How the Unreasonable Wrath of Cornelius Vanderbilt's Father Over His Marriage Has Made a Man of Him and Now Young "Tip" Knox Is in the Same Boat.

Young Mrs. Philander C. Knox, Jr., Formerly a Shop Girl, and Now Daughter-in-Law of the Secretary of State.

Alfred Vanderbilt Driving His Fast Coach, One of His Greatest Responsibilities.

YOUNG Philander Chase Knox II., disowned by his father for marrying the girl of his choice, presents some of the most interesting problems of American life.

Will it do him any harm to be disowned, cut off with a pittance, thrown upon his own resources and probably disinherited, or will it make a man of him, as in the case of other notable millionaires' sons?

To throw light on this question it is interesting to go back to an event that convulsed New York's highest society fourteen years ago. That was the marriage of young Cornelius Vanderbilt.

There are many strong points of resemblance between the marriages of young Cornelius Vanderbilt and Philander Chase Knox II. Vanderbilt, like young Knox, was determined to marry a girl somewhat older than himself, in spite of his father's opposition. Vanderbilt, like young Knox, carried out his intention.

Vanderbilt, like young Knox, was cut off with a scanty allowance by his father. Vanderbilt, like young Knox, declared that he would make a position for himself. Like Vanderbilt, too, young Knox had a strong inclination for mechanics and a genuine desire to do hard work, instead of being a drone in the social hive.

It is true that Cornelius Vanderbilt married into a well known family and young Knox did not, as the Vanderbilts were far above the Wilsons, as well as the Knoxes are above the Boilers, by whom young Philander has allied himself.

Cornelius Vanderbilt was the oldest living son of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, the senior member of the family in his day. Young Cornelius was destined to receive the bulk of the Vanderbilt fortune, according to the system of primogeniture established in that family. He was destined to become the head of the family, just as if he were the Crown Prince of some European empire. He was to become the owner of the great house which runs from Fifty-seventh to Fifty-eighth street on Fifth avenue, New York, the largest town house in America, a reproduction of the historic Chateau de Blois.

All these advantages he knowingly sacrificed in order to marry the woman he loved.

A point of resemblance between young Knox and Vanderbilt is that both had a pronounced inclination for mechanics. Young Knox, as has been stated, was a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he took a course in mechanical engineering. Young Vanderbilt, on the other hand, was graduated from the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University. He studied civil engineering, with the problem of location of railroads, bridges, tunnels, and other matters connected therewith, in view. He graduated in 1894 and began work in the shops of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad Company, where he remained for a year, learning the practical details of railroading. He then entered the engineering department of the New York Central Railroad. This department is in the office at Forty-second street. He had previously qualified for this position after taking his degree in mechanical engineering at

What An "Educated" Girl Really Knows.

IN these days of higher education for girls some very simple and useful accomplishments are apt to be forgotten. They are accomplishments that one need not attend school to learn and yet they are as valuable and as essential as the most advanced or intemperate young men

She should know how to embrace every opportunity for reading and how to select such books as will give her the most useful and practical information in order to make the best progress in earlier as well as later home and school life.

A girl who combines all this information with her regular school education should keep pace with her mental development and painting are real accomplishments in opment, or life will be a failure under the home, and are not to be neglected if any condition.

The Stage Barnyard That Set the Fashion.

THE great result of "Chantecler" has been to introduce the world of animals, great and small, to the world of fashion.

Edmond Rostand has represented the animals of the barnyard and the field in their true characters, giving them human speech in order to make them intelligible to men.

Gay Paris had forgotten the interesting and often charming inhabitants of the country. When Rostand, the greatest playwright of France, put them on the stage, he gave the men and women of Paris a delightful surprise.

Now every fashionable woman of Paris wants to look like a pheasant or a hen or a magpie or a woodpecker or a blackbird or a peacock or a green frog, or whatever kind of animal pleases her most. And every fashionable woman everywhere else copies Paris.

Naturally the first fashion that arose was the hat copied from the pheasant heroine of the piece, played by Madame Simone. The pheasant is lovely and charming, a type of ideal femininity as rare as dreams of and rarely met in. She wanders the ground Chantecler walks on, and believes everything he says. She gives her life to save his.

It may be added that the pheasant hat fashion was taken up so quickly and generally that it will probably disappear sooner than some of the other Chantecler fashions.

The dog is presented in a very sympathetic light in Chantecler. There are really two dogs in the piece. One is Patou, the domestic farmyard dog. The other is Brifaut, the hound or hunting dog.

Patou is a particularly amiable dog. It would be hard to say what family he belongs to. He has a square fuzzy face, something like an Irish terrier's, but considerably larger. He is the friend of everybody. He advises the wicked hound not to hunt ... Chantecler. And he warns Chantecler that they are trying to kill him.

Brifaut is a much more serious dog than Patou, but thoroughly good hearted. He has a habit of imparting useful information. The pheasant is rather ... at his appearance, and asks:

There are ... different breeds of chickens in Chantecler, ... of them handsome. Several of these breeds are ... in America. Among ... the Houdans, the Crèvecœur, the Yokohama, the Houdan Dame, the ... Plymouth ... Partridge ... Plymouth ... Black Spanish ... and ...

What will Lady Connie Richardson Do Next!

In Spite of King Edward's Snub Because She Dances in Public Barefooted, She Delights London Society at a Big Costume Ball Dressed as an American Cowboy.

Lady Richardson Exercising Her Skill as a Markswoman.

IT has proved quite useless for King Edward to run his blue pencil through the name of Lady Constance Richardson—as His Royal Highness did when she persisted in doing barefoot dances in a London music hall for pay, like any other vaudevillian.

Lady Constance has retorted to the royal social snub by scoring the social success of her life at the $50,000 fancy dress ball given recently by the Chelsea Arts Club, in Albert Hall, London.

The erratic, beautiful and talented noble woman appeared at this important function in the character of an American cowboy—spurred boots, "chaps," flannel shirt and neckerchief, buckskin gloves and sombrero, with revolver at her belt, a lariat coiled over her shoulder and a "quirt" or cowboy whip in her hand.

In this startling make-up Lady Constance was the merriest and most energetic of the 4,000 dancers on the floor. She not only created a sensation, but was the recipient of marked attentions from some of the proudest members of British society.

This was Lady Constance's first social appearance since royal favor was withdrawn from her last January, when she declined to turn her back on the Palace Music Hall stage and the $1,500 per week she received for doing classic Greek dances there in her bare feet.

Lady Constance's appearance as a cowboy was right in line with another American allusion which caused general hilarity at the Art Club ball. This was one of several humorous signs painted by members of the club. It was called "Teddy Bare," and represented Colonel Roosevelt wallowing in an African swamp.

And Lady Connie in a Barefoot Dance.

Things American have been very popular with Lady Constance Richardson since her extended visit to this country two years ago when she was lionized by New York society and gave her barefoot dances for charity. As she is a noted athlete, horsewoman and huntress her acquaintance was much cultivated by fashionable sportsmen. One result of this was to provide her with a nickname of which she is said to be rather proud than otherwise.

H. F. Yoakum, the railroad man, who like herself, is an ardent hunter, suggested that she go West and shoot on his ranch.

"I'll send word to the ranch that you're coming," he said. And he did, in this telegram to his ranch manager:

As the ranch manager had just been receiving a lot of thoroughbred horses called Lady This and Duchess That, he took it for granted that Lady Constance was another two-year-old filly. Going to the nearest railway station to meet "Lady Constance," and finding no horse there, he wired anxiously up and down the line: "Missing—Lady Constance. If any station agent runs across her, feed her and rub her down until you hear from us."

In the ranch country ever since, Lady Constance has been known as "The Filly."

Also by intimate friends in London to whom she told the story.

She is said to be much less proud of having danced in her classic costume before King Edward and the Khedive of Egypt than of her prowess as a hunter. Thus far her best feat has been shooting a lion in the wilds of Africa.

Since her sensational appearance at the Art Club ball, London Society is asking: "What will Lady Constance do next?"

It is whispered that a hunting expedition after caribou in the forests of Canada will claim her attention as soon as she resigns from her music hall engagements and has lightened up the family finances which the reverses suffered by her husband, Sir Edward Richardson, lately renders necessary. After that she has in view a complete tour of the world via the South Sea Islands, where she hopes to pick up some new ideas in costume and dancing.

Lady Constance is famous as an all-around athlete. For some years she has been the champion woman swimmer of England, a sport of which her aunt, the Duchess of Sutherland, is a celebrated patroness. Horseback riding is her favorite exercise, and she is also a great walker.

While visiting friends in New York city she never missed her invariable morning walk. On her way home she usually stopped at the Riding and Driving Club for an hour of horseback exercise to put a still finer edge on her breakfast appetite.

After breakfast she fenced and punched the bag for an hour or two, and if she was due at a fashionable luncheon, another brisk walk was on her programme. In addition to these physical exertions she danced nearly every night while in this country.

Like most women athletes Lady Constance Richardson abhors the corset, never wearing it. As to clothing, the less clothing the better, seems to be her motto. In dancing she follows this rule, never wearing either shoes or stockings.

For swimming, her garb is as pretty nearly the lowest possible limit. At Palm Beach, Florida, she appeared in a swimming costume that was remarkable for its brevity. She defended it on the ground that it was "easy to swim in."

In acquiring all these physical accomplishments, Lady Constance Richardson claims to be actuated by a desire to inspire humanity with higher ideals of beauty. She wants to banish all that is ugly and bring about a system of training for children that will develop them into apostles of "the good, the true and the beautiful." She says:

"I want to take five nice boys to the school I shall establish with the money I earn. I shall teach them agriculture, dancing and athletics, as the lessons they should learn in an ordinary school.

"I am getting tired of everyday life and want something new—want better stories in whom I am interested." Many of my travels have been for the sake of observing the savages' treatment of their children, which is often at least much saner than our own way that our children are both mentally and physically far in advance of our own at the same age."

To perfect her skill as a dancer Lady Constance took regular lessons from Madame Clara Lane Maddison, at that time instructor at the great Covent Garden Opera House, London. She danced in conventional ballet dancer's costume with tights and fluffy muslin skirts, and became a most rare dancer of the type required in the ballets of the grand opera. She was already a most accomplished exponent of fancy dancing, but she had never learned the more difficult and classic form of the art.

She had long been accustomed to dancing in the sensible highlander's ancient national costume, including kilt and stockings. When British society first saw her in this costume at the Duke of Sutherland's parties, it was startled, but her subsequent pranks have made that little departure from conventionality seem quite tame. She wears the McKenzie tartan for her kilt and stockings, her father having belonged to that clan.

Between the top of the stockings and the kilt there appear a generous prospect, according to the true highland fashion. Lady Constance wears the kilt when she goes tramping about the Scottish moors. For evening dress she keeps the kilt and stockings, but adds patent leather shoes with silver buckles, and a little velvet coat with lace ruffles and silver buttons, in a eighteenth century style.

In physical make-up this remarkable woman is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 150 pounds when carried fine. She has a straight, strong, graceful figure and an abundance of beautiful brown hair.

Naturally a woman with all these personal accomplishments and ideals—a titled woman who is not swerved from her purpose by the frowns of her sovereign, is an interesting personality. Here is a schedule of what Lady Constance Richardson actually is and represents.

She is the heir presumptive to the titles of Countess of Cromartie. Vice-countess Tarbat, Baroness Castlehaven and Baroness McLeod, held by her sister, Lilian, wife of Major Blunt.

She has travelled in Europe, Asia, Egypt, Africa and America, but is devoted to Scotland, her native country, its costume and customs.

She will be twenty-eight years old this year.

LOBSTERS

By Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini.

Mme. Tetrazzini, the Distinguished Prima Donna, Gives a Dozen Recipes for Preparing the Popular Crustacean.

ONE dish which I have greatly enjoyed in America and which is never better cooked than in its country is the lobster. Homard l'Americaine is a much prized dish in Europe. A traveller said it was the best dish he tasted while on the Riviera.

Permit me to suggest to the young housekeeper how first to choose the lobster. It is a good rule that the heaviest are the best. If as happens sometimes are of the same size yet one weighs more than the other by all means choose the heavier. The weight is the test, for weight indicates solidity and goodness.

The male lobster is the better for boiling because his flesh is firmer and the shell becomes a brighter red. The female lobster you may distinguish by the broader tail. Also the two uppermost fins within the tail are less stiff and bad than those of the male lobster, but on account of their small size lobsters are better for sauce or salad.

Boiling a lobster is an ordeal to humane persons of imagination. It is well as in all painful things in life, to get it over as quickly as possible. Plunge it into a large kettle of water large enough to cover the lobster. To every gallon of water add a quarter of a pound of salt. When it boils thrust the lobster in head first. If the head goes in first the creature is instantly killed. Boil briskly over a hot fire from twenty minutes to a half hour, according to the lobster's size. Take it out with tongs and lay it to drain. Wipe the scum off it. Dip a piece of clean cloth into butter and rub the buttered cloth over the lobster.

Mme. Tetrazzini Breaking the Claw of a Lobster with a Hammer to Extract the Meat for the Salad She is Making.

Boil the lobster for thirteen minutes in a mirepoix sauce. Add just before taking off the wine and brandy. After taking out the lobster pick out the meat in as large pieces as possible.

The mirepoix, a basis for brown sauces, is prepared as follows: Three ounces butter; one pound raw ham; one half pound fat bacon; two onions; two shallots; two small carrots; a bunch of parsley; two bay leaves; two sprigs of thyme; twelve bruised peppercorns.

Cut the meat and butter into small pieces. Slice the onions, carrots and shallots and bruise the peppercorns. Mix all together and brown in a saucepan. When the mixture is slightly colored pour into it two quarts of good veal stock and a pint of any light wine. Boil slowly for two hours.

When the mirepoix is boiled to the consistency of thick soup set the lobster shell upright in the dish. Arrange the meat around it and pour over the meat the mirepoix. If the mirepoix is not sufficiently thick it can be thickened with butter and flour.

Over the mirepoix can also be spread lobster butter if desired.

Lobster Butter.

TWO hen lobsters, equal weight of butter.

Remove from the lobsters the red which is in the head and the spawn. Pound the lobster in a mortar. Add their weight of butter. Pound it and the lobster spawn together, thoroughly mixing them. Strain through a hair sieve. The butter should be a fine red color.

Curried Lobster.

TWO small lobsters; four tablespoonfuls veal gravy; four tablespoonfuls of cream; two teaspoonfuls curry powder; one teaspoonful of flour; one tablespoonful of butter; juice of half a lemon; half a blade of mace.

Pick the lobsters from their shells. Put them into a stewpan with the mace, gravy and cream, the curry powder, flour and butter. Let all simmer for one hour. Add a pinch of salt. Squeeze in the juice of the lemon and serve.

Lobster a la Newburgh.

First boil the lobster for twenty minutes. Then pick it out in small pieces. Pour over it the cream and add the butter and flour which have been rolled together. Warm in a chafing dish and stir gently while warming. Just before serving pour in a wineglassful of sherry.

Baked Lobster.

STEW a green lobster from thirteen to twenty minutes. Shred the meat and put it back into the shells. Moisten with a little lemon juice or cream. Sprinkle over it a few bread crumbs. Bake slightly and serve with the lobster butter which has already been described.

Grilled Lobster.

CUT a lobster in two. Wash it well and place it on the grill. Add a folded napkin. It looks more attractive butter while grilling. Ten tive if garnished with parsley.

minutes over a hot fire are enough.

Scalloped Lobsters.

ONE large lobster; one tablespoonful of white sauce, or of melted butter if preferred; one-half cupful bread crumbs; on teaspoonful mixed salt, pepper and cayenne pepper.

Pick out all the meat. Pound it in a mortar mixing it with the sauce or butter and seasoning. Split the empty shells of the bodies and the tails. Fill each of them with the pounded lobster. Sprinkle over them a few bread crumbs and put them in an oven. Serve on a folded napkin. It looks more attractive

Stewed Lobster.

ONE large lobster, one pint of water, one blade of mace, one-half dozen white peppercorns, one teaspoonful melted butter, a glass of white wine, juice of half a lemon.

Pick the meat out in large pieces. Boil the shells in a pint of water with the mace and peppercorns. Boil until all the strength has been stewed from the shells and juice. Strain the liquor and mix the coral with two tablespoonfuls of melted butter, a wineglass of white wine, and the lemon juice. Strain this liquor. Place the picked lobster in it. Boil up and serve.

Lobster Cutlets.

THREE small hen lobsters; two tablespoonfuls butter; yolks of four eggs; white of one egg; one-half cupful bread crumbs; one dessertspoonful of anchovy sauce; one-half nutmeg; one blade of mace, one dash cayenne pepper, also of salt and black pepper.

Pick out the meat and pound it in a mortar with part of the coral, the mace pounded and the nutmeg and cayenne pepper. Beat well the yolks of two eggs, the white of one and the anchovy sauce. Mix the ingredients thoroughly, and roll out as you would paste, with a little flour, nearly two inches thick. Cut them into cutlets. Brush over the cutlets with the yolk of an egg. Dip them into bread crumbs, and fry a light brown in butter. They are best served with the following sauce.

One cupful of melted butter.

Pour this into the centre of the dish. Arrange the cutlets around it as you would cutlets of meat. Place between the cutlets the horns of the lobster cut into short lengths.

Roast Lobster.

PARBOIL one large lobster; lift it out of the water, rub it over with butter; place it in a hot dish before the fire. Baste well with butter until the butter is in a fine froth. Serve very hot.

Fricassee of Lobster—Two medium sized lobsters; one pint of cream or, if preferred, Bechamel sauce; juice of half a lemon; one-half teaspoonful salt; one-half teaspoonful pepper, one-half nutmeg.

Parboil the lobsters; remove the meat from the tail and claws; cut the meat into small pieces; put into a stewpan with the cream or the Bechamel sauce; cover the pan closely and stew as long a time as was required to parboil the lobster. Just as it boils up stir in quickly the lemon juice and remove from the fire. Serve very hot.

Lobster Salad.

FIRST boil the lobster. Then pick it out and serve with lettuce, a few sprigs of watercress and a little English mustard. Make a French dressing of equal parts of olive oil and vinegar, and a dash of salt and pepper. Lobster served in this way is far more digestible than with mayonnaise sauce.

Lobster Balls.

ONE hen lobster, two eggs, one-half cupful of fine breadcrumbs, two tablespoonfuls butter, one teaspoonful of mixed salt, pepper and cayenne.

Take out the meat and pound it in a mortar with the coral and spawn. Mix with it not quite an equal quantity of breadcrumbs and the seasoning. Bind the whole with the butter, which has been warmed almost to melting. Roll the mixture into little balls a little less than the size of a hen's egg. Brush them over with hen egg. Cover them with breadcrumbs and fry them lightly. Drain the grease from them and serve very hot on a napkin.

My Secrets of Beauty.

No. 65—APRIL—the Friend of Beauty

By Mme. Lina Cavalieri, the Most Famous Living Beauty.

TO-DAY Mme. Cavalieri explains why April is indeed the friend of beauty and tells her readers how they may profit by that friendship. She advises every young girl to provide herself with a "storm suit," so that she may improve her hair, her figure and her complexion by long walks in the April showers. She says: "On my estate in France I discard the skirt, wearing only knickerbockers." She shows that in April the skin has sufficient moisture and requires a smaller quantity of cold cream and that only of the simplest. She gives some of her valuable collection of toilet formulae, including those of a famous court beauty.

"After a walk hurry home and get under a shower."

By Mme. Lina Cavalieri.

IF I were asked what months are most favorable to feminine beauty I should answer that they were the late Spring months, and that April is the best friend of beauty of all the year.

The cold winds of Winter and early Spring, that roughened and made brittle the hair, have passed. No longer are the natural oils of the skin dried by them, destroying the fine texture of the skin and making its satin-like ideal seem far off.

The stomach has revolted against the six months' regimen of rich and heavy food, and craves as its due the light and palatable green things.

Beauty by natural selection seeks the early salads. She feasts on that nourishing, appetizing dish that is one of the first signs that Spring has come. She craves fruits and has a growing distaste for the sweets on which she has too freely feasted during the Winter. April is the equinox of health and beauty. It marks a change of tastes, a change of habits, an utter "right about face" in the manner of living.

The weather has tempted her to laziness and its ensuing fatness of figure and heaviness of face. She has stayed in doors too much. She has motored or driven or patronized the street cars, when she should have sat, which is preferred, or any other way walked. She has retired late and arisen most sloth do so. If you can have it made late. Her figure has become too heavy, her by your own tailor at the better. The skirt face too heavy, her complexion too dark. should be very short, from four to six inches Her hair is rough and brittle. It is time for from the ground, and should be even all her beauty's sake to turn over a new leaf. around, so that the back of the skirt will not sag and spoil the neatness of the frock.

The best beginning is to provide yourself with the right sort of costume for daily walks in the rain. If you have a choice between walking in the morning when the rain is falling or in the afternoon, when the sun is shining, choose the morning. There is but one caution: Prepare well for this walk.

Every girl should have a "storm suit." This entails no heavy expense. If you can afford to buy a smart new serge or cravenette, high rubber boots, are needed for the complete storm costume. No hat is better than the Alpine of soft felt, with a ribbon or scarf of washable silk around its crown. Strong garments should be worn, for that physician who said: "Always keep your pulses warm" gave admirable advice. If the ankles and wrists are warm the rest of the body is not liable to become chilled.

Don't wear a veil. Let April do its beneficent work upon the complexion. Let the rain beat upon it as much as it likes. You will be a little mortified to find how much cleaner your face will look. And you had thought, too, that you were most careful about your skin. Probably you were, but the April showers have most searching powers. They seek out infinitesimal dust that cold cream and rosewater and distilled water have overlooked.

Walk steadily. Don't loiter in these showers. Don't carry an umbrella. Walk sturdily and briskly, as though you were hurrying somewhere and had not a moment to lose.

Don't stop at shops. Don't go into a confectionery. Don't let any one persuade you to stop on the street corner. Your blood is up from this walk. Keep it up. Don't invite a cold by slackening for a moment your speed. Walk at a five-mile an hour gait.

When you have walked your two, three, four or even five miles in the rain hurry home and get quickly out of the clothes and into a tubful of tepid water or under the shower, or turn a spray from the bathtub faucet upon yourself. Rub briskly with a soft, but long-napped towel. Then dress quickly and warmly and go about the other duties of the day. If you are trying to reduce your flesh don't lie down after these April walks.

If your hair has been wet or even damp when you end the walk, give it a thorough toweling, rubbing the scalp dry with the tips of the fingers. If you live in the country it would be well to let your hair hang while on these walks. An April shower is a superlative shampoo.

If there is no cistern in your home put foot tubs and pails out to catch the April rain. Put it in glazed jars or large bottles and keep them corked. Use this for all your face baths while it lasts.

While in Summer the cold creams should contain oil or acid to be supplemented by tan and freckle lotion, and while in the Winter the drying efforts of the cold winds should be offset by creams containing much oil, the April weather supplies all the necessary moisture, and the sun has not yet become ardent enough to tan or freckle the cheeks. In April, then, there is need of a smaller quantity of cold cream and it should be of the simplest and purest sort.

White wax, one ounce.
Spermaceti, one ounce.

Also this:

Mix the rosewater and benzoin, shaking them well. Pour in the glycerine slowly, a few drops at a time and keep on shaking the mixture.

So the moisture of April and the softness of the air make few other aids than the natural oils of cuticle, cleanliness and plenty of exercise out of doors necessary. But if the hair is persistently weak one April among a finer eleven months cannot wholly restore it. Weak hair is often broken by the weight of the head and contact with the pillow at night. To prevent this some women resort to nightcaps. Now nightcaps, as usually made, of muslin or silk, tend weighted by ribbons, are an evil. The short hair upon the scalp can be protected by a large-meshed net worn loose and fastened by a rubber cord, or, better, a narrow ribbon.

If you did not make at the beginning of the year a resolution to use as few hairpins as possible, make it now and keep it all the rest of your life, for hairpins, especially the wire sort, scratch the scalp. Change the manner of wearing the hair, so that that spot on the scalp where the pins have lain in the old coiffure may rest. Hairpins are as great a menace to a woman's scalp as the wearing of a heavy unventilated hat is to a man's.

To soften the hair and give it a greater brightness that famous beauty Lola Montez gave this advice.

Beat up the whites of four eggs into a froth. Rub that froth thoroughly into the roots of the hair. Allow it to dry upon the scalp. Then turn upon the hair a small rubber spray made of equal parts of rosewater and bay rum, washing the hair thoroughly down from scalp to root with this spray.

The one-time fashionable "honey water" is still extensively used in Europe for washing the hair. It leaves also a perfume that to exotic tastes is delightful. Lola Montez recommended this luxurious wash:

Orange flower water, four ounces.
Essence of bergamot, two drops.
Essence of ambergris, one drop.

Miss Montez, who was a dancer and actress before she became a court beauty, tells of an actress friend who had warded off the advance of that always distressing mark of age, gray hair, by treating her hair three times a week with this:

Oxide of bismuth, three drams.
Fresh lard, three drams.

Two other old recipes copied into my private collection from that of the lovely Montez rewarded her and many other famous beauties for their use by exceedingly lovely hair.

Lemon juice one-half pint.
Salts of tartar, three drams.
Tincture of cantharides, fifteen drops.

For the prevention of baldness she had secured this recipe for what is said to be the famous Baron Dupuytren pomade.

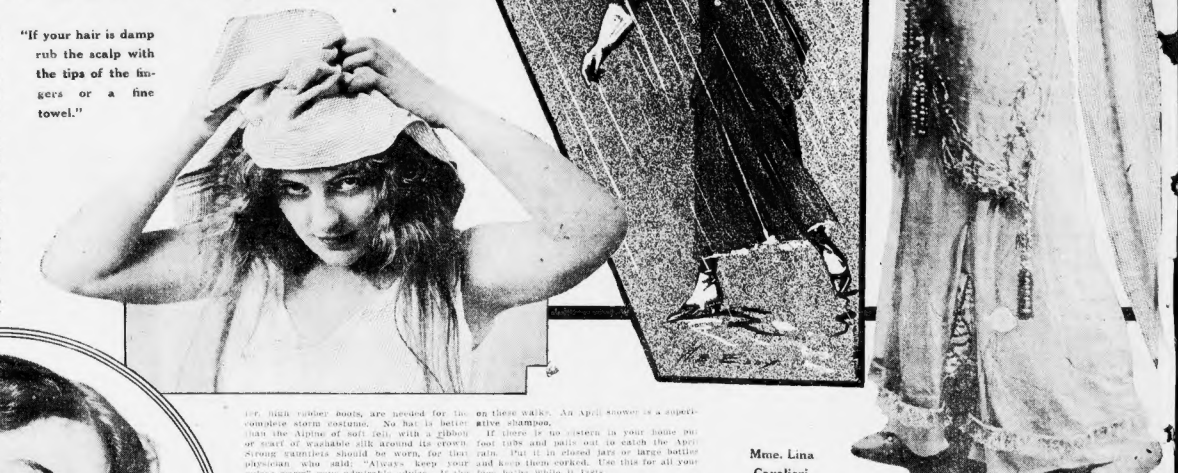
Spirits of rosemary, two ounces.
Spirits of nutmeg, one-half ounce.

The beauties of that time contrived to steep the boxwood shavings continuously at a temperature of sixty degrees for two weeks. The liquid was then strained and to it were added the other ingredients. Kept in a cool place and corked, the mixture was applied to the scalp, rubbing it well in every night and morning.



"If your hair is damp rub the scalp with the tips of the fingers or a fine towel."

"In April there is need of a smaller quantity of cold cream and it should be of the simplest sort."

Mme. Lina Cavalieri.

WHO KILLED PROFESSOR GREER?

THE MYSTERY OF THE RED ROOM---By William Le Queux.

In Which I Am Again Perplexed.

"I HAD previously sent Antonio to Italy for a holiday, deeming it best in the circumstances that he should be absent. Elmsleyton and Sussex place you were rang up on the telephone. The message caused you great alarm. What was it?"

"Antonio told me of his suspicions that the dead man was not the Professor, was his ready.

"And on your second visit to this house you signalled by the blind of the drawing room, as the Professor had done?"

"I signalled to Pietro, who was out in the fog, that you were still with me. He had, of course, been with Ethelwynn to Putney street, and I was about to go there."

"And, tell me, what connection had he, Flynn, with the affair?" she demanded, utterly astounded at the very remarkable story unfolded.

"Listen—and I'll tell you the whole truth," Kirk said, and, pausing, he looked at both father and daughter, as though to obtain their consent to break further revelations, and thereby elucidate what was certainly the most extraordinary mystery of modern times.

What I had heard was startling penal anxiety, travelling constantly from place to place, in the hope that you would still regard me as the imposter. While you believed that, I had nothing to fear, Mr. daughter has, indeed, threatened to commit suicide if the public are told that I killed the man who tried to seduce her secret. To her, your silence means love and life!"

"Yes, Mr. Hotford," declared the girl resolutely. "Leonard does not know the truth. If he did, he would surely discard me as the daughter of a murderer. Leonard is too much a gentleman to think such a thing. He would never again hold up my head. I believe implicitly in my dear father's version of the affair—yet his enemies surely would not! Will you, at least, give me your promise?" she implored.

I hesitated. I was not altogether clear upon many points.

"When I have seen my wife and come safled with her, I will give you an answer, Miss Greer," I said. "I admit that what I have learnt to-day has held me in surprise and removed many doubts from my mind."

Kirk was explaining how the tiny golden doll, the little charm which had been discovered after the tragedy, had been traced through the well-known jeweller in Bond street, who made it, to the Professor as purchaser, and how Greer had admitted buying it for the purpose of giving it to Ethelwynn to hang upon her bracelet. But he had lost it on the previous day. Therefore it was not a clue to the assassin, as we had at first suspected.

Marrying Them Free to Boom The Town

The Odd Device of an Oregon Community to Boost Its Population---and Some Other Queer Ways of Inducing Immigration.

Mrs. Balter's Indian Maid.

A Bachelor's Home in the North-West.

OUT in Oregon they're having great success with apples, but getting so short of nature's own product, the baby, in some sections, that the authorities and some of the older citizens who do not consider it incumbent upon them to take all the responsibility of "replenishing the earth" are becoming alarmed lest a fruitful country go to waste for want of people to nurture it.

The citizens who live in these sections have done very well, they claim, but the apple trees are getting ahead of the babies and so a call for help has been sent broadcast. The call comes from Eugene, Oregon, and is issued to "those whom it may concern," i. e., young persons who have been going together for some time---object matrimony.

But for fear that there may not be enough of these couples who are seriously threatened with matrimony they are encouraging young people of both sexes to come there with the assurance that in the matrimonial clearing house which would thus be automatically established, they can certainly find an affinity before the mating season is over. Any one may come, and no questions asked.

The authorities in Eugene, however, are shrewd enough to know that the invitation to come out there and get married would in itself be of little effect without some other inducement. People can get married anywhere. Young couples in New York, Illinois or San Francisco don't have to go to Oregon to get married, and the chances are that many of them would never get married if they had to go that far, because the travelling expenses are considerable, and some of them might change their minds before they got there. So the keen Westerner has put a little bait on their cannibal hook.

There may be no royal road to learning, and the way of the transgressor may be hard (although we can't speak from experience), but in Eugene, Ore., the path of the lover stretches out straight, wide and smooth across a land of promise toward the glowing sun of success.

Mr. William Balter, the First Bridegroom.

In the first place, they'll marry you (we speak impersonally) for nothing. You won't have to pay any marriage fee, and the minister will have to look to another world for his emolument. Ministers elsewhere may raise their hands in horror at the desecration of this old custom of taking advantage of a man when he's down, but in Eugene they're going to have none of it. All offices are to be removed, the cannibal garden gate is to be thrown wide open, no toll is to be charged, and the "clive up all ye who enter here" sign has been taken down from above it.

But before two can pass through this gate as one, they've got to agree to live in Eugene and do what they can toward making it a big city. The authorities don't want to make a Gretna Green out of it---they want to make a large, thriving community out of it, and they're not going to allow couples to come there and get the benefit of a free ceremony and then go and kill the soil, etc., elsewhere.

Many Western towns, with characteristic audaciousness have resorted to various devices to swell their voting lists, but this is the first instance where a town has formed an alliance with the little god of love in furthering their schemes. It is bold and unconventional, but is proving effective, for already there is pouring into Eugene into a stream of men who have so many of Cupid's arrows sticking out of them that they look as though they'd been living on cactus for six months.

A Flathead Valley in Montana sent the call throughout the country not long ago, and a little while before that Muskogee, Oklahoma made a bid for young couples. Their prospectuses consisted merely of a glowing description of the country---free from hurricanes and insects, and adapted for the raising of anything---cotton, wheat and children."

But Eugene determined to offer something more definite in the form of inducement, something tangible, and so they have advertised that they will remove all pecuniary barriers and make marriage as easy as possible for those who have a leaning that way. Nor it that all. The plan extended to trusting swains and swainesses by the Eugenians contains something besides a welcome, a free marriage license and a frank at the ministers. It holds a cornucopia brimming over with sweet promises. A wonderfully rich soil easy of cultivation, a healthy climate, assistance in procuring a little green cottage with ivy clinging about the door and a flying start in life are among the list of good things prepared by the boomers of Eugene.

The responsibility of the success of the scheme is in the hands of a body of men banded together under the name of "The Boomers' Club." They have advertised in many of the metropolitan papers throughout the country and the idea is already bearing fruit. The club has been deluged with letters from all over the country asking for further particulars, while many have already gone to the town satisfied without further specifications.

A lady from Pennsylvania writes to know if there is in Eugene a middle-aged man with red whiskers and an artificial leg. Just why these qualities are so desirable is explained in her letter, which states that her first husband answered to this description, and "her Ben was such a darling that she could never love another unless he looks like he did."

Another woman "fesses right up to forty-five winters and the same number of hard Falls. She states that she is now old enough to know her own mind and thinks she should, even at this late date, perform her duty to herself and to society by entering the state of wedlock. She says that she was once foolish and romantic, but that now she is done with such frivolity, and does not aspire to wealth or a handsome husband. During her years of single-blessedness she has whiled away the hours by devotion to three intelligent pet monkeys, and a man to be her husband has got to be fond of these and show them every kindness and consideration. The authorities of Eugene have not deemed it wise to withhold the much hope of her, but promise to do the best they can.

One man from a small town in Missouri, better off than many, already possesses a wife and children. He is sixty-one and she is seventy-five. He has written anxiously to know if there is any age limit on the offer. He says he would like to locate in Eugene and grow up with the place. The authorities feel for him, but fear he will not meet the requirements.

Another man writes: "I am an honorable man and am forty-five, height five feet four inches, weight 150 pounds, dark complexion, Presbyterian. Have never been married (but disappointed). Have a diploma I inherit and same can be easily verified. My habits are that I use tobacco in pipe form and fall off the handle occasionally, but otherwise have a splendid disposition. I have a good home and another personal property, to wit: the homestead in which I live (which is paid for), a good deal in cash and an engagement ring valued at $125. You may refer me to any estimable lady from twenty-five to thirty-five years, of good moral character (no beauties need apply). If you can make good and fill this order by June, you may count on another job of locating and settling you in Eugene. The above is the truth in every respect to the best of my knowledge and belief."

The whole country-side is discussing the unusual offer and whether or not Eugene will make good is a subject of much speculation. In everything it has previously attempted it has succeeded and its optimistic citizens look to see it blossom out immediately.

Miss Mollie Symonds, of Butte, was the first woman to take advantage of the Eugene offer, and William Balter, with whom she had been strolling lately under the bright Butte moon, was the first bridegroom. Just to show their appreciation for the initiative of the couple the Boosters gave the bride an Indian maid for an attendant. The bridegroom drew a calf.

To all applicants the Boosters disclaim all responsibility for finding mates or for the mates that they do find. Following is part of the prospectus which they send to persons answering advertisements:

All good and worthy men and women who are marriageable, but lacking in opportunities to form desirable connections will find opportunities here. Notwithstanding the universal habit of surrounding marriage with a halo of romance, the question is practical, and the desire of worthy women for a home and a husband, and of a single man for a sensible, affectionate helpmate, is in every way praiseworthy.

"In the Far West are many men who have made good and who have secured a home. In the Far East are women and girls who would marry if suited. There is a booster club of young business men in this city who will pay the wedding expenses of newcomers who will marry and settle here. We are not operating a matrimonial bureau, and we have nothing for sale. Those interested may communicate with the undersigned.

"(Signed) C. A. Freeman, manager, Eugene, Lake County, Oregon."

Eugene is one of the prettiest towns in the State. Its chief bid for fame, until the present, has been the possession of the big State university, which is attended by more than a thousand students. It has virtually no foreign element and no paupers, and the saloons were legislated out of existence several years ago.

$5 a month buys a FLORIDA FARM

Own a farm in sunny Florida, where you can raise from three to five crops a year. The small payment of $5.00 per month secures one of these farms. As an investment it will pay you big profits, or you can work the farm yourself and make as high as $5,000 A YEAR.

Previous farming experience not necessary. Any one can do simple gardening, and some of the most successful farmers here raise only garden products which mature during the Winter months and bring high prices. This intensive farming requires no expensive machinery. This is another thing that makes this a rare opportunity for the clerk, business man, tradesman and the men of small means. This is an exceptional chance for any one to gain quick independence, make money and secure a home in the most delightful section of Florida by payment of only a few dollars a month.

3 TO 5 CROPS A YEAR

This prolific land will grow from three to five crops each year, with a profit of from $100 to $800 an acre. Land will raise sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, Bermudas, celery, lettuce, cabbage, tobacco, tomatoes, peanuts, pecans, strawberries, oranges, figs, grapes, rice, oats, cotton, corn, sugar cane—besides being ideal for stock, dairying, bees and poultry. Near big markets, three railroads, eight minutes from Lake City, 50 miles from Jacksonville—in the established profit belt. Climate is fine, water pure; health, fresh air and sunshine abound; beautiful lakes; fishing and hunting galore. This is one of the few instances in which good land can still be procured at a low price. Lake City Board of Trade, Mayor, bankers, Congressmen and farmers will vouch for our statements regarding this beautiful land. The price of this land is $25 per acre, but the first allotment will be sold at $15 per acre, cash or little monthly payments. It can't last long at that price.

SEND BACK THIS COUPON TO-DAY.

If you get at the real facts of this proposition you will realize that this is the ideal opportunity for the wage-earner—the fair, easy, reasonable way for you to invest a small part of your monthly salary—to get away from the routine of working for wages, and get started on an independent, financial success of your own. If you are ambitious, enterprising, willing to consider a fair, attractive business proposition, don't delay filling out and returning this coupon at once

THIS little girl is dressed so that she can have the benefit of outdoor sports and games with comfort and ease, without the worry of spoiling lace undergarments.

The bloomers make petticoats unnecessary. The dress hangs straight from the shoulders and is confined by a belt at the waist. It is cut on simple lines, and may be developed with long or short sleeves and high or low neck.

The pattern is cut in four sizes, 4, 6, 8 and 10 years, and requires 4½ yards of 36-inch material for the 8-year-size.

White linen was used for this model, with embroidery in self-color. Flouncing and bands of embroidery or insertion would also be very appropriate for this model. The dress may be made in straight or fancy outline and worn with or without a guimpe. The pattern is cut in four sizes, 4, 6, 8 and 10 years, and requires 3⅝ yards of 24-inch material for the 8-year size.

To obtain either of these two desirable patterns, fill in the accompanying coupon and mail, with 10 cents for each, in silver or stamps, to

"Don't Envy a Good Complexion; Use POMPEIAN and Have One"

YOU will never know the reasons for Pompeian popularity—how clean you can be and look—how refreshed, healthy and wholesome in appearance—until you test Pompeian. Rub it on your moistened face and well into the pores; a few moments of massaging, and out comes the cream many shades darker than when applied. You are astonished. You never suspected that so much dirt could stay in the skin, despite soap-and-water scrubbing.

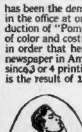
Glance in your mirror—the old sallow "dead skin" appearance has gone, and in place is a skin with the freshness and smoothness of perfect health and youth.

POMPEIAN MASSAGE CREAM

50,000 Dealers Sell Pompeian

"Don't envy a good complexion; use Pompeian and have one." If you wish to try before you buy, send 6c in coin or stamps for a trial jar. Or read Art Panel offer below, and send 16c for trial jar and a copy of "Pompeian Beauty."

Art Panel Offer: Our lavender-and-gold 1910 Art Panel is 3 feet high and 7½ inches wide. So great and persistent has been the demand for "Pompeian Beauty" that we have had as many as 75,000 orders in the office at one time, and were forced to order edition after edition. The small reproduction of "Pompeian Beauty" as here shown gives but a faint idea of the exquisite detail of color and costume. Each copy of "Pompeian Beauty" goes through the press 15 times in order that her original beauty may be faithfully reproduced. Hence no magazine or newspaper in America is able to print "Pompeian Beauty" in her true and beautiful colors, since 3 or 4 printings is all that the best magazine can afford to make. "Pompeian Beauty" is the result of 15 printings! No advertising on the front of the panel—only the artist's name plate, as you see in the picture. Sent for 10c. in coin or stamps. For 16c. we will send a trial jar of Pompeian Massage Cream, the standard face cream, and "Pompeian Beauty," 3 feet high and in lavender-and-gold. 1910 calendar on rear of panel. You may order one or both. Money gladly refunded if you are not completely satisfied. Clip the coupon now before you forget it. Don't bother to write letter.



For Men: Pompeian Massage Cream takes away soreness after shaving. By removing the soap from the pores it allays the irritation so distressing to those to whom a thick, fast-growing beard makes constant shaving a necessity. Pompeian invigorates the skin. After a day's dusty work or sport Pompeian cleanses and refreshes marvelously. A clear skin and clean looks form a good introduction into society or business circles.

A TRIAL JAR sent for 6c. in coin or stamps. Why not send 16c. today for Art Panel and Trial Jar? Read description above. Then use coupon.

MOTOR BOATING

THE NATIONAL MAGAZINE OF MOTOR BOATING

A Friend, a Help and an Advisor

To Every Man Who Runs a Boat or Wants to

A magazine that will enable you to cut down your expenses and at the same time to increase your comfort and enjoyment in your boat. Month by month it brings right to your finger tips all that is progressive, interesting and helpful in the Motor Boating World.

This broad experience is crystallized in the practical, suggestive pages of MoToR Boating. Its special departments are "Motor Boating Navigation," "New Things for the Motor Boatman," "Yard and Shop," etc., etc. Each page has some helpful hint, some practical suggestion that will do its share in making your boat more truly a source of unqualified enjoyment. From cover to cover there are no articles to be skipped, no pages to be turned blindly. Every contribution will either help or entertain—usually both.

FREE and all charges prepaid, we will forward you Goldie's world famous treatise, "From Novice to Pilot," including a complete exposition on how to run a motor boat. Merely write your name on a slip of paper, enclose a dollar bill and mail to-day at our risk. The February issue will be particularly good. Therefore please be sure to mail your dollar to-day—now. Remember you thus secure both twelve big issues of MoToR Boating's helpful, suggestive pages, and also Goldie's famous book.
